WIFE OF VICTIM AND SHERIFF'S SON ACCUSED BY JURY

DIED SOON AFTER EATING AT HOME

Ludowici, Ga., November 15.—(AP) Mrs. Sue Delk and J. D. Stafford, Jr., son of the sheriff of Liberty county, today were charged with the murder of Stoney E. Delk, the woman's husband, in an indictment returned by a special grand jury which reopened the case after the couple had been released following a recent preliminary hearing. The grand jury acted on a petition of citizens who believed the fatal illness of Delk was of a suspicious nature.

Delk, who operated a garage and automobile repair shop here, was 30 years of age, while his wife is 28. Stafford is about 25 years of age, according to acquaintances here. It is reported that the younger man and Mrs. Delk were keeping company for some time prior to the death of Delk. The Delks had been married several years. There were no children.

Died After Meal.

According to evidence given at the preliminary hearing and later again placed before the special session of the Long county grand jury, Delk had been ailing for several days before he died on September 18, last. On that day, it is said, he ate a meal prepared for him by his wife and im-

SEVENTEEN DROWN IN EFFORT TO SAVE CREW OF STEAMER

London, November 15.—(AP)—Great Britain's grief over the losses in the Vestris disaster was deepened today by another marine tragedy which cost 17 lives and almost wiped out the male population of Rye harbor on the Sussex coast.

The dead were 14 men of the regular crew of the Rye lifeboat and three volunteers. The entire company perished in a gallant performance of duty in an effort to bring aid to a vessel in distress off their coast.

To make the tragedy even more poignant, the lifeboat was swamped by high seas within sight of the mothers, wives and sisters of the men. Crowding the beach they saw the boat upset and saw their loved ones hurled into the waters.

The Rye life crew launched their boat at 5 o'clock this morning to go to the aid of the wrecked Latvian steamer Alice. Scarcely was the boat launched when it was learned on shore that the steamer's crew already had been rescued by the German steamer Smyrna.

BETTER SCHOOLS AND ROADS URGED BY W. D. ANDERSON

Prominent Macon Manufacturer Tells Methodist Conference He Favors Great State Bond Issue.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Appeal for a state-wide bond issue for improved roads and an adequate educational system for Georgia featured the night session of the North Georgia Methodist conference now in session at the Wesley Memorial church. The night was devoted to the matter of education under Christian influences. A large audience listening with earnest attention to the address on that subject delivered by Col. W. D. Anderson, of Macon, president of the Bibb Manufacturing company, and a trustee of both the state university and Wesleyan college. Judge John S. Candler, president of the conference board, was in the chair. The session was featured by music rendered by the "Rainbow Quartet," of Gainesville, and an address by Dr. J. Marvin Culbreath, of Nashville. Dr. E. F. Dempsey, secretary of the board, read the board's report.

The speaker unequivocally announced his conviction that Christian education is the greatest need of the world today and his belief that it is the greatest force in the world. He declared there is urgent need for more education and better, and urged it to be the religious duty and obligation to provide for each child adequate education to equip it for life.

South Lags in Education.

Colonel Anderson asserted that the south is woefully behind in its educational program, and said that this tardiness has been a handicap in the advancement of the section. Since education is a productive force, he concluded that the material prosperity of a section can be measured by its investments in educational equipment, and contrasted Georgia's situation with other sections where educational facilities are far in advance of those

Principals in the probe begun Thursday of conditions at the Atlanta federal prison are shown in the above series of pictures. A special congressional committee appeared and will continue the sessions in secret meetings to be held today, when it is said Thomas C. Wilcox and C. C. Spear, investigators of the department of justice, acting under the order of Mrs. Mable Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prisons, will be summoned before the committee. Wilcox will be quizzed specifically regarding the alleged planting of a department of justice agent in the institution, it was reported Thursday night.

In the top picture, left to right, are Dr. Charles T. Nellans, prison physician; Congressman John G. Cooper, Youngstown, Ohio, chairman of the congressional probing body; Congressman Thomas M. Bell, Georgia; Captain Albert H. Connor, superintendent of prisons of the United States; Congressman William F. Kopp, Iowa; Congressman John Taber, Auburn, N. Y.; William A. Mason, legal adviser of the committee, and Warden John W. Snook, of the Atlanta institution.

CHEST WORKERS TO MEET TONIGHT

Inspiration and Instruction Will Be Supplied Volunteers; General Appeal Opens Monday.

Inspiration and instruction for the task of seeking Atlanta's support for the great work of social welfare and helpfulness planned in 1929 by the Community Chest and its 23 agencies will be given tonight to an army of volunteer workers.

Assembling at the roof garden of the Ansley hotel, the workers in the campaign for public support which opens Monday, will hear from their leaders the aims and methods of the Chest and the agencies supported through it. They will hear interpreted the policy of the Chest organization—"not only to lift, but to build." They will hear the need that exists for complete public support and sympathy if the community's work of "constructive philanthrophy" is to be effective.

More than 1,000 volunteers have been called for the campaign, to present to every man and woman in Atlanta an opportunity to participate in the social service campaign, which has been called by H. M. Atkinson, president of the Chest, and Henry Heinz, general chairman of the campaign, the obligation of every individual and of the community in general.

:: 24 HOURS IN WATER AFTER SHOCK ::

Brave as Husband Died

BY LYLE C. WILSON,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Norfolk, Va., November 15.—One of the most touching stories connected with the sinking of the ill-fated Lamport and Holt liner Vestris was revealed here tonight when the battleship Wyoming dropped anchor in Hampton Roads with eight survivors on board, including Mrs. Terukio Inouye, wife of the Japanese military attache at Buenos Aires.

Mme. Inouye was carried ashore on a stretcher completely broken by nearly 24 hours in the water and from the shock of seeing her husband die while she and two other women struggled to keep his head above the waves.

She was unable to talk, but from the sailors and officers of the Wyoming was learned the story of her devotion and bravery

Major Inouye and his wife were on board the Lifeboat No. 8, which was swamped and righted six times after being launched. When those in the boat were thrown into the water, Mme. Inouye aided her husband, who was exhausted from bailing water all night.

Tied Life Belts in Circle.

The major and Mme Inouye floated to two women, Mrs. Dolores Doril, of Brooklyn and Mrs. Elviria F. Rua, of New Bedford, Mass. The three women tied their life belts into a circle as an improvised raft and placed Major Inouye in the center. The three held to the belts with one hand and kept the major afloat by holding him with the other.

After 15 hours in the water Major Inouye's head dropped. His wife frantically pushed it into the air and out of the water. It dropped again. The major was dead.

Mme. Inouye knew her husband was dead but refused to release her grasp on his body. The three women floated together with the dead man in the center until hours later the grey hulk of the battleship bore down on them and a small rescue boat was launched.

Still Mme. Inouye refused to release the body of her husband. Kindly but firmly, sailors from the Wyoming pried her hand loose and took her on board. The body of her husband was left to float on the life preservers as many living were still struggling in the water and needed the immediate attention of the Wyoming sailors.

Collapses on Deck.

Mme. Inouye collapsed on the deck of the Wyoming and was under constant medical attention until the battleship anchored in Hampton Roads.

Those on board the Wyoming besides Mme. Inouye, Mrs. Rua and Mrs. Doril were Mrs. Marion Calvin Batten, Brooklyn; Mrs. Mary Ulrich, New York, and three negro members of the Vestris crew, all from the Barbadoes, West Indies.

Through Captain Kusunoki, assistant military attache at the Japanese embassy at Washington, Mme. Inouye gave the following statement to the United News here tonight:

"I want to express my appreciation for the kindness and courtesy of the United States navy and all concerned in our rescue. At first my husband and I were in a life boat together. It turned over twice, and we were in the water more than twenty hours. I was with my husband, side by side, until the last moment."

Captain Kusunaki said Mme.

BOY, 8, IS KILLED BY FALLING ROCK

Playing Under Stone Ledge on English Avenue Sidewalk, Joseph V. Guice Is Badly Crushed.

His head crushed by a fragment of a large rock, Joseph Virlyn Guice, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Guice, of 596 Chestnut street, was almost instantly killed early Thursday night when he was caught under a small avalanche of stone and dirt while at play on English avenue, near Pelham street.

According to accounts given police by witnesses, the lad, with several companions, had been at play for several minutes before the tragedy on a ledge of rock which jutted out over the sidewalk. Suddenly the Guice boy jumped from the ledge and stood on the sidewalk below, looking up at his playmates several feet above his head.

Felt Rock Moving.

A companion, Johnny Wallace, started to lower himself off the rock and as he was hanging by his hands, preparatory to dropping to the walk, he apparently felt the great rock move and dropped quickly to the sidewalk, yelling to Joseph to run. The Guice boy, not seeming to grasp the import of his friend's words, hesitated for a moment and was caught under the

FEDERAL AGENTS ARE SUBPOENAED FOR PRISON PROBE

Congressmen Will Ask All Facts in Connection With Alleged 'Planting' of Spy in Pen.

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK.

Thomas C. Wilcox and C. C. Spear, department of justice agents conducting an investigation of the Atlanta Federal penitentiary under orders of Mrs. Mable Walker Willebrandt, themselves will be investigated by the congressional committee now surveying conditions at various federal institutions.

Both were subpoenaed to appear before a secret session of the committee to begin at 9:30 o'clock this morning, and they will be quizzed concerning the alleged planting of a federal agent in the Atlanta institution to spy on Warden John W. Snook.

This announcement was made Thursday night following the close of the first day's session of the congressmen, who made a thorough inspection of the pen and the dairy farms and reported that physical conditions are in "excellent" shape.

Probe "Espionage System."

Today the committee will turn its attention to administrative matters, and the presence of Wilcox and Spear, heads of a group of government investigators probing the prison under Mrs. Willebrandt's direction, has been asked in order that the congressional committee may have the facts regarding "initiation of an alleged espionage system on one of the wardens."

Action of the congressmen was taken after Congressman Thomas M. Bell, of the ninth district, furnished them with information purporting to show that a prisoner, "Peter Hanson" was committed from Detroit on a bogus charge of having violated the prohibition laws, and that in reality the man was William Larsen, a department of justice agent. Mr. Bell also had in his possession documents setting out that while "Hanson" was a prisoner he communicated with an Ed Sweitzer, of Detroit. Sweitzer's address has been identified as the same one where Wilcox lived.

Wilcox was formerly head of the department's bureau at Detroit, and Larsen is alleged to have been his chief. After "Hanson" served about three months of his sentence he applied for parole, but the Atlanta parole board declined to recommend him. He later was transferred to Leavenworth, it is said, under special

'Uncle Bose,' Oldest State Convict, Dies

Milledgeville, Ga., November 15.—(AP)—"Uncle Bose," Georgia's oldest prisoner, and the man who wouldn't accept a pardon, is dead.

Early Thursday morning "Uncle Bose"—whose name was J. D. S. Taylor—suffered a heart attack and died behind the bars of the state prison in which he had served 39 years of a life sentence and from which he refused to leave when Governor John M. Slaton offered him a pardon nearly fifteen years ago. Instead, he asked for a new trial.

"Uncle Bose" was 86 years old when he died. He entered the prison in 1889, but soon after his arrival he acquired the cognoman of "Uncle Bose," which remained his appellation until his death. He had been sentenced to serve a life sentence after having been convicted in the Wilkes county superior court in 1888 of having killed two men. He protested his innocence but the verdict was upheld and he began his servitude. While in the state prison he became a model prisoner and served as a trusty for many years.

At the time he was offered the pardon "Uncle Bose" said that he did not want his freedom, all he wanted was a new trial so that he could vindicate his name. His request for a new trial denied him, he declared that he would not leave the prison until he was given one "pardon or no pardon," and he kept his word.

Funeral services for "Uncle Bose" were held in the Friendship church at Washington, Ga., this afternoon. Interment followed in the church cemetery.

UNABLE TO LAUNCH ROTTEN LIFEBOATS

BY UNITED NEWS.

Ninety-three lives of the 327 aboard the Lamport and Holt steamship Vestris, which sank Monday, remained unaccounted for late Thursday, according to revised figures.

Twenty-one bodies, the majority not identified, and 213 survivors have been landed by rescue ships. Possibility that any of the remaining 93 persons had been picked up by vessels without wireless and might be landed later was slight, and it was generally conceded that they should be numbered among the dead.

Three coast guard cutters remained near the scene of the disaster today, but whether any bodies were aboard them was unknown. They were the Davis, the Porter and the Manning, which previously had reported eight bodies taken from the water, but it was thought possible these had been transferred to the Shaw, which reported 13 aboard today.

It had only two late Wednesday.

VESSELS QUIT SEARCH FOR VESTRIS DEAD.

Norfolk, Va., November 15.—(AP)—The grim search of the sea for survivors and bodies of victims of the steamer Vestris disaster was ended tonight.

Two coast guard cutters which had been retained on the scene near the steamer's foundering were ordered to discontinue their search and to return to Norfolk. They were the Manning and the Mascoutin.

SURVIVORS CRITICIZE VESTRIS OFFICERS.

New York, November 15.—(AP)—Six survivors of the foundered steamer Vestris today charged under oath before a United States commissioner that the disaster was marked by entire lack of discipline, that neither officers nor men were equipped to meet the emergency, and that lives were needlessly wasted by rotting lifeboats that no one knew how to handle.

When the distress signal was at last sent out, hours late they said, the crew was left to its own devices and

SCHWAB VISIONS DIXIE IN INDUSTRY EXPANSION

South Has Greatest Chance of Any Section, Says Steel Magnate.

Edgewater Gulf Hotel, Miss., November 15.—(AP)—The south has one of the greatest opportunities for industrial development of any section of the country, in the opinion of Charles M. Schwab, father of the structural steel industry, who is here attending the convention of the American Institute of Steel Construction.

"I believe the south realizes it and is progressing as rapidly as safety permits," he said. "The south, particularly, is equipped for the manufacture of lighter materials.

"Already it excels in the textiles and is taking its place industrially as it has held its place agriculturally."

Looking out over the Gulf of Mexico from his hotel window the steel magnate waved his arm up and down the coast and declared:

"All along here this section has a great opportunity for development. It has climate. It has labor. It has harbors and it is close to the great trade centers of South America.

Hoover Visit Seen Boon.

"South American trade is just developing and the visit of Herbert Hoover will be a great boon to welding the people of these great countries together. It will result in mutual respect and broader trade activities between North and South America.

"For a long time the peoples of South America thought we wished to dominate them. We do not wish to do any such thing. That is remote from our minds. All we want is friendliness and understanding between our nations."

At mention of Hoover his eyes sparkled. "I will tell you that Herbert Hoover will give this country one of the best administrations it ever had. And why? Because the people have confidence in Herbert Hoover. He will carry this country forward.

Sees South Expand.

"The south," he continued, "will continue to grow as it is the logical place for expansion. The south and the west must absorb some of the activities to relieve the congested east."

Mr. Schwab takes great pride in the fact that he is the founder of the structural steel industry.

"I rolled the first steel beam into a building," he declared.

His associates also pointed out that Mr. Schwab recently invented a style of bridge steel manufacture that has revolutionized bridge construction. He did it, they said, against the advice of many of his associates and it proved successful.

The method is explained as providing for the manufacture of a whole beam in the mill for placement on the bridge rather than the building of it by workmen at the bridge site, saving both time and money.

"I play golf every day and feel fit," said Mr. Schwab. As he turned to go be called back: "You may say that I beat Mr. Meighen at golf today." Mr. Meighen is the Right Honorable Arthur Meighen, K. C., former premier of Canada, who is here for the convention.

MYRIAM LANDS 57 VESTRIS SURVIVORS

New York, November 15.—(AP)—All except nine of the known survivors of the Vestris were safely in New York today, the last 57 being brought ashore in Brooklyn early this morning from the French tanker Myriam. The nine others were rescued by the battleship Wyoming, and taken to Norfolk, Va.

The tanker came only to the harbor mouth, anchoring in Gravesend bay, where government tugs went alongside and brought the Vestris passengers ashore. She was bound for Thames-Shaven, England, from New Orleans and did not wish to delay her passage.

Only Eight Passengers.

Of the 57 survivors only eight were passengers, the others being members of the crew.

Most of the passengers were silent concerning Captain Carey's delay of an S O S message, but members of the crew were outspoken in their criticism of their skipper. The S O S should have been sent out hours before it finally was transmitted, they agreed.

Mrs. Cline Slaughter, the only woman passenger on the Myriam, defended the captain's action. "He did his duty, and did his best," she said. She denied the truth of stories told by other passengers that members of the crew rushed the life boats.

Most of the passengers were clad in clothing and wrapped in blankets furnished by the officers and crew of the tanker, Mrs. Slaughter being attired in the captain's trousers.

Thomas R. Edwards, a bedroom steward rescued by the Myriam from a life boat, said that just before the Vestris sank he saw Captain Carey and another man on the bridge, their hands clasped.

Plunges Into Sea.

Together, he said, they walked to the rail. Then the second man plunged into a sea. A big wave hid the Vestris from the life boat for a moment. When it subsided the ship was sinking. Captain Carey had disappeared.

Edwards was firmly convinced that shifting of the coal at least intensified listing of the Vestris, if it did not cause it.

Harry Fay, a Pittsburgh pugilist, who was en route to South America for three bouts, said as soon as he had rested he planned to start again.

Dr. J. Sears, of the Long Island College hospital, the ship's surgeon, declined to talk of the disaster at all, and A. Paterson, of Edmonton, Alta., was almost as reticent. Paterson said he would start again Saturday, on the Lamport & Holt liner Voltaire, of which Captain Carey was to have taken command after the voyage in which he met death.

Boat Picked Up Swimmers.

W. Fields, of New York city, said he had no difficulty in getting on a life boat, and that the boat picked up what swimmers it could.

Members of the crew, dirty, bewhiskered, in clothing stiffened with salt water, were taken in busses to the Seamen's institute in Manhattan.

The Vestris' officers were taken to a Brooklyn hotel and the passengers scattered to various hotels in Brooklyn and New York.

The 49 members of the Vestris' crew whom the Myriam rescued comprised six staff officers, three musicians, 17 members of the steward's force and 23 firemen.

NATIONAL JAYCEE HEAD ADDRESSES ATLANTA CHAMBER

Junior chambers of commerce are doing much to better business relations and promote trade, in many respects rivaling the senior organizations, E. A. Baetz, national president of the Junior Chamber of Comerce of the United States, said Thursday in addressing a luncheon meeting of the Atlanta junior chamber at which he was the honored guest.

"The junior chambers are instilling into younger business men ambitions which might be dead if they had waited to reach time for membership in the senior chambers," Mr. Baetz said. "We have our junior chambers functioning in all the major cities and many smaller cities and everywhere business leaders are acclaiming the work they are doing."

Henry Kruz, former chamber secretary, also was a guest at Thursday's luncheon meeting and made a short address.

The junior chamber entertained with a banquet in honor of its visiting national president Thursday night at the Capital City club, which was followed by a dance at the East Lake Country club.

A novelty entertainment was given at the luncheon meeting by Dixie Duncan, Atlanta girl, who formerly was in Ziegfeld's Follies. Miss Duncan, hailed by many art critics as a modern Venus, gave a series of dancing novelties, including a number which she recently perfected herself.

DR. H. W. CHASE SEES THE SOUTH MAKING PROGRESS RAPIDLY

Chapel Hill, N. C., November 15.—(AP)—Dr. H. W. Chase, president of the University of North Carolina, was the principal speaker tonight at the opening session of the Southern Conference on Education being held at the university here.

The progress of science and industry, he said, is casting the south into a new mold and if this transition period is to be bridged successfully the educational institutions of this section must "train young men and women to live in a world very different in many and fundamental ways from that of their fathers."

WOMAN IS ASSAULTED

White Man Then Robs His Victim.

Attacked as she walked along Fairview road near her home early Thursday night, a young unmarried white woman was assaulted and robbed of a small sum of money by a young unmasked white man. The woman told officers that her assailant stepped from behind a tree to stop her and forced her into a vacant house at the point of a pistol.

GET ROTHSTEIN KILLER, WALKER TELLS POLICE

Mayor Orders Force To Find Slayer by Monday or Admit Failure.

New York, November 15.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker today served an ultimatum on the police department to "make good" by Monday or admit failure in the investigation into the killing of Arnold Rothstein.

While the mayor was delivering this order to Police Commissioner Joseph A. Warren, the heads of the detective division and others connected with the police inquiry, the federal attorney's office disclosed that investigations by federal agents "strongly indicated" that the slain gambler had been an important figure in a nationwide narcotic ring.

The mayor's conference with police authorities lasted more than an hour and a half, after which the mayor said:

"I have insisted that either the detective bureau produce some facts by Monday or admit they can't. Then I will decide what action I'll take."

Present at the conference were all the police connected with the case—from the commissioner down to the uniformed patrolmen who found the wounded gambler on the night of November 4 in the service entrance of the Park Central hotel, in one of the rooms of which he was shot. District Attorney Joab H. Banton was also present.

As a result of the general discussion of the case of city hall, the authorities now are convinced that Rothstein knew who shot him, and died keeping the secret.

HEALTH PAGEANT WILL BE STAGED HERE NEXT YEAR

Atlanta's most unique show—the city's first health exposition pagent—will be staged in Atlanta early next year, it was announced Thursday by members of the auditorium armory. It will be run simultaneously with others to take place in the leading cities of the nation and is designed to promote interest in physical culture and hygene.

The show will run for a week with a change of program daily in addition to the main program which will continue throughout each day of the week. Many pageants and athletic and physical contests are planned by sponsors and prizes will be awarded winners.

A "baby health day" will be one of the features of the events to be staged and competent judges will award prizes to those winning the titles as the best physical specimen.

CLOUDS PREVENT ATLANTA SEEING METEOR SHOWER

Many Atlantans who held vigil until the early morning hours, in the expectation of seeing a predicted meteor shower, were disappointed by a cloudy sky which failed to reveal the phenomena. Astronomers had indicated that residents of Atlanta might be able to see several of the bright fragments shortly after midnight in the sky to the north and west of the city.

The visibility was lowered by a heavy horizon haze and cloud banks, attendant upon lowered barometric pressures, to such an extent that only those heavenly bodies nearest the zenith were visible to the naked eye.

2 BOOKED PASSAGE ON ILL-FATED SHIP BUT DIDN'T SAIL

Pittsburgh, November 15.—(AP)—Two men who had booked passage on the ill-fated steamer Vestris and whose names had appeared in some lists of the missing, today were found to be safe, bothing having changed their plans before the vessel sailed.

M. R. Rosse, export manager of the Fry Equipment corporation of Rochester, Pa., revised his plans just before the ship left New York and was not aboard when the Vestris sank. Genaro Panzaratta is visiting relatives in New Jersey, and so escaped the horrors of the ship disaster, the First National Bank of Pittsburgh, which booked his passage, reported. Panzaratta had decided to postpone his trip to South America.

CLAIMANT TO ODD TITLE TO PRACTICE TRICK AT MACON

Macon, Ga., November 15.—(AP) The man who claims to be the world's champion writer of the alphabet on grains of rice is in Macon, and is open for business in the doorway of an empty store on Cherry street.

E. G. Blystone, who prefers the quainter title of "Bly the Penman," claims this extraordinary championship after having written on a single grain of rice the 26 letters of the English alphabet 27 times, amounting to a total of 702 letters. The former world's record, says Bly, was held by a Hindu, who inscribed 400 letters on a rice grain.

Client Draws 30 Days On Intoxication Charge, So Does Her Lawyer

Tampa, Fla., November 15.—(AP)—After being released from the city jail long enough to defend a client, W. S. McCoy, attorney, who was facing a charge of drunkenness, not only saw his client draw a 30-day sentence but drew a similar sentence himself today.

McCoy while in jail arranged to defend Ruth Jurden, charged with possession of liquor. He was released long enough to appear in court for his client, who was fined $100 or 30 days. The woman went to jail.

A few minutes later McCoy was put in jail 30 days by Municipal Judge Tom Watkins.

POSTOFFICE SITUATION HERE TO BE SURVEYED

Coming of Washington Committee To Give New Impetus to Movement.

New impetus to the movement to secure an additional postoffice building for Atlanta was given Thursday when Postmaster E. K. Large announced that a special committee from Washington would in all probability visit the city within the next month to investigate the situation here and then report its findings to congress.

This movement was started some years ago by a committee composed of local business men, but Mr. Large explained that when the last appropriation was made, Atlanta's needs were overlooked as not being pressing enough to require attention. It is hoped, however, that a share of the $100,000,000 budget proposed for the postoffice department may be secured this time.

The city is sadly lacking in the matter of modern machinery for handling mail such as conveyors and similar automatic devices, Mr. Large said, and the most pressing need at present is a modern work shop. It is not planned to vacate the present building, but to secure an additional one which would be more convenient to the trains. The present location would be maintained as being an ideal situation from the point of view of convenience to the public, but the new building would greatly expedite the depositing of mail on trains and make the present method of sending it out in trucks unnecessary.

Nothing definite in the way of selecting sites has been done as yet, he stated, but the visit of the committee is hoped to bring some positive action.

ATLANTA WILL BE HUB OF NEW AIR-RAIL ROUTE

Pitcairn Orders 3 Big Ford Planes for New York-Miami Service.

Plans for the establishment of an air-rail route between New York and Atlanta and New York and Miami were announced Thursday by Pitcairn Aviation, Inc. Three new tri-motored all metal planes for use in the passenger service were ordered from the Ford Motor company.

The new service will call for rail service between New York and Greensboro, N. C., and planes from Greensboro to Atlanta and Miami. Officials of the Pitcairn company pointed out that the new service would knock off more than six hours, or almost an entire business day, from the running time between New York and Atlanta.

300-Horsepower Motors.

The planes to be built at the Ford plant at Dearborn, under the guidance of Pitcairn engineering experts, will have 300-horsepower motors, much more powerful than the 200-horsepower engines in wide use since Lindbergh's flight to Paris. They will be Wright Whirlwinds and similar to those used in planes on transcontinental air-rail routes conducted by railroads and aviation companies.

The planes ordered by the Pitcairn company are duplicates of a type which have been used for airplane passenger service between Detroit and Cleveland for the last two and a half years and have proven highly successful in other sections of the country.

Pilots to Test Route.

The new planes when completed will be flown up and down the routes to be traversed for several weeks before passengers are accepted in order to familiarize the pilots with the various air currents through which they pass and to permit mechanics to adjust the planes to meet conditions found.

Just how soon the new service will be started officials will be unable to announce until the planes are near completion. Being of special design it is expected that they will take longer to manufacture than ordinary types of planes.

The new planes will accommodate 12 passengers each and represent an investment of more than $150,000. A steward will be aboard to provide meals and all comforts of trains for the passengers.

The service will be extended to New York next year if found practicable, officials of the Pitcairn company asserted.

NEGRO BURGLAR GIVEN SENTENCE OF 16 TO 18 YEARS

Tried and convicted on two charges of burglary of stores Tom White, negro, was sentenced Thursday afternoon by Judge E. E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court to serve from 16 to 18 years.

White was jointly indicted with Walter Wilks, a white man, who entered a plea of guilty last week and was given sentences totaling 14 to 20 years on charge of burglary and carrying a pistol.

Testimony in the trial Thursday was that White furnished the automobile and helped to haul away the loot, and also furnished the pistol. White was convicted in city criminal court Wednesday on prohibition charges and was given a sentence of eight months. He was given 16 to 18 years on each of the two burglary convictions Thursday, the sentences to run concurrently.

Dewey Burnes, negro, entered a plea of guilty Thursday to charges of burglarizing the garage of J. L. Pitts, at 517 Simpson, N. W., and was given four to ten years by Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court.

Chair Preferable To Atlanta Pen, Slayer Declares

In the federal court at Cleveland Monday he faced Judge Paul Jones and was sentenced to serve another term of four year.

Monday night he chose a lead pipe and beat to death a fellow prisoner, Donald Prentiss, in the Cuyhoga county jail.

Tuesday he told District Attorney A. E. Bernstein that he killed Prentiss because he preferred the electric chair to four more years in the Atlanta penitentiary.

It was a surprised Warden John W. Snook who received the details of Nevins' acts Thursday.

Always Prefer Atlanta.

"Most prisoners realize that the federal prisons are the best in the country and those who have terms to serve always show a preference to Atlanta," the warden said. "I have known prisoners to plead guilty to a long list of federal charges and take their sentences rather than face trial in state courts, though there was a possibility of getting off much lighter."

The records at the penitentiary show that Nevins was received on October 15, 1926, to serve 15 months for sending objectionable matter through the mails. He served 13 months, two months being knocked off for good behavior. His record shows that he was a model prisoner.

"Won't Be Back.

But they all leave the penitentiary assuring their mates that they won't be back. And in this Nevins appears to have been determined. He won't be back to serve the four years handed him Monday by Judge Jones, for the murder in Ohio will take preference over the minor charge on which he was sentenced to Atlanta.

Nevins came upon Prentiss as the latter was sleeping and clubbed him unmercifully with the lead pipe. Questioned Tuesday by Bernstein he readily admitted the killing and just as readily gave his motive.

His victim, Prentiss, also was under sentence to Atlanta, having pleaded guilty to violation of the Mann act. Prentiss once was sales promotion manager for the Olds Motor company with a reported salary of $25,000 a year, a job which he lost because he couldn't stand prosperity, officials said.

DR. STRONG TO SPEAK AT TRADE CONFERENCE

Teachers of Geography and Instructors in Commerce to Attend.

World geography as a basis for the export sales campaign will be the subject of an address to be delivered by Dr. Helen M. Strong, geographer of the United States department of commerce, Washington, D. C., before the second southeastern foreign trade conference which meets here next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Dr. Strong will speak at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon in the assembly hall of the chamber of commerce and a cordial invitation to attend this meeting is extended by the conference committee to all teachers of geography in Atlanta schools and all professors and instructors in commerce of the local colleges.

Dr. Strong, in the past few years, has developed a new service for the department of commerce which places at the disposal of the trade wealth of geographic information heretofore not assembled for their use. She was the first woman to take a doctor's degree in geography at the University of Chicago.

During the war she served with the Colonel House commission in preparing material for the peace conference and later she was made assistant professor of geography at the University of Missouri. She is one of the three women members of the Association of American Geographers; a fellow of the American Geographic society; a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and a member of the Sigma Xi honorary scientific fraternity.

RIDING the CIRCUIT AT THE METHODIST CONFERENCE

By Thos. M. Elliott

Rev. O. E. Smith, of Canon, the efficient statistical secretary of the conference for many years, comes to the close of his quadrennium on the Canon charge with tokens of the high esteem of his church people. As he made ready to come to Atlanta for the session, his people heaped upon him and his wife their expressions of love. One church gave Dr. Smith a $75 gold watch, another church gave him a suit of clothes, a hat and a pair of shoes, another church gave him a good purse of money, while still another congregation made up the money to pay all of Mrs. Smith's expenses to the conference. Needless to say Mr. Smith's salary is paid in full, that all his work is in good shape and that both he and Mrs. Smith think they serve the best people in the state.

Judge John S. Candler, president of the conference board of education, enjoys the very unique distinction of being a member of the board of trustees for each of the schools and colleges owned by his conference or in which the conference holds a controlling interest.

Rev. S. A. Harris, the beloved pastor of the College Park church for two years, is absent from this session of the conference on account of ill health. This is the first time in his conference career that he has ever missed a roll call. Mr. Harris is at Tucson, Ariz. A message from him Thursday morning bore greetings of love to his brethren, and assurances of his steady improvement in health.

Rev. J. A. Davis, of the Kincaid church, Griffin, served notice on the conference Thursday that he wants to go back. He reported the erection of a parsonage home by the Kincaid people, told of what a splendid house it is and how well furnished. He concluded his statement to the conference by saying that he had the key in his pocket.

Bishop Warren A. Candler, so ardently loved by the membership of the conference, made a short visit to the conference room Thursday morning. As he made his way to the platform, he was greeted by tumultuous applause. He spoke briefly a message of greeting, and assured the conference of his abiding interest and concern in all their deliberations.

Rev. C. Byrd Harbour enjoys one of the most responsible pastorates in the conference. Since December of last year he has served as student pastor at Athens, where there are 2,500 young men and women in the five educational institutions, 30 per cent of whom are from cities, 30 per cent from the country and 40 per cent from towns. Nine hundred of the young people are Methodists. This year he has enlisted in religious activities some 400 in regular church attendance, some 275 in Sunday school work and some 150 in Epworth leageu work. Three young men have enlisted for definite Christian service in the ministry, and one for missionary work. Mr. Harbour says the students are quite responsive to his efforts, and the faculties as a whole are likewise sympathetic. During the summer courses at the university Mr. Harbour conducted courses in Bible study, for which credit was given. Sixty-five credits were thus allowed by the university, and efforts are being made to include the Bible in the curriculum of the regular scholastic year. In his pastoral work among students Mr. Harbour employs the usual methods of approach through the Sunday schools, Epworth league and regular attendance on church worship. He expresses the sore need of an adequate building for the student activities in religion. About one-third of the total student population of Athens is Methodist, some 900 young men and young women. Some of our grade A denominational colleges have a smaller enrollment than that. Mr. Harbour judges Methodism to have a great responsibility in that great school center, and wonders why it was neglected for so long a time.

REV. C. BYRD HARBOUR,
Student Pastor at the State University

Colonel R. L. Avery, of Atlanta, believes in looking 'em over. Thursday morning, as the conference was discussing admitting some young man on trial, questions were asked regarding him. Colonel Avery arose and asked that the young applicants for admission be brought to the front, so that all men present might behold them. His request was not complied with.

The conference, in keeping with the law of the denomination, is emphasizing the question of young ministers abstaining from the use of tobacco. Some years ago the law was passed stipulating that young men admitted into the Southern Methodist conferences should agree to abstain from tobacco. Thursday morning the conference admitted on trial twelve young men, and each one had to give solemn promise never to undertake a flirtation with Lady Nicotine. One young man who was using tobacco at the request of a physician had to give it up before he received the indorsement of the conference. Within a few years the Southern Methodist ministry will be a tobaccoless one. The law regarding the use of tobacco does not apply to men already in the conference before the law was enacted.

Members of this conference who are listed in the 1928 edition of "Who's Who" are as follows: W. B. Beauchamp, J. S. Candler, S. C. Dobbs, W. T. Hunnicutt, J. L. Key, J. A. McCord, A. M. Pierce, R. L. Russell, W. A. Shelton, all of Atlanta; G. M. Napier, of Decatur; H. W. Cox, of Emory university; W. P. King, J. M. Pound, both of Athens; M. S. Bell, of Milledgeville; E. F. Dempsey, of Oxford.

Rev. J. M. Hawkins holds the long-distance record of any present-day conference member for staying at one place. For 19 years Mr. Hawkins has been assigned the superintendency of the Orphans home at Decatur, during which time he has been the true friend of hundreds of orphan boys and girls. Great advances have been made in that work since he first went there.

Another conference member holding a marathon record for long-continued activity in one place is Dr. J. A. Sharp, president of Young Harris college. Serving as president for two different terms Dr. Sharp has been in charge of the mountain school some 25 years. His many friends and brethren greatly miss his absence during conference, as he is confined to his room at Wesley Memorial hospital.

Conference members in the rear of the conference room have difficulty in hearing all that goes on. Thursday, when votes were being taken in connection with admitting men into the conference, Dr. C. O. Jones, seated in the rear of the room, arose and complained that he could not hear, and said he was uncertain whether he was voting for Elijah or Elisha.

Gradually, from year to year, the educational qualifications required of young men entering the Southern Methodist ministry are being raised higher and higher. Formerly it was required that each applicant for admission should have an elementary high school education. Now it is required throughout Southern Methodism that a young man admitted on trial must have had at least two years of college work. The emphasis is being put on trained leaders.

Rev. W. W. Brinsfield is the beloved agent for superannuates' homes. He is most earnestly devoted to his work, and has made a glowing success of it. He is now closing his fifth year in that labor. When he began there were three homes, while now there are 28, with a total valuation of $150,000, and two lots for homes at Lithia Springs and Dalton. There are now homes at the following places: Atlanta has four, Griffin has two, and one each at Grantville, College Park, East Point, Kirkwood, Decatur, Rome, Acworth, Adairsville, Smyrna, Jonesboro, Oxford, Eatonton, Thomson, Athens, Toccoa, Woodstock, Luthersville, Carrollton, LaGrange, Hapeville, Maysville and McDonough.

NEGRO IS ROBBED OF ALABAMA-TECH FOOTBALL TICKETS

Fred Haygood, negro, of 842 Sycamore street, was held up and robbed of a small amount of cash, a watch and a ticket to the Alabama-Georgia Tech football game by two young unmasked white men Thursday night, according to reports made to police by Haygood. The robbery occurred on Hemphill avenue, between Fourth and Frisco streets, the robbers brandishing a gun in their victim's face as they rifled his pockets.

CHICAGO POLICE SOLVE 3 MURDERS IN A NIGHT

Trio of Negroes Shoot It Out With Cops When Cornered, But Surrender.

Chicago, November 15.—(AP)—Three murderers were solved and four accused slayers were under arrest today after a night of swift, sure and decisive action by Chicago police.

Three of the alleged killers were cornered and captured within 15 minutes after they were blamed for slaying a druggist during a hold-up. They admitted the crime, police said, and also confessed killing a spectator during a similar holdup last Sunday.

The trio of negroes shot it out with police when cornered in their flat but surrendered after their ammunition was exhausted. Their victim was Pater Lucas, druggist. They gave their names as Norman Swan, Napoleon Glover and Van Yedder Dontereaux, and admitted killing Charles Metlock in another drug store holdup last Sunday.

The third murder cleared up followed the capture of Michael Quirk, seized when he attempted to visit his home in Forest Park after having been a fugitive for a year for the slaying of Roy A. Flynn in a West Side saloon.

MYERS PROPOSES SYSTEM TO RATIO COMMODITY PRICES

Edgewater Gulf Hotel, Miss., November 15.—(AP)—Abram F. Myers, of the federal trade commission, in an address before the American Institute of Steel Construction, today proposed a system of rationalization of prices in order that the "high measure of prosperity in this country may not be demoralized."

He advanced the opinion that the government is in sympathy with such a movement. Mr. Myers declared that the producer who consistently sells below cost should be suppressed and that dumping or "territorial poaching" constitutes unfair trade competition.

As a remedy for some of the evils of price cutting, Mr. Myers suggested an expansion of the powers of the federal trade commission to cover all trade practices of the industry whereby relief can be brought to producers by stabilizing the market without exploiting consumers.

Mrs. Meighen, wife of Arthur Meighan, ex-premier of Canada, was prize winner at the ladies' afternoon bridge party.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS INSPECTION MADE IN THE SOUTH

Washington, November 15.—(AP)—In preparation for recommendations to be made to congress for a new public building bill, Carl T. Schuneman, assistant secretary of treasury, and John H. Bartlett, assistant postmaster general, began an inspection in the south and southwest today on the public building needs of a number of cities.

Their first work will be to look over the situation in St. Louis, where a million-dollar courthouse site is needed for a proposed $2,800,000 building.

From St. Louis they will go into Oklahoma and Texas and the trip also will include inspection of courthouse or postoffice needs at Baton Rouge, La.; Miami, Jacksonville and Atlanta.

STEWART NAMED IN BOND TRANSFER

Tax Commissioner Tells Perjury Jury He Accepted Certificates as a Trust.

Washington, November 15.—(AP)—The agreement by which Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, turned over to a trustee the $759,000 in bonds assigned to him as a share in the profits of the Continental Trading company, was outlined today to the District of Columbia supreme court jury trying the oil man on perjury charges.

Roy J. Barnett, tax commissioner for Stewart's company, testified that he had acceded to a request by the board chairman on November 26, 1921, to accept the bonds as a trust, and that Stewart had personally prepared the document. This came after the government had won a point in introducing Stewart's testimony to the senate public lands committee last April 24, when he had disclosed the receipt of the bonds and existence of the trust agreement. Justice Jennings Bailey overruled defense objection to this record, following which it was read to the jury.

Two newspaper correspondents, Elliott Thurston, of the New York World, and Paul Y. Anderson, of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, testified the defendant had told the senate public lands committee last February that he had received no Continental bonds and had no knowledge of any distribution of bonds by the company. Their statements were attacked by Frank J. Hogan, defense counsel, who contended that the newspapers, represented by the witnesses, had been "bitterly hostile" to Stewart.

Barnett said Stewart had stipulated in 1921 that existence of the trust agreement should be kept secret, and that they alone knew of it until in 1924 when they informed L. L. Stevens, counsel for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, about it. In 1924 also Barnett said he had ceased clipping coupons from the Liberty bonds upon a suggestion to this effect from Stewart because of publicity resulting from the oil scandal investigations at that time.

The trust agreement held that Barnett should retain the bonds until Stewart directed their transfer to his company or to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, which concerns he had asserted were to receive them eventually. Barnett produced a record showing that the bonds, amounting to $797,500 with accumulated interest, had been turned over last April to the Sinclair company with a stipulation that he as trustee would not be responsible for any tax claims levied on them against the Continental Trading company.

FRANCE TO REJECT EXTRADITION PLEA.

Paris, November 15.—(United News.)—The United States' request for extradition of Henry M. Blackmer, former Denver oil man, will be rejected, the United News learned today from authoritative sources. Blackmer, who was a missing witness in the senate Teapot Dome oil investigation, faced federal income tax charges in America.

The request will be rejected on double grounds, it was stated. First, French law limits the time in which extradition may be asked to three years after the offense was committed. Blackmer's case is five years old. Second, the charge of false oath, on which extradition is sought, is not a punishable offense in France.

Washington, November 15.—(United News.)—Pending bribery charges against former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny, millionaire oil man, will be pressed, Atlee Pomerene, special federal oil prosecutor, said today after a conference with President Coolidge.

He said he plans an inquiry at once to see if Fall's health will permit him to come to Washington for trial. Pomerene indicated the possibility of a separate trial for E. L. Doheny in event Fall cannot appear in the near future.

POINCARE UPHELD TWICE IN SESSION

Paris, November 15.—(AP)—Twice today the new Poincare government submitted itself to the acid test of a vote of confidence in the French chamber of deputies, and twice it emerged bolstered and unscathed, once by a vote of 335 to 147 and at the close of the debate by a vote of 330 to 129.

The first vote came when the socialists challenged the premier's right to alter the order of the day for the reading of his new declaration of principles, the socialists inferring that if it was put to a vote M. Poincare could not obtain priority. The premier insisted on the vote and made it a question of confidence. The chamber of deputies supported him overwhelmingly.

Later when he had finished his declaration of principle, in which he had declared that the future condition of European countries rested largely upon the disposition that is made of the vexatious reparations problem, a direct confidence vote was taken, and the new government was favored by a vote of 330 to 120.

In neither vote did the hundred or more radical members participate, refraining in the interests of party discipline. Observers, however, consider that the government has been inaugurated under most auspicious circumstances and that, though the new majority sensibly might be larger, it is large enough for all purposes now and should be strengthened in time.

The broad spirit of conciliation the premier displayed today in dealing with questions responsible for previous ruptures and the resignation of the last cabinet made him friends, it was said.

M. Poincare took the initiative today and maintained it throughout the meeting, with the result that he disposed of ends which have been loose since the resignation nearly two weeks ago of the last cabinet and left the field clear for discussion Friday of the budget for 1929.

Convict Is Killed By Prison Guard In Escape Attempt

Huntsville, Texas, November 15.—(AP)—W. C. Folsom, a prisoner at the state penitentiary, was shot to death yesterday when he attempted to escape from guards at the Goree state prison farm, south of Huntsville, where he was working on a well.

Ignoring the command of a guard who ordered him to halt, Folsom cursed the officer and told him "I don't have to stop. Go ahead and shoot." The guard fired twice, both bullets entering Folsom's body.

ATLANTA BONDS SOLD AT $81,141 PREMIUM

Bid of Syndicate of Atlanta, New York and Detroit Financiers Accepted

A syndicate composed of two Atlanta companies and three New York and Detroit concerns Thursday was the successful bidder for the $2,150,000 worth of Atlanta city bonds placed on the market. The bonds brought a premium of $81,141.86, which Mayor I. N. Ragsdale and B. Graham West, city comptroller, considered exceptionally good considering the present condition of the money market.

The bid will be offered to city council with a recommendation that it be accepted. The total amount which the firms representing the syndicate agreed to pay for the securities is $2,231,141.86. This means that Atlanta will get $103.77 for each $100 bond, and will reduce the percentage which the city must pay on the money from 4.5 per cent to 4.15 per cent.

Firms included in the syndicate are Bell, Spears and company, and Robinson-Humphrey company, Atlanta, and the First National bank, R. N. Schmidt and company and the Detroit company, of Detroit and New York.

Bonds sold Thursday were divided as follows and the money will be allocated in the sums represented for the respective projects:

Schools $1,500,000; sewers $500,000 and waterworks $150,000.

Last year the city sold bonds at a premium of 3.83 per cent, but at that time interest rates were low and they have been rising steadily since that time.

"We must take into consideration the fact that reserve bank rediscount rate is now 5 per cent as opposed to 3 1-2 per cent then, while call money rates are even higher in proportion," Mr. West said.

"Our bonds sold today at a better rate than did those of Louisville, Ky., recently, and on approximately the same basis that the city of New York recently floated an issue."

The securities are already signed by the mayor, the city comptroller and the city clerk, and will be ready for delivery as soon as they have been checked by the legal investigators.

EULA'S FINAL PLEA TO BE PRESENTED ON NOVEMBER 22

Governor L. G. Hardman Thursday definitely fixed Thursday, November 22, as a date for hearing a final plea to be submitted in favor of executive clemency for Mrs. Eula Thompson, convicted of complicity in the murder of Coleman Osborn in Murray county and under sentence of death by electrocution. Governor Hardman notified A. S. Johnson, attorney for Mrs. Thompson, that he would hear the final plea on the date fixed.

Mr. Johnson did not submit a plea for clemency at the conference held with the governor Thursday. Clifford Thompson, husband of Mrs. Thompson, and Jim Hugh Moss, negro, were convicted of murder in the same case and recently were executed at Milledgeville. The state prison commission has recommended that the death sentence of Mrs. Thompson be commuted to life imprisonment.

GEORGIA REAL ESTATE ASSOCIATION MEETS

Athens Is Host to Eighth Convention of Realty Men.

Athens, Ga., November 15.—(Special.)—Members of the Georgia Real Estate association opened their eighth annual convention here today with addresses by several prominent realtors and R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner. Marshall J. Ellis, of Macon, is presiding.

The convention will continue through Saturday, when Josiah Flournoy, Columbus, will discuss the work of the Georgia real estate commission. Officers and committees will be elected and a football game between Georgia and L. S. U. will be witnessed.

A luncheon for presidents and secretaries of member boards was given today at the Georgian hotel and tonight President W. T. Ray, of the Athens real estate board, was host to visitors to the convention at the Clarke county fair.

The convention was welcomed to Athens this morning by Mayor A. G. Dudley. Mr. Ray welcomed the delegates on behalf of the Athens real estate board and Arthur S. Harris, Savannah, responded.

Frank C. Owens, Atlanta, spoke on "Real Estate Financing," and Mr. Norman discussed "Taxation," pointing out that Georgia's present tax system hinders its industrial development. He said many big industrial concerns decline to locate in Georgia because of the antiquated tax system. He pointed out that from 80 to 85 per cent of the taxes is borne by real estate and that there should be a change in the system providing for an income tax and a sales tax, thus relieving real estate of part of the burden of financing the state government.

Ward Wight, Atlanta, spoke of "Proper Appraising a Help to Selling," and Mr. Clark, of the L. W. Roberts company, industrial engineers, spoke on "Georgia's Industrial Future" at the afternoon session. W. A. Tharp, of New Orleans, spoke on "Long Time Leases."

The convention will open at 10 o'clock Friday at the Georgian with an address by Francis Calhoun, Augusta; T. N. Beach, Louisville, Ky., "Selling Business Property;" James B. Nevin, editor of the Georgian-American, "Development of Georgia's Highways." A luncheon will be given the visitors at the State College of Agriculture Friday at 12 o'clock and Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the college, will deliver an address.

Gravure Section Results Please Charity Leaders

Business men of Atlanta are responding generously to the plans being carried out by the Woman's auxiliary of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, looking to a beautiful and elaborate gravure section, to be published with the regular edition of The Constitution on Sunday, December 9, leaders of the charity fund movement announced Thursday.

This section is to be devoted exclusively to advertisements effectively blended with society material, each picture extolling the merits of certain merchandise being posed for by prominent Atlanta matrons and debutantes.

Among the prominent enterprises already signed up for generous advertising spaces in this de luxe section are: The Coca-Cola company, the Cadillac company, Maier & Berkele, Inc., Myron E. Freeman, Fugazzi, W. E. Edwards, the Trinity Quality shop, H. M. Patterson & Son, Sprattlin, Harrington & Thomas, American Bakeries, Capital Electric company, Three Little Tailors, H. G. Hastings company, Anderson & McGee Beauty salon, San Mere Hat shop, Vera Grace studio, F. J. Cooledge & Sons, Duffee-Freeman Furniture company, Latham & Atkinson, L. Chajage, the Lambeth-Eskridge Motor company, Finley Method company, Jacobs' Pharmacy company, and Crane & company.

TEMPORARY ORDER BARS ANSLEY PARK BUSINESS BUILDING

Construction of two stores and two apartment houses in Ansley Park was temporarily restrained Thursday in an order signed by Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court, on the petition of 17 residents of the Ansley Park section. Hearing on petition for a permanent injunction will be held on November 24.

The restraining order was directed against the Real Estate Operators, Inc., and R. P. Poole. The petitioners claim that the Real Estate Operators, Inc., plan to sell properties in Ansley Park to Poole, and that Poole has obtained permits to build the stores on Walker terrace and apartment houses on Lafayette drive. The petition alleges that restrictions in the deeds to the property prohibit business houses, and contends that an apartment house is a business house. The petition also alleges that apartment houses of the size said to be contemplated by Poole would project out beyond the 25-foot building line specified in the deeds.

McDaniel & Neely, and Thomas M. Stubbs filed the petition as attorneys for the plaintiffs.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR TRIAL OF ADAIRS

Gainesville, Ga., November 15.—(Special.)—Trial of Frank Adair, Forrest Adair, Sr., Forrest Adair, Jr., and Evans A. Erwin, officials of the defunct Adair Realty and Trust company, on three indictments charging using the mails to defraud in connection with alleged bond transactions involving approximately $2,875,000, will begin next Wednesday before Judge Samuel H. Sibley in the Gainesville division of the United States district court.

Extensive preparations for the trials in Gainesville at the Hall county courthouse where federal court is held are now under way with the arrival in the city Monday of Clint W. Hager, United States district attorney; Mrs. John M. Johnson, the only woman district attorney in Georgia; A. S. Chastain, assistant United States district attorney; Post Office Inspectors Clyde Fleming and J. W. Cole, and a group of government expert accountants.

Voluminous evidence will be presented at the hearings. Part of the evidence secured by the government arrived in Gainesville Sunday and three trucks were used in delivering the documentary evidence to court officials.

The defendants will be represented by the law firms of Arnold & Arnold, Troutman & Troutman, Smith, Little, Goldstein & Powell, of Atlanta, and Wheeler & Kenyon and Jones & Reid, Gainesville.

Approximately 200 witnesses have been subpoenaed by the government and a similar number by defense and with the court attaches and counsel, the largest assemblage at a court trial ever in Gainesville will be on hand.

Many Visitors Expected.

Officials of the Gainesville chamber of commerce have been cooperating with the counsels in arranging hotel accommodations and rooming facilities for the visitors, which have now been completed.

As the defendants are under joint indictments, government officials have not decided whether the cases would be severed or the defendants shall be tried jointly. Trial of the cases, according to court attaches, will consume approximately four weeks or more. Every effort will be made, it is stated, to complete the trials by the Christmas holidays.

The defendants were indicated on May 28, 1928, by a federal grand jury in session in Gainesville following the failure of the Adair Realty and Trust company on March 31, 1927, a special term of the district court having been called for the purpose.

The true bills specifically charge that bonds for the alleged financing of three hotel projects in Little Rock, Birmingham and Knoxville, were sold and were offered for sale through the mails with intent to defraud. Six counts were charged in one of the bills and five each in the other two.

METCALF TO GIVE HOLIDAY TURKEYS TO HIS CUSTOMERS

As a climax to the "Thanksgiving sale" which has been in progress at his stores all this month, John A. Metcalf, owner of the Manufacturers Outlet Store at 74-76 North Forsyth street and of the Metcalf branch stores, announced Thursday that he plans to give Thanksgiving turkeys to customers who accord his establishment their patronage between now and the holiday.

"e got a big farm and lots of turkeys on it," Mr. Metcalf stated, "and when I found that I would get a very unsatisfactory price for the birds in the wholesale market I determined to give them away free to my customers in Atlanta."

Mr. Metcalf said he has adopted a plan of giving away the turkeys which involves no chance. Details of the plan are being featured in the Metcalf advertisements, he pointed out.

Mr. Metcalf recently has secured two additional display fronts on Forsyth street, greatly increasing the size of his main store in the busy midtown shopping center.

WELFARE WORKERS WILL HEAR HEAD OF ORPHANS' HOME

Daugherty, recently elected president of the Tri-State Orphanage association, will address the regional meeting of the Child Welfare Workers of America here December 3 and 4, it was announced Thursday. Mr. Daugherty now is superintendent of the orphans' home conducted by the South Georgia conference of the Methodist church.

The subject of Mr. Daugherty's address will be "Changing Emphasis in the Institutional Program of Child Care."

Amendments Voted In Election Ratified, Says George M. Napier

Constitutional amendments submitted in the recent general election in Georgia that received a majority of the vote cast are legally ratified, according to an opinion handed down Thursday by George M. Napier, attorney general. The question was raised as to whether the amendments needed to obtain a majority of the votes cast or a majority of the registered vote of the state.

All the amendments submitted in the recent election were ratified by overwhelming majorities, according to figures tabulated in the office of the secretary of state.

The popular vote in the presidential race in Georgia in all but five counties of the state gave Governor Al Smith 127,754 to 96,343 for Hoover. The Hoover vote came from 61,095 republicans and 35,238 anti-Smith democrats.

WILLIAMS NAMED HEAD OF ELEVENTH DIST. PRESS BODY

Waycross, Ga., November 15.—Jack Williams, editor of the Waycross Journal-Herald, was elected president of the Eleventh District Press association, and W. Kirk Sutlive, editor of the Blackshear Times, was elected secretary-treasurer at its meeting here.

On invitation of B. T. Allen, dean of Georgia journalists, Pearson, was selected as the place for the next district meeting, the time to be the fourth Monday in June.

The main address before the association was delivered by Miss Emily Woodward, who is now serving her second term as president of the Georgia Press association.

W. G. Sutlive, editor of the Savannah Press, urged the editors first of all to cover the local field and to stop trying to compete with the larger papers. The large dailies, said he, would cover national affairs, but the people are compelled to depend upon the local papers for local news.

ATHEIST HEAD DRAWS 90-DAYTERM, $100 FINE

Little Rock, Ark., November 15.—(AP)—The maximum sentence—a fine of $100 and 90 days on the county farm—was given Charles Smith, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, when he was convicted in municipal court today of a charge of violating an old English law against blasphemy. Smith appealed and was released under $1,000 bond.

Under a law which he protested recently by staging an 18-day hunger strike while serving out a fine in the city jail Smith again was denied the right to testify in court.

Smith declared after his conviction that it gave him a long-sought opportunity to test out this anti-atheist law. He appealed the conviction to the circuit court, from which he may appeal to the state supreme court if it is upheld there.

The blasphemy charge was based on atheist literature which Prosecuting Attorney A. B. Cypert declared was blasphemous and held the Christian religion up to ridicule.

Smith was arrested late yesterday as he prepared to reopen his Main street atheist headquarters, which had been closed last week following a police raid. His literature was seized at that time.

The atheist leader came to Arkansas to fight the anti-evolution act adopted by a vote of the people at the November 6 election and remained to wage a campaign against the state anti-atheist laws which deny atheists the right to hold public office or to testify in court.

ATTEMPT IS MADE TO WRECK TRAIN ON UNION PACIFIC

Portland, Ore., November 15.—(AP)—An attempt to wreck a Union Pacific passenger train running between Portland and Spokane, Wash., was made early today at Irrigon, Ore., but failed.

Several ties had been piled on the track at a switch. The locomotive ran into the obstruction, but as the engineer had seen it he slowed up. Aside from a little damage to the engine pilot and a brake no harm was done.

Union Pacific officials said this was the third attempt this year to wreck a train on that line. A reward of $10,000 has been offered for apprehension of persons responsible.

Coolidge Pays $15.50 For License To Hunt In Virginia Mountains

Richmond, Va., November 15.—For $15.50 Virginia has granted the president of the United States the right to hunt in the Blue Ridge mountains. President Coolidge is to visit there over Thanksgiving and the state issued him a non-resident license.

Rescued Woman Tells Story

SAVED BY HEROISM OF VESTRIS OFFICER

Of the Vestris Disaster

New York, November 15.—(AP)—A pretty, auburn-haired woman who last saw her husband floundering in the sea as the steamship Vestric sank, found him waiting at the pier when she landed today with 56 other survivors from the French tanker Myriam. She was the only woman survivor aboard.

Mrs. Cline Slaughter had learned of her husband's rescue by wireless. He recognized her despite her borrowed seaman's clothing, rushed over and embraced her. The husband landed yesterday from the rescue ship American Shipper.

Mrs. Slaughter, who is 21 years old, said she was the last woman to leave the stricken Vestris. When she left the liner she was wearing a new gown which she said had been transformed into a French creation by shrinkage. The borrowed clothing in which she descended to the pier included a pair of trousers and a white woolen undershirt given her by Captain Fernan Forup, of the Myriam, and a hat loaned by another person on board the ship.

Her husband gave up his place in the lifeboat assigned to them to make room for two other women, Mrs. Slaughter said, and the boat was lowered with difficulty only after some tangled lines were cut away from the davits with axes. It was launched just before the Vestris went down.

Mrs. Slaughter said she fell out of the boat and was pulled under the water by the suction from the liner as it sank.

"It seemed as though I was under a long time," she said, "and when I finally bobbed up I saw my husband paddling a few yards away. Both of us were nearly exhausted."

Saved by Officer.

Near them approached another lifeboat, in which was Second Officer Leslie Watson, of the Vestris. When he saw them she said he jumped into the sea and swam towards her, but the lifeboat kept pulling away.

She said it was probably 20 minutes before Watson reached her side and that he supported her in the water for perhaps an hour, when he hailed a passing lifeboat and helped her into it.

As she lay exhausted in the bottom of the boat, Mrs. Slaughter said she could hear whistling and cries of despair from the water, some of them apparently from women, but the boat did not stop to pick up any others. As they rowed along, she said, the heard members of the boat crew say they were passing floating bodies.

Says Captain Did His Duty.

"So far as I know," she said, "there was no such thing as criminal negligence. The captain did his duty and did his best." She added that she did not know whether it would have been better to send out the S O S earlier than it was broadcast.

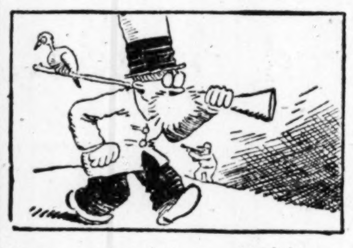
As to a charge made by other passengers that members of the crew had rushed the lifeboats, Mrs. Slaughter said:

"I wouldn't blame the crew. After all, I was in a pretty excited state just before I went down with the ship, and don't know what they were doing, except they could not find axes or hatchets to cut loose the boat which I was in, which was stuck."

Mr. and Mrs. Slaughter said that although their last address was Chicago, they had no permanent address in the United States. They were en route to Buenos Aires, where her husband had a position with the International Harvester company.

Warm Weather To Stay Today, Says Forecast

Continued warm temperatures with "partly cloudy" conditions prevailing is the weather menu for Atlanta today, according to the forecast of Acting Chief Scott, of the local United States weather bureau. A high pressure area centering around the city will prevent the advent of any rain or radical temperature changes for the next few days, Mr. Scott explained.



Temperature Thursday ranged from a minimum of 56 up to 68 at noon and 70 a little later in the day. Similar figures will be registered today, Mr. Scott thinks. Such weather is unusually warm for this part of the year, he said, but no records have been broken as yet.

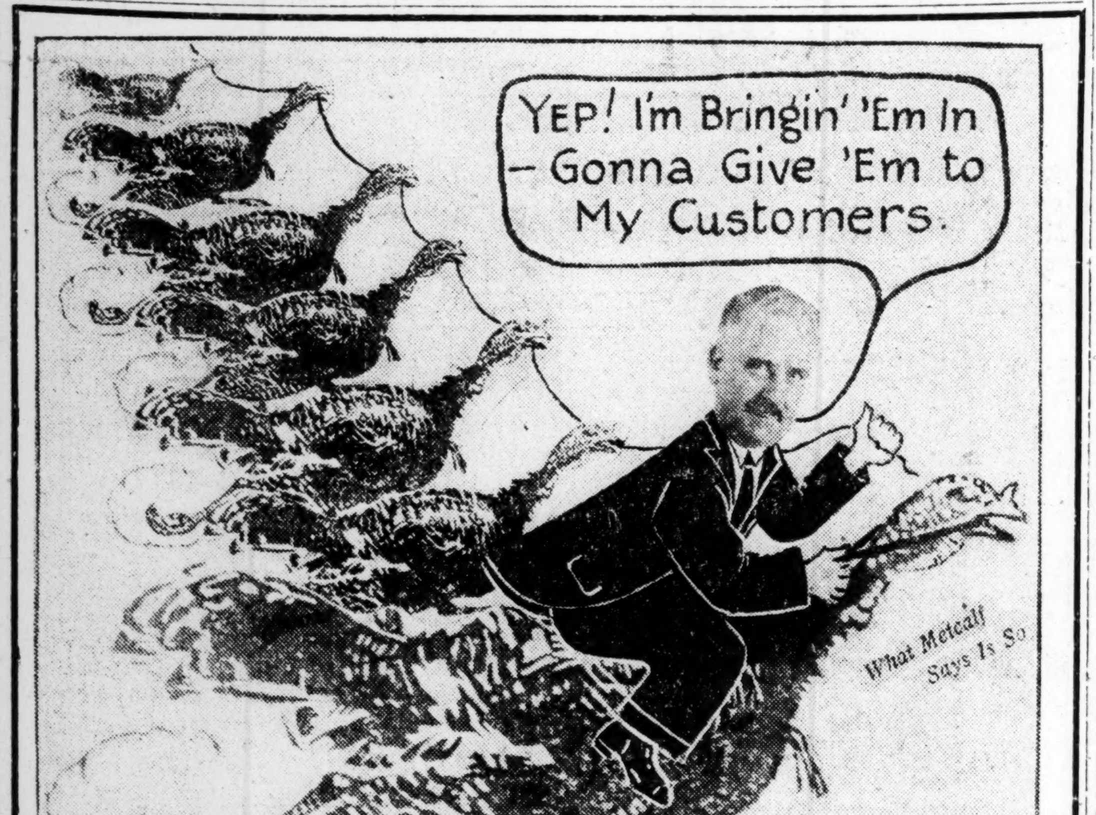
VANDERBILT PLANS DEEP SEA FISHING ON YACHT CRUISE

Miami, Fla., November 15.—(AP)—Steel cables to permit fishing at a depth of two miles, and dynamite to use in blasting fish in deep water are among materials aboard the Ara, the yacht Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt will use on their round the world expedition in search of unknown sea specimens.

The Vanderbilts and other members of the party will arrive here tomorrow aboard the Vanderbilt private car and will board the Ara at Fisher's island.

Preparation of the palatial 213-foot craft for the eight months' voyage indicate that this will be one of the most ambitious ventures of its kind ever undertaken. There are scores of jars and tanks aboard for keeping specimens. The crew has been temporarily augmented for three weeks to prepare the vessel for the trip.

Mr. Vanderbilt is captain, pilot and navigator of the craft, and as such will be the sole occupant of the chart room. The Ara will sail for Panama, later setting a course through the Pacific.

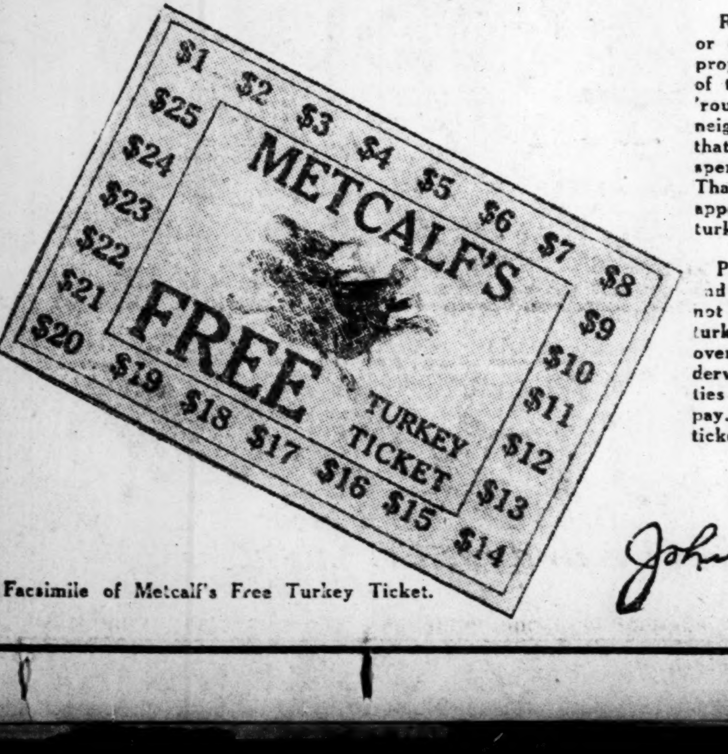


YEP! I'm Bringin' 'Em In - Gonna Give 'Em to My Customers.
What Metcalf Says Is So

I went down to my farm to sell my turkeys to the country turkey buyer but what he wanted to give me for 'em didn't suit me. I'd rather give 'em to my customers who have made it possible for me to establish myself in the largest plate glass front clothing store in Atlanta—a new tradin' center for the public, 74 and 76 North Forsyth Street—than to take his offer. Yes, I'm sittin' pretty in the heart of the hotel district between two of the largest department stores in the South.

Listen to my turkey story! Beginning tomorrow, every customer will receive a turkey ticket which is just like a meal ticket. Every dollar you spend in my store before Thanksgiving Day will be punched out on this ticket and when the twenty-five numbers have been punched out the turkey is yours absolutely free. I personally guarantee all the turkeys to weigh 8 to 10 pounds—fattened on Metcalf corn, peas and peanuts.

If I had to buy all of 'em of course I couldn't afford to do it, and if you had to buy one of these young turkeys for your Thanksgiving dinner it would cost you a lot of money. You say you can't afford to spend twenty-five dollars for clothing right now. Ask your neighbor to help you, he likes turkey too. You don't have to buy twenty-five dollars' worth at one time. The ticket is good to be used from now until 9 o'clock Wednesday night, November 28th.



Facsimile of Metcalf's Free Turkey Ticket.

Remember there is no lottery or chance taken in this turkey proposition. If the Metcalf flock of turkeys is not enough to go 'round, I have arranged with my neighbor for extra turkeys so that no customer of mine who spends $25 with me before Thanksgiving Day will be disappointed in his Thanksgiving turkey.

Please do not call by phone and ask to buy one. They are not for sale. Your grocer has turkeys to sell and I have suits, overcoats, hats, all kinds of underwear, shirts, sox, collars and ties at a price you are willin' to pay. We will punch your turkey ticket if you only spend a dollar.

Yours truly,

John A. Metcalf

'Beggar's Opera' John Gay's First Stage Success

John Gay wrote "The Beggar's Opera," produced by Rich on January 29, 1728, and in which Sir Robert Walpole was caricatured. This famous piece, which was said to have made "Rich gay and Gay rich," was an innovation in many respects and for a time it drove the Italian opera off the English stage.

Under cover of the thieves and highwaymen who figure in it is disguised a satire on society, as the author made it plain that in describing the moral code of his characters he had in mind the corruptions of the then governing class.

Some degree of the marked success of "The Beggar's Opera" is credited to the acting of Lavinia Fenton, afterwards the Duchess of Bolton, in the role of Polly Peachum. Gay had the advantage of suggestions from Swift and advice also from Pope and Arbuthnot.

In 1729 Gay wrote "Polly," a sequel to "The Beggar's Opera," but its presentation was prohibited by the lord chamberlain supposedly through the influence of Walpole. This act of "oppression" was advantageous to Gay in that it proved an excellent advertisement for "Polly," which was published in book form and realized for its author 1,000 pounds.

"Acis and Galatea," Gay's English pastoral opera, the music of which was written by Handel, was produced at the Haymarket (London) in 1732. The profits of his posthumous opera of "Achilles" (1773) and a new volume of "Fables" went to his two sisters, who inherited from him a fortune of 6,000 pounds. He left two other pieces —"The Distressed Wife" (1743) a comedy, and "The Rehearsal of Goathham," a farce. However, Gay's greatest fame attaches to his "Beggar's Opera" which, aside from its immense success in all English-speaking countries, has been translated into French, Italian, Latin and other languages. It is now delighting audiences at the Erlanger theater, where it will be shown tonight and tomorrow, matinee and night.

With the closing of the current show at the Georgia Saturday way will be made for the personal appearance of Francis X. Bushman, Jr., who appears in a one-act play with his sister, Lenore, at the head of the vaudeville bill. The picture opening on the same program will be Zane Grey's "Avalanche," starring Jack Holt and Baclanova.

Other acts are the Three Ryans, dancers; Earl Faber and Margie McIntyre in a comedy skit, and Al Gordon's comedy dogs. The feature picture is "Lonesome," with Glenn Tryon and Barbara Kent in leading roles.

Howard.

Billie Dove, said to be the screen's most beautiful woman, is starred in "The Night Watch," the First National sound picture being shown at the Howard theater this week. The story is one of mystery told in much the same manner as was "Beau Geste." It concerns the wife of a sea captain who is untrue to her husband until a tragedy brings them back together. This week's Vitaphone and Movietone attractions are said to be the most entertaining ever presented at the Howard.

Loew's Grand.

Assisting her in his able manner is Conrad Nagel, who is renowned for his superb speaking voice. The picture contains dialogue and climactic sound effects which enhance the thrilling story to a spectacular crisis. Two splendid Vitaphone subjects conclude an unusually good program for the Rialto this week.

Alamo No. 2.

"The Ancient Highway," the latest and greatest novel by James Oliver Curwood, comes to the screen at the Alamo theater No. 2 today as an Irvin Willat production for Paramount, featuring Jack Holt, Billie Dove and Montagu Love. The story is one of the logging country around Quebec and is said to contain the last word in screen thrills.

Cameo.

Bob Steele, athletic marvel of the screen, comes to the Cameo Friday and Saturday in "Lightning Speed," a fascinating tale of a cub reporter on a metropolitan newspaper. In this role he finds more rapid action and has more hairbreadth escapes in a day than the average person experiences in a lifetime.

SCIENTISTS PLAN WAY TO PICK EMPLOYEES

Firms Using It May Have Introverts or Extroverts as They Desire.

Evanston, Ill., November 15.—(AP)—Three members of Northwestern university's faculty today offered employers a scientific method for picking employees. It had to do with the determination of whether the applicant for employment is an introvert or an extrovert.

An introvert, the scientists explained, is a dreamer. An extrovert is an enthusiast, a back-slapper and a go-getter.

As a result of their experiments the scientists—Dr. C. A. Neymann, psychiatrist, and Dr. John J. Morgan and K. D. Kohlstedt, psychologists, evolved the Neymann-Kohlstedt test. This consists of 50 questions which the applicant for employment is asked to consider from the standpoint of personal like or dislike. No question of right or wrong is involved.

From the answers given employers can determine, the scientists said, whether the applicant is temperamentally and mentally qualified for the position.

Theodore Roosevelt, Mussolini, William Howard Taft and Governor Alfred E. Smith are extroverts, under the scientist's classification. Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, President Coolidge, President-elect Herbert Hoover and Woodrow Wilson were named as examples of introversion.

House of Lords Move To Hit Disarmament Policy Is Defeated

London, November 15.—(AP)—The house of lords tonight defeated by a vote of 35 to 10 a motion by Lord Parmoor, former lord president of the council in the MacDonald labor government, regretting that the British delegation to the ninth assembly of the League of Nations did not support effectively the policy of disarmament and all-inclusive arbitration.

Lord Cushendun, acting secretary of state for foreign affairs, said that the backward position of disarmament, which he deplored, was not in any way due to any action or omission on the part of the Baldwin government.

SEARCH MOUNTAINS FOR HIKING PARTY LOST SEVERAL DAYS

Lakeport, Calif., November 15.—(AP) Searching parties today planned to widen an intensive search for four University of California students who have been missing since they started on a hiking trip to Upper lake, north of here, last week-end.

Fear was expressed that the automobile in which the students, two men and two girls, left Berkeley had skidded off a mountain grade in the heavy storms which recently swept the country.

They intended to scale Snow mountain, but searchers yesterday were unable to find a trace of the party in that vicinity.

The automobile manufacturer expressed confidence that the plantation project would succeed and said he intends to visit Para, near the plantation base, but said he did not know when.

In addition to rubber tires, Ford said it is planned to cultivate oil nut trees, cotton, and "whatever the soil and climate may indicate as profitable."

He was a member of the special congressional committee which inquired into the sinking of the Titanic.

OUSTER IS DENIED OF 3 ALDERMEN AT CARTERSVILLE

The supreme court Thursday handed down a decision holding that three successful candidates for alderman in Cartersville had not violated that city's corrupt practice ordinance when they pledged their support to a movement to sell the city electric and gas franchise to the Georgia Power company.

Proceedings to oust the three successful candidates were brought by Dr. R. D. Adair and others on the ground that the candidates, in newspaper advertisements pledging support to the sale of the franchise, had violated the corrupt practice ordinance. The case was appealed to the supreme court and that body ruled Thursday that the candidates had not violated the ordinance.

H. P. McElreath, H. H. Green and H. L. Smith were the three candidates.

Membership Drive of Legion Will End at Luncheon Today

The membership drive of Atlanta post of the American Legion will come to a whirlwind finish at noon today, when the leaders of the several divisions that have been working the town will report the results of their efforts at a luncheon to be held at the Henry Grady hotel.

One of the best entertainment programs of the year has been arranged, stated John M. Slaton, Jr., who will preside at the meeting.

Jimmy Rogers, famous "Yodeling Brakeman," who is almost as well known as a stage star, as he is a Victor recording artist, will be on hand to render several numbers. Rogers is the headliner of the current bill at Loew's Capitol theater.

Dancers on Program.

In addition there will be three beautiful and talented Atlanta dancers to provide all the entertainment that the veterans could wish, in the form of numerous interpretative dances. The dancers are from the Margaret Mooring School of Dancing and include Miss Mooring, Betty Anderson and Louise Burch.

According to report from legion headquarters Thursday, the Marshall Foch division, headed by W. E. Tate, is still leading the field in the number of new members, but today's meeting may give the honors to another division. The other two divisions are named for General Le Jeune, headed by M. A. Snyder, and General Pershing, headed by Julius Setze.

Telegram from Le Jeune.

LOUISE BURCH.

Basil Stockbridge, commander of the post, was in receipt of a telegram from General John A. Le Jeune, who is in Washington, expressing best wishes to the legion division named in his honor and sending best wishes to the marine members of the post.

General Le Jeune, who is commandant of the marine division of the United States forces, led the second division, which included famous fighting "devil dogs" during the world war.

Dorsen Praises Ability of Tech Commerce Class

The business executive of the future is going to be a far more capable and resourceful fellow than the commercial leader of today.

That's the opinion of A. R. Dorsen, general manager of the J. M. High company, expressed Thursday after he had for two days been associated with members of the Tech school of commerce now training at the department store in order to take charge of its operation for a whole day on November 27.

"These boys are marvelous to me," Mr. Dorsen said. "They have the keenest insight into business I've ever seen. Their training at Tech must be remarkably efficient, because they grasp details with a rapidity that is surprising in view of the fact that they have hitherto lacked practical application in their studies.

"I firmly believe I could pick a half dozen of them who with brief seasoning would make better department managers than the old-timers. The things I have found out about the boys certainly speak well for Tech's system of teaching."

Mr. Dorsen predicted that fully 80 per cent of the young men who are receiving actual business experience under his direction will meet with unqualified success in later life.

"The business man of the next generation is going to be far more intelligent and capable than the executive of today, and unless present leaders get this new, young blood into their organizations they're going to be 'has-beens,'" the department store director declared.

"The coming of the Tech boys to High's has been an inspiration to me," he continued. "I'm glad to have been able to sit back and watch the reaction of progressive young business men of the future to our present methods, and I feel I have profited greatly by the association. All the store officials have gained an inspiration from their contact with the boys, and this store is proud to have had them interest themselves in its conduct."

The Tech class has been in training all this week at High's. Next week it will organize and hear a series of lectures by Mr. Dorsen. On November 27 it will have complete charge of all details of the store's operation. A similar training course is planned for a class from Oglethorpe university, which will operate the High company on December 4.

The supreme court Thursday affirmed a death sentence imposed in Muscogee countdy on D. B. Brookins, convicted on the charge of killing his wife. SUPREME COURT GRANTS RETRIAL TO NEGRO KILLER

Jim Bailey, a negro under death sentence for murder, won a new trial Thursday when the supreme court handed down a decision in his case approving certain contentions made in the defendant's bill of exceptions.

Bailey was convicted of killing Dan H. Carter, foreman of a turpentine camp, in December, 1918. Bailey was captured in Florida several years after the killing and at his trial was convicted and sentenced to be hanged, as the crime involved was committed prior to the passage of Georgia's electric chair law. HOOVER AND THE SOUTH.

The people of the south have good reasons to heartily appreciate the letter of President-elect Hoover to Richard H. Edmonds, editor of the Manufacturers Record, of Baltimore.

He is mistaken in believing that the recent turn-over of southern votes, heretofore democratic, by which some of the southern states gave to him their electoral units, was due to "growing sentiment in favor of the principles of the republican party. Some heretofore democrats voted republican ballots on that account, no doubt. But the majority of those in the turn-over were inspired by other reasons.

Equally as mistaken, in our judgment, is the democrat who believes that Mr. Hoover, as a republican president, will not be a friend of the south, and that his administration will in any way show any disposition to ignore, or to penalize the south. We hold no such view, and we accept his assurances to Mr. Edmonds at their par value.

Stating that his administration would "know no difference between north, south, east and west," but "seek to deal with absolute fairness to every section of our common country," Mr. Hoover pledged his cooperation in the development of flood control projects, an intercoastal canal system and hydroelectric power. The canal system, he said, should extend eventually from Boston to "the end of Texas."

That is a heartening statement. We would call the attention of the president-elect to the almost imperative importance of a canal between the Atlantic and the Gulf by which shipping from the Gulf ports to overseas ports may be spared the necessity of the long route around the Florida keys and through the gulf stream zone, from which grain, in particular, suffers a terrific loss.

The proposed St. Marys-St. Marks canal has been agitated for generations. It was originally surveyed by George Washington. Congress has recognized its importance. The war department engineers have made surveys. And yet no other definite progress has been made. We are frank to assert that if this same situation had been in the north, or the west, it would have been a completed job many years ago.

Mr. Hoover is a great engineer. Now that he has frankly placed himself on record in favor of the development of canal waterways, "to the end of Texas," let us suggest to our southern and middle western members of congress—for the entire Mississippi valley is directly and acutely interested—to push this great project at the opening of the next congress. It is hoped that Mr. Hoover, when president, may urge this in his first message.

Adequate farm relief, in providing suitable government machinery for the absorption of surplus commodities, is needed for the southern producer as much as it is needed for the western producer. Surely under Mr. Hoover's administration this matter may be disposed of to the best economic welfare of the whole country.

If there is to be a continuation of high tariff rates to protect industry, by all means let us have equal protection for farm production so that the charge of discrimination cannot be made in fairness.

We commend Mr. Hoover's viewpoints as to the south, and he will justify the heavy vote given to him in the south if he, when president, shall use his best administrative efforts to put his expressed views into execution. We shall see what we shall see!

An immense sum is being spent in installing a ventilating system in the house of representatives at Washington. From the investigations ordered we were under the opinion that such a system has been in operation there for years.

"HAPPY WARRIOR" IN GEORGIA.

Georgia has a warm place in its big heart for Governor Alfred E. Smith, to whom it gave its electoral college votes on November 6 and the largest popular vote ever given a presidential nominee.

The fact that he spent Thursday and Thursday night as the private guest of friends in Savannah—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Espy—and naturally did not participate in any public functions, did not lessen the warmth of greeting by the people of that historic city.

It was a fitting tribute to Senator Pat Harrison, who was a virile and influential force at the national democratic headquarters, that Governor Smith chose a Mississippi resort, Biloxi, Mississippi, for his post-election vacation.

It is practically assured that upon his return to New York he will accept the invitation of his close friend, Governor-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, to visit him at his Warm Springs estate. It is expected that he will also make a brief visit to Atlanta.

In that event it may be the happy privilege of many Georgians of this section to also shake the hands of the "Happy Warrior."

THE LEGION DRIVE.

The Atlanta post of the American Legion has been making a membership drive for several days and will conclude the same today. It has been a success and hundreds of service men, not heretofore attached to the organization, have been regularly enrolled.

There are perhaps hundreds of others in the zone of the Atlanta post who ought to be members but who have not joined. It is not too late. The Legion is the place for every man who served in the late war. It keeps them "buddies" in peace as well as in strife. It broadens the democracy of life. It builds character. It helps the distressed. It goes to the rescue of the unemployed. It keeps everlastingly before the members the code of good citizenship. "In union there is strength." There is no argument as to the duty of a former service man in this particular, for his own welfare, for the welfare of the community, and for the veneration of the flag, and the love of America and its institutions of government.

Get in touch this morning with Major John M. Slaton, Jr., of the United States veterans' bureau, and enroll if you have not already done so!

CALL FOR A BENEFACTOR.

We earnestly hope that some public-spirited man or woman, of sufficient means, may be fired with a spirit of benefaction, and come to the aid of the Georgia Federation of Club Women in the establishment of a small infirmary at the Tallulah Falls Industrial school, at Tallulah Falls, which they own and operate for the benefit of mountain boys and girls.

The club women haven't the money, but they are hoping that "some friend or friends" will honor themselves by giving the infirmary.

The proposal to establish an infirmary was made recently at a meeting of the school trustees by Dr. Stewart Brown, of Royston, who is the donor of a tonsil clinic at the school. Dr. Thomas Crenshaw, donor of a dental clinic, indorsed Dr. Brown's proposal, as did the Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah in Atlanta, which is credited with opening up the health work at the mountain institution.

Dr. Brown at the present time is working out plans for the infirmary and getting estimates as to its cost.

The Young Matrons' Circle is sure that when this is done someone will find it their pleasure to make a presentation of this infirmary.

Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright, Sr., is the honorary president of the newly-elected board of officers of the Young Matrons' Circle, which includes some of the best known and most socially prominent women in Atlanta.

The paper perforated out of the sheets of postage stamps has a monetary value of $6,000 a year. Now is the time to save the perforations of your meal tickets.

The election ended the barbecue—or stew and cue—season for Georgia.

There is a sporting event that never gets into print—that of putting up the stove pipe. Possibly because it is unprintable.

The Atlantic City man who was arrested for peeping on a woman in a dressing room with a periscope could be called an under-see dog.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

A New "Spokesman."

Time was when an embassey, as a repository of secrets and as a place of mystery, almost conformed with the descriptions in a novel by E. Phillips Oppenheim. Tha time seems definitely over, and it appears fitting that the innovator in the new scheme of diplomacy should be the United States, remarks the Paris Times. Instead of a Bureau of Current Secrets, the American embassy in Paris now has a Bureau of Current Information, headed by a man sent from the state department to serve American and foreign correspondents in Paris as the "official spokesman" of the embassy. If the innovation is a success here, it will be extended to other American embassies as well. The old idea of an embassy, any embassy, was that it was the last place in the world where information could be sought. Now, with a bureau created expressly for that purpose, it is the first place.

Double "Death."

Behind a girl's double "death" at Suva, Fiji, lies a strange story of a journey to heaven. A half-cast, ill with tuberculosis, appeared to die, her eyes were closed, the body reverently covered, and about 20 minutes later relatives were discussing arrangements for the funeral, when the girl suddenly sat up and said she had been to heaven, but that a place had not been prepared for her. She had been told, however, to go to a certain spot, where she would find four herbs which had been described to her. Her relatives feared she was delirious, but when she got up and walked around, which she had not done for months, they obeyed her wish. Going straight to the spot she found three of the four herbs she had been told to seek, and on her return home she ground them into a powder and drank them with water. Her health immediately improved. She could laugh and talk, and at times get up and walk about. Her friends had every hope that she would completely recover, but two days later there was a relapse and she died. Every point in the strange story is confirmed by relatives, and the doctors, while not commenting on the supposed vision, said the facts were true.

He Wants Damages.

The old story of the pedestrian who was knocked down and injured by a taxicab in Paris and then arrested for obstructing traffic, has an even more sardonic parallel in the news from Athens. It appears that the captain of the Greek steamer that ran into and sank the French submarien Ondine with a loss of the entire crew has a complaint to make. He wants to be reimbursed for the loss of time while he was detained in Amsterdam during the inquiry into the sinking of the submarine! Does he mention anything of compensation to the widows and relatives of the men who were lost? No. The Greek commander only thinks of the time he has lost while reluctantly giving details of the tragedy.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

A WHOLE SKIN IS A SAFE BARRIER.

Dr. Alice Hamilton is today recognized as the foremost authority on industrial poisons in the United States. This distinguished physician is a pretty satisfactory answer to a question one sometimes hears even today, namely, can a woman attain eminence in medical science?

Taking off with the acknowledgment that Hamilton believes and teaches that such poisons as lead, benzol or anilin derivatives such as phenylendiamin (a dye sometimes used for furs and even for hair dye), and phenol may be absorbed through the skin, I wish to quote a few passages from her work.

> "The field which still awaits a thorough exploration is the pathological physiology and chemistry of lead poisoning, the exact mode of absorption of lead. . . . Much work has already been done in this field, but with results which are more or less contradictory and unconvincing."

Dr. Hamilton covers the ground thoroughly. She speaks of the work of a French physician named Tanquerrel who studied industrial lead poisoning a century ago and has been called the "Columbus of lead poisoning." Tanquerrel noticed that severe lead poisoning could always be traced to lead vapors or emanations, and only the mildest or slowest poisoning followed contact with solid lead or lead paint. He tried to settle the question by experimenting on dogs and rabbits, but he could not poison them with lead through the skin, and he was skeptical of the possibility of lead being absorbed through the unbroken skin. Although the author cites several other investigators who experimented with animals, and among them some who believed they had proved that traces of lead are absorbed through the unbroken skin, none of these witnesses can stand in court today, for none of them absolutely excludes the possibility of ingestion or inhalation of lead while the skin is being treated with it. Nevertheless Dr. Hamilton maintains that painters, whose hands and forearms are smeared with white lead in oil for eight hours a day and throughout the greater part of the year "may be assumed to absorb from the skin quantities of lead which are probably very small but which throughout the years slowly accumulates in the skeleton."

Certainly painters absorb the lead, but are they not exposed, at least now and then, to inhalation or swallowing of dust, as when sandpapering or scraping old paint, or fumes, as when burning off old paint? I prefer Tanquerrel's opinion to Hamilton's, about that. Tanquerrel didn't assume anything; he tried to prove it and couldn't. Mind, I never heard of Tanquerrel until Dr. Hamilton told me about his work.

"It is impossible to say," observes Dr. Hamilton, "how much of the lead poisoning of painters is caused by the lead paint which is so often smeared over their hands. We have become accustomed to assume that skin absorption is practically negligible as a mode of industrial poisoning, but the belief rests upon an assumption; it has never been proved."

Here Dr. Hamilton seems to turn the table on us. First, she tells us the absorption of lead may be "assumed," and then she dashes cold water on the alternative assumption. After all, the doctor is a woman! Even so, I wish she'd tell us, in not to exceed a thousand words, how to go about proving a negative. Her argument here reminds me of a favorite refuge of the old timers who, when you get 'em cornered, demand that you prove that nobody ever has a "cold" after getting his feet wet.

Preachers Urged To Support State Bonds for Education

That Georgia should issue a statewide bond issue for educational purposes, including every class of state supported institution from the common school to the university and other places of higher learning, and that it is the duty of the church to educate the people and lead them to a realization of their responsibilities in this regard, was the statement made Thursday night before the North Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, by W. D. Anderson, of Macon, in an address on the future needs of the state.

Mr. Anderson, one of the leading industrialists of the state, delivered a magnificent address, in which he spoke of the backwardness of Georgia in educational matters and urged upon his hearers the material and spiritual necessity of so educating the coming generations that they will be able to best realize upon the great material resources with which the great Father ha bessed this section.

"If I should try to make a sermon out of what I want to say on this occasion I could easily find a suitable text in the eighteenth verse of the twenty-ninth chapter of Proverbs," Mr. Anderson said.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish."

Most Fatal Defect.

"I presume it would be trite to say that a lack of vision has been the most fatal defect of mankind in all ages," Mr. Anderson said. "To this cause can we ascribe the slowness with which we apear to have moved in our progress toward the accomplishment of all those things toward which the best men and women of all times have striven."

After enlarging upon this thought, the speaker continued:

"It should be unnecessary, in this presence and in this day, to argue that it is a sacred duty we owe to civilization, to the children we bring into the world, and to all of posterity, to properly educate and equip the children of this generation, and of generations to come, for the duties and opportunities of life. I am willing to go a step beyond this and say, with the expectation that you will agree with me, that to do so is a part of our duty to God. It is impossible for us to escape the obligation which the Almighty, through His inspired writers and in all of His revelations to us has placed upon us to acquire knowledge. The Good Book is filled with evidences of His will concerning this matter both in precept and example. I am sure that one explanation of this is that ignorance and the forces that go hand-in-hand with ignorance have hindered the will of God on earth as nothing else has. I am equally sure that selfishness and many of the other forces that have obscured the vision of men in all ages, and still operate in this day and time, are largely rooted in ignorance.

"With that agreed upon, I will then say that education, Christian education preferably, is the greatest need of the world today. In fact, it is the one great force at our command, through which we may finally bring to fruition God's plans for the world."

All Yield to Education.

"So far as I know and believe, all the forces that oppose the purposes of God yield to the influence of education. The thinking men and philosophers of all ages have recognized this fact. My friend Lucian Knight pointed out that the immortal Shakespeare recognized this as he did most of the fundamental influences in human life. You will recall the scene in Hamet when Horatio, the friend of the Prince of Denmark, decided to investigate the rumor that the ghost of Hamlet's father had twice been seen stalking the castle grounds at Elsinore, at the hour of midnight. He watched with the castle guard and as the strange appartion appeared Marcellus, the ignorant guards, turned to him with quaking knees and trembling lips, with the prayer, "Speak to it, Horatio, thou art a scholar."

"It is ever the scholar to whom we have turned to banish the specters that have stalked abroad throughout the ages to retard our progress and hinder our development. It is the scholar on whom we are dependent today if we are to banish and dispel war, superstition, bigotry, intemperance, crime, disease, infidelity, and untruth—all the vicious forces that confuse and confound us and weaken us in our determination and ability to work out our proper destiny.

"Bigotry and intolerance are slowly yielding to education and its broadening influences. Denominational jealousies and bitter contentions between those who name the name of the Lord are rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Education is a natural enemy of intemperance, infidelity and untruth.

Georgia Opportunity.

"Here in the south, and in Georgia, to bring the matter closer home, we are blessed in many ways beyond other sections of our country. A fact we sometimes overlook is the character of the stock of our people and the homogeneousness of our population. We have here the last stand of the pure and unadulterated Anglo-Saxon strain, with practically no mixture of any foreign blood. For that reason our people would respond more quickly to the advantages of education than would the people of any other section of our country.

"I am tremendously interested in this matter of education because I realize that it is the greatest productive force in modern civilized life. I am convinced that education is our most valuable form of capital. I know that the wealth in trained human minds is far more valuable than that which resides in material property. Now, I am not primarily concerned in making money, nor do I think the accumulation of wealth is of prime consideration. It is true, however, that the making of money and, in fact, the accumulation of wealth, is the measure of our success in utilizing the talents with which we have been endowed and the material resources with which we have been blessed. I long ago found out that without money churches cannot be built, Sunday school plants cannot be equipped, preachers cannot follow their calling, the missionary program will fail, our hospitalization program will fall, and, in fact, every important interest of the Kingdom will suffer. So, while some may despise money, or the making of money, for myself I am concerned with the material prosperity of the race and must give the best thought of which I am capable to the matter of accumulating something beyond the personal needs of my life. I hope that if I have any measure of success in this direction that with the money will come a proper appreciation of it and a proper conception of the uses to which it should be put. I am not at all selfish about this, but want to see every man in this generation, and those that are to come after me, accumulate as much wealth as their capacity, coupled with honest effort, will permit, in the hope that they, too, will use it wisely and well. I believe in making money.

Measure of Prosperity.

"This brings me to say that the material prosperity of any community, state, or section, can be measured by the amount of money it invests in education. It is a demonstrable fact that education pays, in dollars and cents. Let me illustrate. I am sure you will readily agree with me that the wealthiest section of our country is the east, and it has been so for a long time. Great wealth, as we measure it, is a common thing up there. You also know that when you start north and northeast from Washington, a man from this section is staggered by the number of educational institutions for both men and women which are found at every turn in the road, and by the amount of money that is available for their use in the way of maintenance and endowment provisions. Our Yankee friends found out long ago that education paid.

"Will I startle you or shake your confidence in me, if I say that here in Georgia we have failed so signally to provide an adequate and proper educational system, either by the state or otherwise, that we are not only subject to severe criticism, but the facts must condemn us before God and men. If we are willing to admit our failings, we will be the better prepared to remedy them.

"As to this, I confess to you that I have no sort of patience with the spirit of pessimism of which we hear a good deal in Georgia. I am always particularly sorry to come in contact with a minister of the gospel who is pessimistic about anything, and I trust that the north Georgia conference is quite free from any such sentiment. I assure you there is no occasion or warrant for it here in Georgia. The state is unquestionably in much better financial condition than it has ever been, and, in fact, our material wealth here in Georgia and the progress we are making in the accumulation of wealth, is far beyond the dreams of our forefathers and, I believe, beyond the conception of many of us in this day and generation. We have plenty of money here in Georgia to do what we will in the matter of education.

Chances of Success.

"So much information is collected today by various governmental agencies that the statistical laboratories can give you the facts about almost anything you want to know. Two men in the Vocational school at Madison, Wis., have worked out statistics to show that men without education have only one chance in 161,290 of achieving distinction, men with high school education have one chance in 1,606, while college-bred men have one chance in 173. In other words, the man with a college education has more than 900 times the chance of achieving success than the man without education.

"Let me pause here to say that it will be disastrous if the church fails to grasp this opportunity to take the lead in developing the educational system which I am sure is to supplant the inadequate, worn out and outgrown system that now obtains in Georgia. I hesitate to say it for fear that you would either accuse me of pessimism or of careless criticism, but I fear that the church does not hold the position of leadership in matters that vitally affect the people today, that it once held. For fear of being misunderstood, I will not attempt to elaborate on that thought. You can take the suggestion and think the matter through for yourself and either accept it or throw it aside, as you choose. I do say that the church should have a commanding influence in shaping the movements and policies of the community and state in all matters that will movitate the men, women and children of the present day, in matters that affect their eternal weal or woe. The preacher in the pulpit should help to form and exercise some degree of leadership in the thought of the community in all matters affecting the homes, the morals, the spiritual conceptions, and the mental culture of the people, as well as to try to guide aright the hearts and consciences of those whose high priests they are.

Road Bonds Coming.

"Another opportunity will soon present itself, to which I want to draw your attention. I think I can see that things are shaping in Georgia for a great bond issue for completing a system of good roads in the state. I shall be in favor of this, and enthusiastically so, provided the spending of the proceeds is safeguarded by putting the control of these funds in the hands of a bond commission, composed of business men selected from various parts of the state. I think all good citizens should favor this movement.

"However, I think that the friends of education in Georgia should insist that if we are to support good roads bonds there should be incorporated in the constitutional amendment necessary to submit the question to the voters a provision for the issue at the same time of bonds, in sufficient amount, to put our educational system on its feet. We are so deficient at every point and have neglected the question for so long that it will take a large sum of money to be spent as rapidly as it can be properly spent in order to repair our failures and to bring our educational system up to date. Of course, before we attempt to spend money in this direction, an educational survey of the state should be made so that we will know how to spend it wisely. It is probable that the amount of money now available for our common schools needs to be supplemented so that we can better equip the schools now in existence and pay salaries that will employ good teachers.

"As I said, I think that the friends of education in Georgia should insist that bond money be provided for education if bonds are to be issued to pave the roads. To fail to do this would be like selling posterity into a species of slavery without giving them any straw with which to make bricks. These bonds must be paid some day and it is going to take educated and trained men and women to make the money to pay them.

"One of the greatest foes of Christianity today is war. If war is to be banished from the world and brotherly love between the people of all tongues and races is to take its place, you must have men and women with educated, cultured, and enlightened minds to accomplish the task. Men and women with broadened visions, who think, not in terms of a narrow circle of relatives and friends, not in terms of sections of a common country, not in terms of nationality, but who can think internationally.

"That there are difficulties in the way, that pitfalls exist which must be avoided, that mistakes will likely be made, that there are sunken reefs along the course that are uncharted, that some new trails over rough territory must be blazed, I am ready to admit. That our church and our sister churches of other denominations are equal to the task, when once aroused, I am certain, if only we can catch a vision of our great opportunities for service and of God's purposes for us. With such a vision to guide and direct, all of these difficulties and opposing forces will fade away, for there is nothing that can finally withstand the will of God and the persuasive influence of Him who loved us and gave His life to redeem us."

College Park Mayor Denies "Speed Trap" Charge of Tourists

Editor Constitution: Notwithstanding your editorial of Saturday last entitled "A Tourist's Complaint," is predicated upon a communication with respect to which you state in your editorial comment, "we know nothing as to the merits of this case further than stated in the communication," I feel quite certain that with your accustomed sense of fairness and justice, you will be anxious, after your comment, and the additional reference to the incident in question in your news columns on Sunday, to give equally as wide publicity "to the merits of this case," as they are set forth in this communication.

Although the complaint was made merely through the public press and not to the governing authorities of the city of College Park, and about one month after the happening of the occurrence, an investigation since your publications, discloses, according to the statement of the arresting officer, that the complaning party was, on the occasion referred to, being driven in his automobile by his chauffeur at a rate of speed of from forty to forty-five miles per hour on West Main street, the main thoroughfare in and through College Park, and that this speed was maintained for a distance of approximately three-quarters of a mile, from a point near the northern limits of College Park to the business section of the city, before the automobile in question was overtaken by the police officer; this automobile having passed in that distance a number of other automobiles which were being operated in the same direction. The officer further states that when the automobile was finally overtaken, the party in question was politely requested to have his automobile turned into an intersecting street, in order that traffic on the highway might not be obstructed or impeded, and that those in the car, including the apparent owner, were neither abused nor intimidated in any manner, but were treated with courtesy and consideration; that no pistol was displayed, as is implied by the complainant's statement; that the chauffeur was permitted to proceed upon receiving usual copy of charges and the posting of small cash bond for his appearance at the time fixed for the trial of the charge in the recorder's court of College Park at its next regular session. The chauffeur failed to appear for trial at the time indicated in the copy of charges and his bond was, therefore, forfeited.

You are, of course, thoroughly familiar with the fact that the highway between Atlanta and College Park is narrow and carries a very heavy traffic, and that there has been inaugurated in recent months a movement to widen this thoroughfare to such an extent as that it may properly care for the traffic burden upon it. Hundreds, if not thousands, of automobiles pass every day over this traffic artery to and from the city of Atlanta, and the safety of both the pedestrian and motor-traveling public requires that there shall be at least a reasonable compliance with reasonable traffic regulations. The necessity of such compliance is further emphasized by the fact that there have been serious, and in some instances even fatal, automobile accidents in College Park.

As indicative of the reasonableness of the College Park traffic regulations, it should be necessary only to call your attention to the fact that the speed limit in College Park was formerly fifteen miles an hour and has been increased to twenty-five miles per hour, and that comparatively few cases are made when the large volume of traffic moving over the highway through College Park is borne in mind.

The city authorities of College Park do not believe in an unreasonable or arbitrary enforcement of traffic rules, but they do believe that the reasonable requirements of the ordinances of the city in this respect should be observed and enforced in a reasonable way and without favor or discrimination, in the interest of public safety and the protection of life, limb and property.

The city of College Park, with a population of approximately seven thousand inhabitants and a large territory, and with a heavy traveled state highway extending for a distance of approximately two miles within its corporate limits, has only four police officers, including the chief of police, two for day duty and two for night duty, and is certainly not over-policed.

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," and out of this belated complaint, made to you rather than to the city of College Park, and the publicity given it, some good may result in the lesson that it may bring to those who would either deliberately or carelessly violate traffic regulations, that they should exercise due care and reasonable diligence to comply with the reasonable requirements of the College Park traffic regulations.

Respectfully,
WM. J. LLOYD, Mayor,
College Park, Ga.

order of Mrs. Willebrandt, and was released in less than a week.

Praise Warden Snook.

Congressman John G. Cooper, chairman of the congressmen, declared after the inspection tour Thursday afternoon that the committee had found things in a highly satisfactory condition. He and other members of the committee had praised Warden Snook and the officer personnel of the institution for the efficient manner in which they have conducted the pen.

They deplored crowded conditions and stated they probably would embody a recommendation that a separate institution for drug addicts be established.

It was Warden's Snook's appearance before a congressional committee at Washington which first caused a rift between Mrs. Willebrandt and the warden, according to reports. While she did not object to his going to Washington to attend the conference after he had been requested to do so by the committee, she felt that he first should have obtained her sanction, it is understood.

Immediately following the warden's appearance there, she censured him and is said to have found fault with the handling of Earl Carroll, famous Broadway producer, who was carried on a hospital cot to the institution to serve a term for perjury in connection with testimony he gave a federal grand jury probing the famous bathtub party in New York.

Neither Mrs. Willebrandt nor other high department of justice officials at Washington have issued a formal statement concerning the Hanson commitment. They have denied an espionage system and that is as far as they have seen fit to go. To further inquiries they have turned a deaf ear.

BETTER SCHOOLS AND ROADS URGED

here. He declared Georgia to be in the most prosperous condition ever, and cited evidences of that statement, and assured his audience that he had no patience with the pessimist.

He said the masses of people today are eager for education, and deplored the slowness of the church to give Christain education the commanding place it deserves.

Colonel Anderson said he is highly in favor of a great bond issue for highways in Georgia, and would give such a venture his enthusiastic support. But he also urged that, should a great bond issue be floated in Georgia for improved roads, there also should be floated a similar great bond issue in Georgia to put the educational system of the commonwealth on a par with sister states that have outstripped Georgia in this matter.

Program for Tonight.

Tonight is to be the outstanding night of the conference week, insofar as popular interest and attractiveness are concerned. The conference session is to be devoted to the interests and welfare of the young people, and will be known as "Young Peoples' Night." Under direction of Miss Erline Dowda, one of the Epworth league conference secretaries, an elaborate program has been prepared, and the promise is that not a dull minute will be allowed.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Southeastern Division Salvation Army band.

Forty diplomas are to be awarded Epworth leaguers who have completed the Christian culture course of studies during the year. To stimulate attendance on the part of young peoples' organizations, there will be awarded two prizes of $5 each in gold to those two organizations bringing the largest number of adherents, friends and members. Invitations have been extended all young peoples' organizations in all the churches of the two Atlanta districts to be present.

Rev. Alph Howland, president of the Christian Endeavor union, has given assurance that he will be present with 200 Endeavorers, who are to be the guests of the occasion.

The chief feature of the hour will be an inspirational address by Dr. Daniel A. Poling, of New York, who is declared to be the greatest young peoples' preacher in the world. Dr. Poling is now pastor at the New York Marble Collegiate church, where he has an immense congregation of young people, and is also editor-in-chief of the Christian Herald. He was formerly president of the World Union of Christian Endeavorers.

The public generally is invited to attend the young peoples' night session.

Class of 12 Admitted.

The North Georgia Methodist conference, in session at Wesley Memorial church this week, devoted almost the entire day Thursday to conference routine work, admitting on trial a class of twelve young men, and advancing to higher classes undergraduates who had satisfactorily completed their studies for the year.

Interesting periods of the day's sitting came when Dr. Luther E. Todd, of St. Louis, general secretary of the joint board of finance, spoke of the urgent need of completing the effort to raise a superannuate endowment fund of $10,000,000, and when Dr. C. C. Jarrell, of Atlanta, general secretary of the hospital board, spoke of the opportunity before Methodism to occupy a great field in ministering to the sick poor. Both addresses were considered of an unusually high type, and were heard with deepest concern.

Calkins Delivers Lecture.

During the afternoon, Dr. Harvey Reeves Calkins continued his series of four lectures on property and personality, discussing the theme, "Why Property Is the Beginning of Personality." The night session of the conference was devoted to the anniversary of the conference board of education.

Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, was a distinguished visitor at the conference Thursday, and was greeted with hearty applause as he went upon the platform. Bishop Candler extended his heartiest greetings to the body, and assured them of his abiding interest and concern in everything the body might undertake.

The class of young men admitted on trial into the conference was as follows: Rev. Ralph Parks Segars, from the Athens district; Revs. Harold George Zoeller and Frank Quillian Echols, from the South Atlanta district; Revs. Hoyt Linton Gurley and James Douglas Swaggerty, from the Elberton district; Rev. Nathaniel Guy Long, from the Gainesville district; Rev. Julian Clyde Calloway, from the Griffin district; Revs. Henry Clay Ayers and Howard Augustus McNeil, from the LaGrange district; Revs. Lewis Frederick Van Landingham, James Walton Segars and Verna Otto Gentry, from the Marietta district.

Recommended for Admission.

These young men had passed examinations before their district conferences, and had been recommended for admission on trial. Having passed the tests of two admittance committees here, they now are admitted on trial for one year. They will be assigned work and directed to pursue the course of study for first-year men. Next year, should they pass approved tests, they will be advanced to the second-year class.

Young men who have been on trial for one year and Thursday were advanced to the second year class are, Rev. J. L. Holbrock, Rev. J. A. Davis, Rev. W. H. Gardner, Rev. E. P. Driskell, Rev. C. A. Burns, Rev. P. H. Stokes, Rev. W. E. Tabb, Rev. R. H. Timberlake, Rev. Y. A. Beall and Rev. W. F. Lunsford.

Young men who had passed approved examinations at the close of their second year and advanced to the next class, and elected to deacon's orders were Revs. J. B. Smith, A. E. Barton, E. D. Rudisill, G. B. Henderson, G. C. Ramsey, A. W. Williams, S. H. Dixon, R. W. Stone, R. I. Johnson, J. G. Lupo, J. L. Varner, R. B. Hawkins, N. A. Parsons and Y. A. Beall.

Harrison Granted Location.

Rev. James L. Harrison, of Stockbridge, at his own request, was granted a location, and he retires from the active itinerary. Rev. J. M. Perry was discontinued.

Dr. Luther E. Todd, speaking of the special fund for superannuate relief, told of how Southern Methodism had begun in 1902 to raise $5,000,000 for this purpose, and of how at the Atlanta general conference in 1918 had determined to raise in five years an endowment fund of $10,000,000, the income from which should be used to make the last days of retired ministers comfortable and free from embarrassment. He said that $5,600,000 of that sum had been paid in and was bearing fruits already, in that during this year the fund had afforded a distribution of $251,000 to the claimants on the fund.

Dr. Todd urged the case of the superannuate, known as "Methodism's Forgotten Man." He argued that the church should not forget the men or allow them to suffer after they had been consumed by the church in leading to Christ so many converts, building so many churches and parsonages, making contributions of Christian citizenship in every way.

Should Raise Fund.

He asserted that a denomination that could raise more than $200,000,000 in five years for benevolent and Christian causes surely is able in five years to raise a fund of $10,000,000 for the care of the men who did so much to make the denomination what it is.

This conference assumed a quota of $436,485, payable in five years, and has paid to date $157,012, which is a percentage of .33. The general board has paid to claimants in this conference from this fund the sum of $8,217, while the conference fund has paid them $3,972.

In this conference there are four charges recorded as having paid in full their quotas—Marietta-Olinville, Emory university, and the Trinity and St. Paul churches in Atlanta. There are 86 charges that so far have paid less than $100 each on the fund, while 14 have paid nothing at all. There are in the bounds of this conference 141 claimants on the fund. A special effort will be made to close out the work in another year, and Rev. Pierce Harris will be continued as conference director of the work.

Board Vacancies Filled.

Vacancies in several boards have occurred during the year on account of deaths or removals, and the conference voted Thursday that the following should be named to fill the vacancies: Perry Smith, of Elberton, to the board of missions; W. P. Bloodworth, of Atlanta, to the board of church extension; Hal R. Powell, of Augusta, to the Epworth League board; R. P. Ethridge and W. S. Robison to the committee on applicants; T. Z. B. Everton, to the committee of the first year; H. C. Emory, E. P. Eubanks, J. O. Brand, J. R. Turner, Smith Johnson and E. P. Hall, Jr., to the committee on Wesleyan Christian Advocate.

Dr. C. C. Jarrell spoke of the hospitalization work of Southern Methodists, and stated that the denomination now owns hospitals in the value of $8,000,000, which sum will shortly be increased to $12,000,000. He spoke thrillingly of the great service being rendered in the name of Christ to the sick poor, and argued that this service is of the very highest type of efficiency. He urged the continued support and cooperation of all Georgia Methodists in the work inaugurated by the Man of Galilee.

Beginning of Personality.

Dr. Harvey Reeves Calkins addressed the conference during the afternoon on the subject, "Why Is Property the Beginning of Personality?" In discussing assets and liabilities he said the talents possessed by the individual are his liabilities, and his assets are the services he may render to others. He showed the difference between a steward and a trustee, showing that a trustee acts under a legal instrument for a dead testator, while a steward acts for a living friend.

He thought personality to be the most elusive thing in the world and constituted the difference between paganism and Christianity, and further asserted that stewardship of personality is the solution of the debate between fundamentalists and modernists. His subject theme for Friday will be "The Way Out."

SMITH PLAYS 15 HOLES AT SAVANNAH

York broker, remained a secret, as no information was volunteered. Mr. Kenney said it was the governor's longest game in many weeks, as he usually plays only nine holes. They played on the Savannah Golf club course.

A crowd gathered outside Espy's home tonight, while city officials and others prominent in the life of the city called to pay their respects, and the governor went out on the porch to say "hello." His appearance was the signal for a prolonger cheer.

To Visit Atlanta.

Announcement was made here today by Mr. Kenney, close personal friend of the New York governor, that Mr. Smith will make a visit to Atlanta before going back north, following his trip to the Gulf of Mexico. The announcement specified that while in the Georgia capital the New York executive would decline all invitations of a formal nature, spending his time as guest of Major John S. Cohen, national democratic committeeman for Georgia, and participating only at informal affairs.

The governor and his party will leave tomorrow morning for Jacksonville, from where they will proceed to Biloxi, Miss., via. Tallahassee and Pensacola, Fla., and Mobile, Ala., to the Mississippi Gulf coast. No stopovers were planned en route.

Raskob Makes Gift.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the national democratic executive committee, gave $500 to the Georgia State Industrial college, an institution for negro men and women, this afternoon while making a visit there with Governor Smith and his party. Mr. Raskob made the presentation after the student body had sung songs and spirituals for the democratic leader. The college is under the supervision of the University of Georgia, and its president is Benjamin F. Hubert.

FLORIDA EAGERLY AWAITS SMITH.

Tallahassee, Fla., November 15.—(AP)—Florida state officials and local residents tonight prepared to attempt a glimpse of Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, when the latter arrives here tomorrow afternoon.

"While no formal ceremony was planned for the brief pause here of the train bearing the New York executive to Biloxi, Miss., there was a general expression of intention on all sides to be at the station just to catch sight of the democratic presidential nominee if possible.

Governor John W. Martin and members of his cabinet said they would be on hand, and the city also will be represented officially. The train may remain here slightly longer than the customary ten or fifteen minutes, it was stated.

"The train will stop long enough for all those who wish to do so to see Governor Smith," Governor Martin said. "As long as I am governor, I know a train bearing so distinguished a visitor will stop.

BOY, 8, IS KILLED BY FALLING ROCK

mass of earth and rock which descended across the walk.

One fragment, weighing two or three hundred pounds, hit the boy directly on the head and crushed his skull. The boy's playmates screamed in terror and a negro messenger, passing on his motorcycle, stopped and dragged the rock from the boy's skull. The lad was faintly breathing but was dead when an ambulance from Grady hospital arrived a few minutes later.

Youth Jumps Clear.

Milas Wallace, who was standing on the rock when it started to crumble from its bed, jumped clear of the stone and was slightly cut. The other Wallace youth ran clear of the descending mass and escaped injury by inches.

The victim's body was taken to Awtry and Lowndes company chapel, where it is being held pending the completion of funeral arrangements. The boy is survived by his parents, three sisters, Jessie, Ruby and Anita Guice, and a brother, Alton Guice.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE GLOATS OVER VICTORY

Issues Statement Crediting Defection of Southern States to Dry Fight.

Atlantic City, N. J., November 15.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league, meeting here today, referred to the administration committee the preparation of a statement to be issued a month hence, indicating the league's program for the coming year.

The meeting was presided over by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Richmond, Va., in the absence of the Rev. A. J. Barton, of Atlanta, Ga.

A statement reviewing the recent election was issued by the committee on publicity, of which Dr. F. S. McBride, general superintendent of the league, is a member.

"The Anti-Saloon league of America," the statement said, "is devoutly thankful over the presidential verdict rendered by the American electorate on November 6. It is in no partisan spirit that we affirm that our faith in the men and women voters of the nation has been amply justified. Unquestionably there were different factors which affected the vote, but none of these, nor all of them combined, would have been conclusive, separate and apart from the issue of prohibition. Had Hoover been the wet and Smith the dry, no one can imagine that Florida, North Carolina, Virginia, Texas, Oklahoma, Tenessee and Kentucky would have forsaken the democratic dry to support a wet republican."

The league pledges its loyal support in such constructive effort as the new federal administration may adopt to make prohibition effective and by educational programs will seek to build a public opinion that will sustain the prohibition policy.

CRIMINAL NEGLECT CHARGED TO OFFICERS

the passengers neither were told to don life belts nor given any assistance in getting to the lifeboats.

Husbands were ordered out of boats in which their wives were stationed and members of the crew allowed to take the vacant places, they testified. And the lifeboats were sprung in the seams so they leaked faster than they could be bailed out. Two witnesses told of gaping holes in the boats, one saying that women and children were put into a boat that had a hole six inches across in its side.

Evidence of Mutiny.

None of the witnesses saw any officers except the captain on deck while the crew was making vain attempts to launch the boats. There was one hearsay report of an individual instance of mutiny in which an officer was said to have drawn a pistol which a negro member wrenched from his grasp and threw overboard.

The survivors testified at the opening session of the federal inquiry before United States Commmissioner Francis O'Neil conducted by United States Attorney Charles Tuttle and four assistants. Today's witnesses were all passengers, beginning with Frederick W. Puppe, whose wife and 7-months-old baby were lost when the ship sank, and ending with Carlos Quiros, chancellor of the Argentine consulate general at Washington. Tomorrow officers and members of the crew of the Vestris will be called.

Tuttle told reporters at the close of today's session that he was not sure about the jurisdiction of United States courts in the matter, the Vestris being a British ship, but added that he was giving little thought to jurisdiction.

Tells of Losing Wife.

"What I want to find out," he said, "is whether charges are true that American citizens have lost their lives at sea through negligence. If anybody's negligence has cost the lives of American citizens those people will be called to account by this office. We'll talk about jurisdiction later."

The first and most dramatic witness was Puppe. In a broken voice—choking up at times and once breaking off his testimony to remove his spectacles and polish them—Puppe told how he stood with his wife and baby on the sharply sloping deck of the Vestris Monday forenoon and anxiously scanned the horizon for "the steamers we were absolutely sure must have been called to our help."

"Suddenly, though we heard no orders and though no officers were in sight," he said, "the crew began to take down the lifeboats. You could see that none of them had even tried to lower a lifeboat before. They ran from one boat to another, taking things from one and putting them into another. I didn't realize what this meant, but later I discovered. At night, when we were out in the lifeboat, we saw that there were flares in some of the other boats, though ours were wet.

Steward Said Drunk.

"Then I realized what it meant when I saw men taking things from one boat and putting them into others. They were fixing a few with proper equipment, planning to ride in them themselves, and they winked to their friends to join them."

Puppe charged the ship's crew with an inefficiency which he said was indicated first when they sailed Saturday, and he was told that the steward in charge of his stateroom was drunk and continued right through to the long hours in the lifeboat, when he testified the occupants found salt water in the drinking casks. Monday morning, when he went to the kitchen to find some food and water for his wife and baby, he said he was told to "go find it yourself."

Puppe testified that, separated from his wife and child, he saw one of the lifeboats break and plunge its occupants into the sea, and that he finally got into a boat and rowed away, not knowing the fate of his loved ones.

Envoy's Story.

"I saw two lifeboats," Puppe testified, "still clinging to the ship when she went over."

Quiros, a dapper figure in spats, with a new pearl gray hat resting on his knees, furnished some of the most dramatic moments of the afternoon. In broken English he described the confusion on the slanting deck of the Vestris Monday morning.

"Man I knew, a pugelist," he said, "came up to me and said: "'Things are geting bad. I just saw an officer pull a gun on a negro seaman, and the negro grabbed the gun and threw it into the sea.'"

"Anyone with common sense," Quiors said, "would have sent an S O S from the Vestris more than 12 hours earlier than Captain Carey did."

Quiros testified that even as she left the harbor Saturday, the Vestris was listing. Friends who saw him off, he asserted warned him against the boat, saying it was "one of the worst in the service."

Flares No Good.

His dark eyes flashing with indignation, Quiros declared that men were separated from their wives as the lifeboats were filled, and their places in the lifeboats taken by members of the crew. He said that, as one boat was being lowered, members of the crew were patching a hole in its side—"an old hole," he said, "dark around the edges."

Wallace Sinclair, one of the calmest witnesses, said that the flares in his lifeboat were in a cannister so rusted that nobody could get it opened until a negro seaman finally chopped it open with a hatchet. No members of the crew in that lifeboat, he charged, knew where the flares were. "We had to find them ourselves," he said, "and when we did, and finally got them out of the cannister, half of them broke."

Sinclair charged that there was "an entire lack of any intelligent plan of getting the lifeboats down, or getting the passengers into them."

Sinclair said the lifeboat in which he rode was minus patches of paint as big as his hand and leaked at the seams.

"I did not hear, at any time," he said, "an order to the passengers to put on their life belts."

Port Holes Open.

Herman Rueckert, of Leipzig, Germany, a first-class passenger, gave a graphic picture of the way the ship lurched before the storm that struck it almost as soon as it got to sea.

"At dinner on Sunday," he said, "there was a port hole that wouldn't close. A woman was drenched and had to move to another table. The same thing happened there. Then the ship gave a great roll. Dishes went everywhere and one man was thrown under a table."

The next morning he opened his cabin door to see a steward running by with a life belt on. "Should I also have a life belt?" he asked, and said the steward told him he might as well. That, he said, was all that was done by way of preparing the passengers to go overboard. He got into a lifeboat, but it leaked so much that he jumped out and swam to another, which was rowed away from him. Then the boat he had been in sank. He said it was the roughest sea he had ever experienced and he had traveled widely.

The next witness, Walter Spitz, a business man of Berne, Switzerland, testified in German through an interpreter. It was he who told of seeing a great hole in one of the boats into which women and children were placed. The hole was knocked in the boat, he said, while the crew was getting it loose preparatory to lowering it. But the women and children were put in anyway, and then left swinging in the davits, no one, he said, paying any attention to them, until the Vestris sank and carried them all down with it.

Spitz himself got into a boat crowded to the guards, and as it was being lowered it turned over and all were hurled into the water.

BRITISH BEGIN OWN INVESTIGATION.

London, November 15.—(AP)—The British board of trade today ordered an investigation into all the phases of the sinking of the Lamport and Holt steamer Vestris off the Virginia Capes Monday.

In the order for the investigation there was no indication of the form such an inquiry will take or even where it will be held, and it was understood tonight these matters had not been settled.

The Vestris disaster, however, has aroused public opinion to such pitch—it might even be called alarm—that there is sure to be insistence upon a minute and searching inquiry into every circumstance attendant upon the disaster, it is said here. This likely will include full investigation of the conditions of lifeboats and other life-saving apparatus, and as a result of it parliamentary action making for greater safety of lives at sea may be sought.

It is believed the board of trade before giving itself to further action will await the receipt of all evidence from the investigation now under way in the United States before making its final decision as to the character of its own inquiry.

Safe After Night Spent on Atlantic Ocean

JAP HEROINE BRAVE AS HUSBAND DIES

Inouye had become unconscious just before she was rescued and that the last memory of her husband was by her side when she lost consciousness.

Woman "Had Fine Spirit."

Despite injuries to both of her legs which temporarily at least prevent her from walking, the captain said the heroic little widow "had fine spirit."

It was not know how long she would remain in the hospital at Portsmouth but the captain believed she would return to Japan when able to travel.

Like the survivors who landed in New York, those on the Wyoming blamed mismanagement by the company and bad judgment on the part of Captain Carey for the disaster.

Seven of the survivors were able to walk unassisted to the hospital ship which took them off the Wyoming and to Portsmouth naval hospital near here. Mme. Inouye was the only one who had to be carried on a stretcher.

Commander E. A. Vickery who attended the survivors said he was confident all would survive their harrowing experience and physical injuries.

Mrs. Batten, like Mme. Inouye, clung to her husband's body long after he was dead, rescuing officers said.

Oficers explained the fact that several husbands died while their wives survived on the ground that the men, before they were thrown into the water exhausted themselves bailing or in other ways and were unable to survive the remaining ordeal.

Cracked Valve Stressed.

Stories of survivors indicated that a cracked sea valve in the fire room ash-hopper might have caused the Vestris to founder. Negro stokers said the valve may have been cracked before the ship left New York.

One of the negroes said there had been some question whether or not the Vestris should sail. She began listing to starboard Sunday morning and the list became greater gradually.

Some passengers thought the Vestris was crippled by a leak when she ran into the storm Sunday night and that the inrush of water became so great it could not be controlled. The cargo of motor trucks shifted and the Vestris went almost over on her beam ends. Coal in the bunker room clogged the outlet drains, interfering with the pumps. At 10 p. m. Sunday a motor truck broke through a bulkhead into the crew's quarters. The fireroom flooded Sunday night.

Tragedy followed women and children into No. 4 lifeboat, which stove a hole while being launched on the port side and sank. No. 4 contained 16 women and children, all of whom were lost.

The Wyoming sighted lifeboat No. 8 amidst the wreckage bottom up. Survivors charged that No. 8 was overloaded and undermanned. Mrs. Batten, was in number 8 and she said: "The crowded passengers were forcibly prevented from shifting to another boat containing only five or six persons. When Mrs. Batten attempted to leap into the uncrowded boat, she said, a member of the crew shoved an oar in her face and kept her away.

Craft Swamped Six Times.

The story of lifeboat No. 8 was a succession of terrifying experiences during which the water-logged craft was swamped six successive times and righted herself each time until the last, when she remained bottom up. Every time No. 8 was swamped by a heavy sea and a few of her passengers failed to come to the surface, so that the number in the boat was reduced by drowning a few at a time.

Mrs. Ulrich, Mrs. Batten and two negro seamen, Morris and Burton, were hanging on to the overtured No. 8 when the Wyoming appeared. In their wild desire for rescue the four began swimming toward the battleship, with Burton, a giant negro, frequently pausing to wave a torn shirt above the surface, hoping to attract the Wyoming's attention.

The women praised Burton's courage, saying that he kept shouting to them as they swam to be of good heart because he thought he had seen an answering wave from the Wyoming.

Of the eight survivors, Burton was the only one who apparently was unmarked and uninjured by his experience. Ships officers said that he probably was responsible for saving the two women. Morrison was exhausted when he came aboard.

On Brink of Death.

Boxhill was unconscious and probably would have died in another five minutes. All the women were bruised, but they held up marvelously despite their terrible experience. The husbands of Mrs. Ulrich and Mrs. Doril were believed to have been saved on other vessels, but it was found that all three of the other women were widowed. Mrs. Ulrich lost a son and Mrs. Fernandez Rua lost a daughter.

Two seamen of the Wyoming were severely injured during the rescue operation. Both were removed from the vessel on stretchers, S. J. Saboni suffering from a lacerated thigh and S. W. Baker with a fractured skull. Baker's condition was serious. The men were hurt when a wave broke over the Wyoming and smashed them against a turret.

The two negro survivors of the Vestris, registered their appreciation to the crew of the battleship Wyoming by pausing before being taken ashore and saluting in a snappy, true military fashion and stepping into the waiting hospital ship with broad grins of satisfaction on their faces.

Burton was responsible for saving the lives of Mrs. Ulrich and Mrs. Batten.

workers are needed. It would not be too much, the campaign leaders said in a statement Thursday, if every person in Atlanta were enlisted for active work. To this end the invitation was extended for every person desiring to participate in the campaign who has not been enlisted otherwise, to attend the meeting on the Ansley roof and to partake of the dinner that will be served.

The campaign organizations embraces men and women alike. Under leadership of Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, with Mrs. Frank Holland and Mrs. William Huger as cochairmen, an aggressive organization of women workers has been formed, for the first time in the history of Chest operations, pledged to take the message of the Chest's work and its needs to the homes of Atlanta.

Radio and Pulpits.

The message will be uttered also by means of the radio and from the pulpits of most Atlanta churches Sunday.

It will be presented by practical demonstration by the 38 agencies themselves Sunday afternoon, when from 2:30 to 5:30 o'clock the offices, home, or clinic of every agency will be open for public visits. Members of the staff of each agency will be on hand to welcome visitors and display the operations and methods.

In all these contacts with the public the message will be delivered that recent reorganization of the Chest has made it more effective, economical, and business-like than ever before and that enlargement of the board of directors has made it truly a community institution, with broader and more intimate associations between the public and the agencies which perform the public's social welfare work.

Utilities Companies Committees.

Employees of utilities companies of Atlanta will be given ample opportunity to contribute to the sixth campaign of the Community Chest this week, committees from each division having been appointed to organize the work within their own companies.

Albert E. Thornton and Edwin A. Clement are cochairmen of this important department and final plans for the canvass of their districts were completed at a luncheon given them Thursday by H. M. Atkinson, president of the Community Chest, at the Atlanta Athletic club.

Members of the committee are as follows: Miss Ruth Perry, A., B. & C.; J. A. Craig, A. & W. P.; H. C. Garrison, Joint Terminal; F. J. Robinson, C. of G.; W. B. Pope, Seaboard; H. C. Couch, Southern; F. K. Creech, American Telephone; Roy K. Smith, American Railway Express; H. L. Wills, Georgia Power; J. O. Young, Postal Telegraph; Mr. Clement, Southern Bell.

Other chairmen are to be named later.

GEORGIA COUPLE CHARGED IN MURDER

mediately complained of being ill. Within a few hours he was dead.

The next regular term of Long county superior court does not meet until next spring, but Judge J. Saxton Daniel had not indicated tonight whether he would call a special term to try Mrs. Delk and Stafford.

At the time Delk died it was believed his death was due to natural causes, but neighbors became suspicious and the body was exhumed. The viscera was sent to the state chemist at Atlanta for examination, while Mrs. Delk and Stafford were taken into custody.

The chemist's examination, it was said, disclosed traces of poison, but Mrs. Delk and Stafford were released after a preliminary hearing. Citizens, still not satisfied, petitioned for a grand jury investigation, and a special session of the Long county jury was called today. Its investigation ended with the return of the true bills.

Mrs. Delk was said tonight to be at the home of her father in Jacksonville, Fla., while Stafford was at his father's home in Liberty county. Neither had been arrested.

OPEN COAL HOLE SAID CAUSE OF SEA TRAGEDY

Fireman Says Port Hole Could Not Be Closed Against Waves.

New York, November 15.—(AP)—Evans Hampden, a fireman of the wrecked Vestris landed by the tanker Myriam today, voiced on behalf of the 23 firemen of the party the belief that an S O S should have been broadcast by the Vestris at 8 o'clock Sunday night, when, he said, the ship was listing at 15 degrees and water in the fire room was hip deep.

The disaster, Hampden believed, was due almost entirely to a coal hole on the port side, four inches above the water line, which, he said, was open six inches when the Vestris sailed from Hoboken, N. J., and which was so defective it could not be closed.

When Hampden went on duty in the fire room at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, he said, the chief engineer was warned that water was leaking through the hole into the coal bunkers, but two men were unable to force the door closed with heavy wooden hammers.

When he went off duty at 8 o'clock, he said, the water was ankle deep in the fire room, and when he returned at 4 o'clock in the afternoon it had already put out the fires under the starboard boiler and was coming in fast.

Chief Engineer Avard Adams helped man the pumps, but the water entered so fast that a life line was rigged between the coal bunker and the entrance door to help the firemen keep their feet. Then it became so bad that two men supported the shovelers to keep them from going down into hip deep water or lunging into the open fireboxes.

At last, before he went off duty at 8 o'clock Sunday night, a bucket brigade was passing coal from bunkers to furnace doors while bedroom stewards helped bail the boiler room. A heavy lurch of the ship sent the water up to the men's necks.

Up to this time, Hampden said, no S O S had been sent out, although men had made the perilous journey from boiler room to bridge, after telephone communications went out, to keep Captain Carey informed of the situation.

TORNADOES KILL ONE, INJURE SIX IN IOWA

Vinton, Iowa, November 15.—(AP)—Tornadoes dropped out of black skies in three separate localities of northeastern Iowa late yesterday, causing at least one death, injuries to six, and property damage that will run into many thousands of dollars.

Two twisters struck, one sweeping down about five miles south of Vinton, in Benton county, cutting a path 40 rods wide for 11 miles, then bounding, to drop on the farming community called Silver Creek, 20 miles northeast. The other tornado, at about the same hour, struck at Chester, 90 miles northwest of Silver Creek.

When the first twister took its last dive at Silver Creek, it caused the death of Mrs. Alpha Hawkinson, 30, when it crushed the barn in which she was milking. That was the only casualty reported there, but two farmsteads were completely demolished, and about a score others damaged, much livestock was killed and trees and telephone poles were laid flat. Damage in that vicinity was estimated at $75,000 or more.

On its earlier journey, the twister had caused injuries to at least four persons and had wrecked 10 farmsteads, in addition to damaging many others. Near the start of its course south of here, it turned toward the William Herman home, causing severe cuts to Mrs. Herman and her two children. They had taken refuge in the cellar, but when fire broke out they were driven from their haven. Working in a nearby field, Mr. Herman escaped injury.

Next the tornado destroyed the house and barns on the John Fry farm, where one man was injured.

From that point on to the end of the eleven-mile stretch, eight more farm layouts were reported leveled, and many more damaged, with much loss of livestock. Damage in this ravaged strip may exceed $150,000.

Chester, Iowa, just below the Minnesota line and 40 miles from Austin, Minn., which was visited by a death dealing twister August 19, was the only town reported hit. The second funnel-cloud paid its visit to this community of 250 residents, injured two and damaged the Methodist parsonage, a creamery building and a residence.

OKLAHOMA STORM KILLS ONE, HURTS 2 IN RAZED HOME

Orlando, Okla., November 15.—(AP) A terrific wind which struck a farm region southeast of here tonight caused one death, injured two persons and wrecked two homes.

Mrs. John Stevens was killed in the debris of her home, and her husband was injured. Ernest Thedford, about 17 years old, also was injured. Stevens and Thedford were taken to a hospital at Guthrie.

Lights were extinguished by the storm, which tore down electric power lines and tangled telephone lines.

E. H. Wyatt, an employee of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company here, said the storm was accompanied in Orlando by a high wind from the southwest and heavy rain. The storm produced a roaring, he said, like the passing of a freight train.

Asthma So Bad She Was Hopeless

Folks whose asthma or bronchial cough seems to be getting the best of them, will be glad to know how Mrs. M. Bennett, 128 N. Noble St., Indianapolis, Ind., regained health. She writes:

"I suffered with asthma for years. Three years ago, I caught the flu, and my asthma became so bad I was hopeless. I coughed and choked so I could hardly breathe, and thought my time had come. My daughter read about Nacor, and got a bottle. I didn't see any use trying it, but I did, and improved almost at once. In all, I took 3 bottles. I recovered entirely and have never had a sign of asthma since. I am 63 years old and feeling just fine."

Hundreds of other sufferers have reported their complete recovery from asthma and bronchial coughs. Their letters, telling how their trouble left and never returned, will gladly be sent free by Nacor Medicine Co., 649 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind., together with a booklet of valuable information about these diseases. No matter how serious your case, write for this free information. It has guided thousands back to health.—(adv.)

RADIO OPERATOR WHO DIED AT KEY WILL BE HONORED

New York, November 15.—(AP)—The name of the Vestris' young radio operator, Michael J. O'Loughlin, will be inscribed on the monument in Battery park erected to the memory of wireless men as one who kept the unwritten law of the sea by sticking to his ship until the end.

His will be the fifteenth name on the roll of honor. One of the first is Jack Philips, the radio operator of the Titanic. The Veteran Wireless Operators' association today planned a memorial service for O'Laughlin at the monument.

The president of the association is J. F. J. Maher, who was chief operator of the Vestris in 1913.

VESUVIUS BEGINS AS ETNA DIES DOWN

Naples, November 15.—(AP)—As the outpouring of molten lava from Mount Etna continued to diminish today, Mount Vesuvious became active.

Incandescent matter was being thrown out from a small orfice at the base of the central cone from which it spouted last August. The eruptive activity was on the northwest side almost under the station of the cable railway running toward the summit.

Lava was pouring from the fissures of the main crater which sent out tongues of flames into the valley of the inferno last August.

The spectacle was interesting tourists and scientists but the population of the vicinity was not enthusiastic.

A dispatch to the Giornale d'Italia from Alfio, Sicily, said that a new eruptive mouth opened this morning in Mount Etna about 150 feet from mouths of Anaca. The lava stream from the new mouth advanced rapidly and destroyed prosperous vineyards which had hither-to escaped damage.

The dispatch added that on the main front of the eruption the lava had slowed down to a velocity of 3.2 feet an hour and that the volcanic activity was decreasing all along the line.

OLDFIELD SUFFERS ATTACK; OPERATION MAY BE NECESSARY

Washington, November 15.—(AP)—Representative William A. Oldfield, of Arkansas, the democratic whip in the house, today suffered an attack of gall bladder trouble and was taken to a hospital.

It was said at his office that an operation might be necessary.

HOOVER CLEARS WORK FOR SOUTHERN TOUR

Stanford University, Calif., November 15.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover was immersed in the work of completing preparations for his good-will trip to South America today and laid it aside only to receive some of the well wishers who called upon him.

Among these was a delegation of classmates of the president-elect at Stanford university in 1895, most of them now San Francisco business men. The group, more than a dozen strong, was headed by former Judge George E. Crothers, of San Francisco, and Thomas K. Code, the first quarterback Stanford university ever produced.

Receives Callers.

Another caller during the day was Representative W. E. Hull, of Peoria, Ill., who called to convey his congratulations. Hull traversed the same route through South America a year or so ago as will the president-elect, the Illinois congressman having been a member of a commission appointed to study and aid in the promotion of good roads on the southern continent.

In addition to discussing the forthcoming South American trip, Representative Hull talked to Mr. Hoover for some time concerning inland waterway development, especially the Great Lakes-to-the-gulf waterway and the proposed St. Lawrence outlet from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

Hoover dealt with these matters in several of his campaign speeches, endorsing both projects and declaring for a coordinated system of inland waterways as one element in the general farm relief program, which he outlined first in his acceptance speech, again in his West Branch, Iowa, speech, and finally in the last set address, that at St. Louis, on his campaign drive across the continent to his home here to vote.

Between callers the president-elect worked away at the multitude of details that must be cleared away before he leaves Palo Alto Sunday evening for San Pedro to board the battleship Maryland for his voyage.

An additional battery of typists has been put to work grinding out the thousands of replied that still remain to be made to letters and telegrams that continue to pile into the Hoover residence by every mail and over the special telegraph loops that have been set up.

Every effort is being made to speed up this work so that the president-elect may leave a clear desk behind him when he departs.

No decision yet has been reached concerning the possible inclusion of visits to Ecuador and Bolivia in his itinerary for the journey and it had been indicated that the complete schedule may not be worked out until after the arrival of Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher, who will accompany Mr. Hoover.

GERMAN DEPUTIES HOLD HOT SESSION OVER BATTLESHIP

Berlin, November 15.—(AP) — The construction of Germany's first battleship since the conclusion of the war brought bitter animosities to the surface in the course of debate in the reichstag today.

The battleship is one for which 9,000,000 marks already have been appropriated, and the construction of which has been supported by both President Von Hindenburg and Lieutenant General Wilhelm Groener, minister of defense.

A motion to halt its construction on the ground that Germany can ill afford to spend its money on a lone battleship which will be no match for the more adequate navies of other countries was presented by the social democrat, Otto Weis. In the debate which followed partisans and opponents of the construction hurled epithets at each other, and of most they was said Chancellor Mueller seemed to be the victim.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whisky, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk 60c for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonful. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—(adv.)

Saint-Saens' prelude to "The Deluge," one of the oratorios by the great French composer, is founded on the events of the Old Testament at the time of the Great Flood. After this opening number, another work by the same master will be heard in "Arabian Love Song."

The overture, all that remains of Rossini's opera, "William Tell," is well known. It follows closely the Schiller drama, and the orchestral pictures in the overture may be said to represent, briefly, sunrise among the mountain solitudes; a gathering Alpine storm; the andante shepherd's motive on the pipe (English horn in the score), followed by brilliant trumpet calls calling the Swiss soldiers to march against the invader. The concluding quickstep is at once recognized. It is a melodious work, with effective and significant instrumentation.

"The Overture" is the heading of the second half of the program, which is for the benefit particularly of students in high schools and colleges. Beethoven's "Egmont" overture, written in 1809-10, follows somewhat Goethe's historical narrative of the Count of Egmont, the Flemish nobleman who was associated with William of Orange in his labors for the liberty of the Netherlands.

The piece opens with a short andante, followed by a sarabande played on the strings. The allegro, or main section, opens with a crescendo, and a development of certain passages leads to a tremendous climax.

In conclusion of the program, the overture to "Le Roi d'Ys," by Edouard Lalo, is taken from the opera "La Roi d'Ys" (produced in Paris in 1898). The opera itself deals with the Breton legend of Ys, and its king whose daughters, Margared and Rozenn, were both in love with the warrior Mylio, conqueror and would-be king of Ys.

As Mylio weds Rozenn, her insanely jealous sister, Margared, opens the sea-gates to flood the town. As the people kneel in prayer, Margared admits her guilt and casts herself into the raging flood as a sacrifice. A vision of St. Corentin, patron saint of the city, appears in acceptance of the sacrifice, and the waters subside. It is the composer's one important opera, with many beautiful lyric passages, although the plot is a melancholy one.

The complete program for this broadcast follows:

First Half, "Violin, Viola and Violoncello."
Prelude to "The Deluge"	Saint-Saens
Arabian Love Song	Saint-Saens
Introduction from Overture to "William Tell"	Rossini
Second Half, "The Overture."
Overture to "Egmont"	Beethoven
Overture to "Le Roi d'Ys"	Lalo

Barnum's show, will tell about in the Dixies circus, broadcast through WSB and the NBC system at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

Man's faithful canine friend is just as necessary around a circus as he is in sheep-herding or hunting. "Uncle Bob" has a wealth of interesting material anent this particular feature of life under the big top which he will offer to the radio audience.

A musical background by the circus and clown bands, and the caliope will take listeners back to the old days of the sawdust ring.

"Sail Away, Ladies" is Dad's merry chant concerning the frivolities of women, also heard on this program. His family, well known for their versatility of interpretation, will join him in "Little Brown Church in the Vale."

Featuring old dance forms and marches, the orchestra, under the direction of Andy Sannella, will open the program with a march medley by Calvin of tunes made famous in the Civil war period. Starzynski's brilliant "Butka Mazurka;" the composition by Christine, "Petite Ton Rinoise," a polka especially scored for strings, and "Lead the Way," by Lilienthal, a gallop alive with color and action, will be other orchestral selections.

In the former, Miss De Baun will be accompanied by the string orchestra under the direction of Bert Hirsch, while the Quakers' male quartet will provide accompaniment for the second solo.

The Armstrong Quakers will present three selections especially arranged for mixed vocal octet by Ann Lang and Ken Christie: "I'm Looking Over a Four-Leaf Clover," Logan's "Pale Moon," and "Thou Swell," from the score of "A Connecticut Yankee." The Armstrong Quakers are Dorothy Miller, Irma de Baun, Janet Hall and Mary Hopple, of the Frollickers girls' quartet, and Randolph Weyant, Victor Hall, Norman Le Moyne and A. R. McAdams, of the Rollickers male quartet. The Quakers' programs are under the supervision of Frank J. Black, noted composer, pianist and arranger.

Orchestral features for the program are Dvorak's "Slavonic Dance No. 1:" a polka from Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," and a further dance form of other days, a minuet from "Manon," by Massenet.

Instrumental soloists play an important part in the entertainment, bringing as their offering "I'm Wingin' Home," as a xylophone solo; Tarenghi's "Serenade," played on the accordion; "My Treasurer," heard as a cornet number; and "Humoreskimo," by Wendling, rendered as a banjo selection.

En route to New York, where they will spend Thanksgiving day, Mary and Bob will stop off at Princeton, from which point they are to be heard in the True Story Hour, to be broadcast by the Columbia system at 8 o'clock tonight.

Mary and Bob are stopping off at Princeton so that they may attend the Princeton-Yale football game, which is to be played there, and it is rumored that a very interesting true story will be related to the young seekers for "truth that is stranger than fiction" by a resident of Princeton.

The first half of the True Story Hour will describe musically Mary and Bob's trip to and around Princeton, while the second portion of the broadcast is to be the dramatized version of the true story.

JAZZLESS ZION CITY ASKS MORE AIR TIME

BY MARTIN CODEL.

Washington, November 15.—"No jazz and no absurdities"—even though he believes the earth flat, Wilber Glenn Voliva doesn't use his radio station, WCBD, at Zion City, Ill., to tell it to the world. Never has a strain of syncopation left its antenna, nor has anyone ever tried to signal mars from it. Radio WCBD has a more serious purpose.

The noted overseer of Zion City was in Washington today to obtain more "time on the air" for WCBD from the federal radio commission. Somewhat unexpectedly, he and his retinue found themselves involved in a three-cornered struggle for radio privileges in the Chicago area.

The bickering and wrangling between counsel for WENR and WLS, both Chicago, and both seeking longer hours of operation on the same wave length, were wholly distasteful to Overseer Voliva. He came here, he said, to obtain only five evening hours a week on the same channel for WCBD instead of its present "daytime only" assignment.

Let "theater and comedy" be furnished by other broadcasting stations. Zion City's, he said, is dedicated to providing only the great choruses, anthems, cantatas and folk songs sung by the highly trained talent right in his flock of about 5,000 in the little community lying midway between Chicago and Milwaukee.

Most of Zion City's homes are radio-equipped, but the purpose of the station is to send out "ennobling" programs for the whole country to hear, he said.

The radio commission will take the case under advisement, later deciding how much broadcasting time shall finally be granted to the three contesting and strangely contrasting applicants from the Chicago area.

ENGLISH WRITER SAYS U. S. WOMEN STARVED BY MONEY

London, November 15.—(AP)—Rebecca West, famous British novelist, who has just returned from a visit to the United States, in a lecture here tonight before the Fabian society, pictured the United States as a place where most people live in sky-scrapers with their women perched high in the air where they can't keep a dog, much less families.

Lives of American women materially inclined thus become as tragic, she said, as those of peasant women in Europe who must have more children than they want.

Miss West said the wealth of America was being used to starve women in order to prevent their normal development and she asserted one of the most sinister features of American life is the emphasis that is placed on the woman criminal.

Pages and pages are devoted to bobhaired bandits and women murderers receive scores of letters proposing marriage, she said, addding that the attitude of the public often became hysterical over the women figuring in the sensational cases.

'HOMECOMING DAY' OBSERVED BY ELKS

Dutch Lunch, Smoker and Speeches Given for Record Attendance.

With a record attendance present at perhaps the most auspicious meeting of the year, Home-coming day of the Atlanta Elks' club Thursday night, was celebrated with a Dutch lunch, a smoker and a number of excellent speeches by notables of the order.

Announcements previous to the meeting that all Elks, whether in good or bad standing with the order, were invited to attend and participate in the fellowship meeting, resulted in one of the most widely attended meetings of the year.

Colonel Walter P. Andrews, chief justice of the grand forum of Elks, headed a program of speakers who gave fellowship talks and urged former members who had let their membership expire to reenlist in the lodge and participate in the many activities of the order. Others who spoke were Dr. Herbert B. Kennedy, exalted ruler of Atlanta lodge, No. 78, and J. Turner Fitten, past exalted ruler.

The program was arranged by B. C. Broyles, executive secretary of the lodge, and included presentation of the Elks' quartet in song numbers.

Accused in Auto Theft, Man Hints At Liquor Pact

Macon, Ga., November 15.—(AP)—Donald Edwards, formerly of Ocala, Fla., on trial in federal court here today charged with the theft of an automobile owned by Elmer Keen, paint contractor of Ocala, and transporting the machine to Georgia, declared on the witness stand that he and Keen were in a "deal" to transport whisky.

Edwards said that Keen permitted him to use the machine to transport a whisky shipment from Bradenton, Fla., to Tifton, Ga. Keen, however, denied that he had ever seen Edwards.

Keen testified that his automobile was stolen from his driveway on the night of April 16. Edwards was arrested at Tifton some time later, giving the name of George Long. Edwards has been in the Tift county jail until his trial began today.

W. A. Bottle, assistant United States attorney, placed witnesses on the stand to testify as to Keen's good character. One of them said that he had never heard of Keen "even being accused of dealing in whisky."

Edwards' statement was the only evidence offered by the defense. Both sides rested, arguments were completed and Judge Bascom S. Deaver will charge the jury tomorrow morning.

4 FIRE COMPANIES RESPOND TO CALL TURNED IN BY AUTO

Hurled against a fire alarm box late Thursday afternoon after a crash with another machine, the automobile of J. C. Smith, of 1360 E. Fair street, became entangled in the mechanism and summoned four fire companies before a patrolman could stop the alarm from ringing. Four people were injured in the crash.

According to the police report of Patrolman J. C. Moseley, Smith was driving his car east on Ormewood avenue at Confederate when it crashed into another automobile driven by F. H. Puckett, of a Trinity street address, who was going south on Confederate avenue.

Smith's car was tossed against a fire box by the impact, and in some manner the alarm lever became fastened down, resisting for a while the efforts of Patrolman Moseley to free it.

At Grady hospital, it was said that Smith suffered a possible fractured skull. Miss Lois Wall, of 1054 Kirkwood avenue, received a fractured pelvis, while Miss A. Wall, of the same address, and Miss Paris Parker, of Clarkston, were shaken up and bruised.

BANKERS GATHER AT DINNER-DANCE TO HONOR TOTTON

More than 150 junior and senior members of the Atlanta chapter of the American Institute of Banking Thursday night attended a dinner-dance at the Capital City club, in honor of Frank M. Totton, of New York, national president of the institute and assistant cashier of the Chase National bank of New York city.

Mr. Totton was principal speaker at the dinner and gave an outline of the work of the institute. Sitting at the speakers' table were Edgar A. Stubbs, Robert F. Maddox, H. Lane Young, Charles E. Tillman, Carl H. Lewis, V. K. Bowman, and W. R. DeLoach. Carl H. Lewis served as toastmaster.

FIRE DAMAGES HOUSE

Over-Heated Gas Heater Declared Responsible.

Fire, resulting from an over-heated gas heater in a bathroom on the second floor, did considerable damage to a two-story frame house occupied by W. L. Telford, 897 Edgewood avenue, early Thursday night.

Mr. Telford told firemen that shortly before the blaze was discovered he had entered the bathroom and found the heater "red hot." He said that he had turned off the gas and returned to the first floor, later going back to the second floor and finding the roof in flames. Practically the entire roof was destroyed.

HOUSE GROUP TO HOLD VOTE INQUIRY IN TEXAS

Plans to Visit State Follows Charges Over Irregularities.

Washington, November 15.—(AP) Investigation of charges of irregularities in both the democratic primary and national election in southern Texas was decided upon today by the house campaign funds committee, which voted unanimously to leave for that state November 23 to begin a series of hearings.

Chairman Lehlbach said the committee's action was taken largely because of the number of complaints over the national campaign rather than those which have been made concerning the primary contest in which the house seat of John N. Garner, veteran of the Texas congressional delegation, is involved.

The chairman explained that only today another request for inquiry into the national campaign in southern Texas counties had been filed by Mayor F. S. Freland, of McAllen, Texas, and that similar requests had been made by mayors and prominent citizens of other communities.

Representative Lehlbach did not disclose the specific nature of the charges regarding the presidential election in which Texas forsook its customary adherence to the democratic standard and cast its electoral vote for Hoover and Curtis.

Representative Garner has personally requested the committee to inquire into the primary in the 15th Texas congressional district, which he for an even quarter of a century has represented in the house.

The Texan, who is regarded as the likely successor to Representative Finis Garrett, of Tennessee as democratic house floor leader in the 71st congress, now is ranking democratic member on the important ways and means committee.

ROBBER IS SLAIN, ACCOMPLICE SHOT

Marietta, Okla., November 15.—(AP) One robber was killed and another seriously wounded here today in a gun battle with a hastily recruited posse of approximately 50 men when an attempt to rob the First National bank was frustrated. The loot, $10,000, which the pair carried in a sack, was recovered.

Colbert Keel, 55, was killed and Haynie Liddell, 35, suffered buckshot wounds. Liddell was sought in connection with the robbery of the Love County National Bank at Marietta about a year ago, in which one of the robbers, Oscar Harrison, of Goose Creek, Texas, was killed and Sheriff Sam Long, of Love county, suffered wounds that proved fatal a few days later. Liddell also had been indicted by a federal grand jury at Oklahoma City for using the mails to defraud in a land sale scheme.

M. A. Conrad, president of the bank, and two members of the posse, R. C. Morrie, a tailor, and A. W. Stafford, sheriff-elect of Love county, were also wounded in the exchange of shots.

Leaving an automobile, with its motor running, at a rear door of the bank, Keel and Liddell entered the depository each with two guns drawn. Keel forced the bank employees to thrust the cash into a sack which he carried, then with Liddell he herded them through a side door. M. S. Norvell, a bookkeeper, ran to the fire station where he sounded an alarm.

The robbers forced Conrad into the rear of the building as they released the employees, and the official was placed in their automobile. As they entered the car, the armed citizens opened fire. Conrad slid from his seat to the road and several bird shot from a shotgun struck him. The robbers jumped out of the car and returned the fire. They fired half a dozen shots before both fell.

In the motor car were found adhesive tape for emergency bandages, a bottle of whisky and a bag of carpet tacks, evidently intended to be strewn in the path of pursuing motor cars.

JURY FREES MAN WHO SLEW YOUTH FOUND WITH WIFE

Denver, November 15.—(AP)—Alpheus E. Dickson, Denver theater owner, charged with the murder of Herbert H. Powell, 19-year-old "butcher boy" July 7 in the Dickson home, was acquitted by a jury in district court here late today. The jury deliberated only seven minutes.

Dickson's plea was self-defense.

The theater man was arrested in his home shortly after the killing, and admitted to the police that he shot Powell, whom he had suspected of relationship with his wife. In an effort to break up this relationship, Dickson said Powell's sister bared it to him.

After announcing to his wife that he was going out of town for several days, Dickson drove with her to the railroad station. Later, according to his statement after the shooting, he returned to his home, where he found Powell with Mrs. Dickson.

During his trial today Dickson testified that when he accosted Powell the latter struggled with him and attempted to gain possession of Dickson's gun. The gun was discharged during that struggle, inflicting wounds which were fatal to the youth, the theater man testified.

"Education" Forger, Ex-Emory Student, Faces Prison Term

After three successive attempts to forge an "education" for himself, Albert M. Kopple, of New York, now faces a maximum prison sentence of two years after his third unsuccessful forgery, it was learned Thursday at Emory university, where he was once a student.

Kopple entered Emory in 1927 with a forged transcript from the DeWitt Clinton High school in New York. Successfully passing this document he remained at Emory for slightly more than a quarter, and then, having failed in his subjects, left to go to the University of Michigan. He attempted to gain admittance there with a forged transcript from Emory. This was discovered after a correspondence between the school authorities and at the same time the spurious high school credits were found by Emory officials.

Kopple's next attempt at an "easy" education was the one for which he now faces sentence for forgery. He attempted to enter the state university at Albany, N. Y., with papers upon which he had forged the signature of President Harvey Cox, of Emory. This attempt was discovered when the documents were sent to the local school for the affixing of the university seal. Criminal action followed and now Kopple faces prison, an "educational" institution to which he will not have to forge admission papers.

The Street Car is quicker, safer—more satisfactory

Like the spokes of a great wheel, with Five Points as the hub, the street car lines spread over the city. They are ready all the time to carry you wherever you want to go in Atlanta.

Some people might doubt that the street cars get you there more quickly than an automobile. But when you include the time it takes to park anywhere in downtown Atlanta, it's a fact.

The street car, on the average, will carry you closer to your destination than you can park. You frequently walk farther from the nearest available parking place than you do from the nearest car stop.

The street cars will carry you more comfortably, more restfully. Fatigue is a matter of nerves—and even the finest automobile cannot save you from the strain and rack of driving in Atlanta. You'll get to town and back again more rested, more relaxed, more comfortable by street car.

These are facts, all of them. Give the street cars a trial. And when you do you will join the thousands of motorists who leave the car at home for the family to enjoy and come to business or to shop by street car.

Activity Starts in Seminole Field as Restrictions Are Lifted.

Shawnee, Okla., November 15.—(AP) Nearly a hundred whirling drills were tearing through the surface of the earth tonight in the Mad and Mission pools of the greater Seminole oil area in a race for "black gold."

From a scene of virtual inactivity to one bustling with life and industry the fields were transformed today by the termination of a drilling restriction agreement which operators had enforced to hold down production of the flush Seminole area. The two pools had been held in check almost since their discovery because of the flood of oil in other parts of the Seminole area was acting as a depressant on the entire petroleum industry.

Temporary communities of tents and rough shacks sprang up almost overnight as an army of field workers moved in to man the drilling machinery. It was estimated that the newcomers, including workers and their families, numbered approximately 10,000.

The Seminole field umpire modified the drilling ban two months ago by issuing special permits and isolated test wells struck production. Two of the producers recently flowed at the rate of 10,000 barrels a day. The strikes resulted in highly optimistic estimates of the possible production of the two pools by oil men.

Restrictions are still in force in the area to the extent that only two wells are permitted to each 40-acre tract.

Having leased what is considered the choice acreage of the "structure" more than a year ago, the Gypsy Oil company had erected rigs and bits were pounding into the earth on virtually all of its 31 locations.

The Sinclair Oil company, the Amarado Oil corporation, the Independent Oil company, the Twin States Oil company and other producers also had tests under way.

ARGENTINE ENVOY QUITS; WASHINGTON PUZZLED BY MOVE

Washington, November 15.—(AP)—Ambassador Manuel Malbran, of Argentina, will leave Washington for Argentina tomorrow. The cause of his departure has not been declared, but diplomatic circles believed that his leaving would mean the end of his ambassadorship to the United States.

Ambassador Malbran came to the United States in September of this year. He succeeded Ambassador Puerrydon, who resigned after a disagreement with his government when he represented Argentina at the Pan American conference at Havana this year.

The only statement from the ambassador was that he was going to Argentina to accompany his wife and children back to Washington.

The insurgents under Lucas Lopez were defeated at Cienguilla and dispersed and Lopez and a number of members of his band were killed. Two prisoners were taken and they will probably be executed. The body of Lopez was exhibited in the public square.

Roosevelt Vote In New York Goes To25,000Margin

Warm Springs, Ga., November 14. (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt announced today he had received advices from New York saying that incomplete tabulation of the vote in the November 6 election indicated he would have a majority of 25,000 votes over his republican opponent for the governorship.

Maurice Bloch, minority leader of the New York state assembly, and John Godfrey Saxe, chairman of the state democratic lawyers' committee, aiding in the vote count, both telegraphed that incomplete reports from the tabulation made November 13 indicated he would have a 25,000 majority. The democratic governor-elect said he had been informed of no startling changes in the official tabulation of last Tuesday as compared to unofficial returns from the election.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was "particularly happy that the reports of the tabulation also confirm the earlier figures of the votes for Colonel Herbert Lehman, lieutenant governor, and Morris Tremaine, comptroller."

Mr. Roosevelt, on a vacation here which began November 10 and is not to end until early in December, said he was enjoying the visit.

COLORED BAPTISTS CONSIDER EDUCATION

Augusta, Ga., November 15.—(Special.)—Education was the keynote of the meeting today at the colored Baptist convention holding sessions here. Dean Charles D. Hubert, of the school of religion, Morehouse college, delivered the address, subject, "The Theological Challenge to the Negro."

The report on education was read by the chairman, Dr. John Hope, president of Morehouse college. It was a very able document, embracing the work of the three colleges operated by the denomination in Georgia, namely, Central City College, at Macon; Spelman College for Women, at Atlanta, and Morehouse College for Men, at Atlanta, and that of the secondary schools located at Rome, Atlanta, Washington, Griffin, Augusta and Americus. These make up what is known as the Federation of Baptist Colleges and High Schools and are under supervision of the educational board. Dr. Hope, the chairman, made a strong appeal for better support for the work of education.

Dr. D. D. Crawford, executive secretary, showed in his annual report among the many things denoting progress that the church has 127 associations in Georgia. There were 30,074 baptisms reported during the convention year and the colored Baptists have church and school property valued at $10,261,295.

Rev. Dr. H. F. Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist church, Cordele, preached the doctrinal sermon at noon from the text Gen. 1:2, subject: "The Personality of the Holy Spirit and This Relation to Us."

Rev. Dr. A. D. Williams, the new secretary of the home mission board of the national Baptist convention, U. S. A., was introduced and made a plea for support of the work on the home field. This office has been recently brought to Georgia from Nashville and is now located in Atlanta.

Partial reports were heard from the committees on churches and associations and from the laymen's movement. Dr. S. D. Ross, pastor of the Second African church, Savannah, preached tonight, text Eph. 6:2; subject, "The Church in Array Against the Invisible Foes of Civilization."

SENATE EXTENDS STATUS TO COUNCIL OF FASCIST PARTY

Rome, November 15.—(AP)—The Italian senate today passed a government bill giving constitutional status as an element of the government to the grand council of the national fascist party. The vote was 181 to 19, with two abstaining from the ballot.

The bill provides that the grand council shall coordinate all activities of the regime. Its meetings shall be secret and no member of the body may be subject to police measures or arrest without authorization of the council. It is to be consulted on all questions of a constitutional character, such as laws concerning succession to the throne, royal prerogatives, relations between the state and the Roman Catholic church, international treaties and changes in the territory of the nation.

One of the outstanding provisions of the measure empowers the council to draw up a list of names to be presented to the king as nominations for the head of the government, in case of a vacancy. The head of the government is made president of the grand council, the other members being presidents of the senate and deputies, and cabinet ministers.

Elberton Entertains Prominent Northern Group of Financiers

Elberton, Ga., November 15.—With enthusiasm not unlike that of the old-time camp meeting Elberton has given the fore part of the current week to the lavish entertainment of visiting officials of Calhoun Falls, Inc., a syndicate of northern interests which recently purchased the famous old Calhoun estate of some 20 square miles in Elbert county, Georgia, and Abbeville and McCormick counties, South Carolina. The vast holdings embrace terrtitory entirely surrounding the beautiful new Memorial bridge across the Savannah connecting the two states and making a large part of the Carolinas tributary to Atlanta via the Calhoun highway and this city. Consequently the neighboring communities are vying with each other for the favor of those responsible for the plan to build an ideal industrial city at that spot.

Officials of the big Delaware corporation have been guests of Elberton since last Monday, when the chamber of commerce tendered a smart banquet in their honor, with a large delegation of guests from Abbeville, Athens and other nearby cities, and from Atlanta. On Tuesday the distinguished visitors were entertained by the Rotary club, and again surrounding cities were well represented. Wednesday the northern party left for a hurried motor trip to Anderson and Greenville, S. C.; Charlotte, N. C., and Abbeville and Greenwod, S. C., in the order named.

The party included S. S. McClure, founder of McClure's Magazine, and the McClure Newspaper Syndicate, an author, globe trotter, educator and lecturer on economic topics of international celebrity, who is chairman of the executive board of Calhoun Falls, Inc.; Philip Miner, its president, Cleveland realtor, civic leader and art patron, and Ben H. Atwell, who has severed a long association with the Chicago Civic Opera company in an executive capacity to become promotional manager of the city building enterprise.

AIMEE THINKS KEYES CHARGES WILL FAIL

Evangelist Knows Nothing About Bribery Case, She Declares.

London, November 15.—(AP)—Aimee McPherson, after a huge and enthusiastic farewell evangelical meeting in Albert hall tonight, told The Associated Press that she was going home so as to preach in her own church in Los Angeles on Thanksgiving day. She said, concerning the case of District Attorney Keyes, against whom charges of accepting bribes have been made, that she expected to take no part in that investigation.

"I know nothing about the Keyes case," she said. "I am too busy preaching the gospel twice a day to pay attention to anything like that.

"Personally, I believe that the cases against him will go up in smoke. A change in political officeholders after an election, always starts something.

"I have not been asked to testify in the case and there is no reason why I should. I was vindicated when the lying accusations against me were dropped, and I have no further concern in the matter.

"I am going home to fulfill a promise to preach in my own church on Thanksgiving day after the most successful campaign of my twenty years in the pulpit. The British are much more emotional than the Americans. Their hearts are easier to reach.

The cruiser is being built by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation at Quincy, Mass., and is to be completed June 13, 1930. Only one other cruiser, the one being built at Puget Sound Navy Yard, is yet unnamed.

RUM RUNNER KING WHO FLED BAIL IS RECAPTURED

Vancouver, B. C., November 15.—(AP)—Joe Parente, known as the king of rum runners of the Pacific coast, who is wanted in San Francisco, where he was sentenced to two years in prison for violating the prohibition law, was arrested here last night.

Parente appealed the sentence and was released under a $60,000 bond. After the United States circuit court of appeals upheld the conviction six months ago federal officers discovered that Parante had fled. The federal court recently ruled that $50,000 of the bail must be forfeited.

ANTI-PROHIBITION MAJORITY GROWS IN NEW ZEALAND

Wellington, N. Z., November 15.—(AP)—The swing back to a liquor licensing system after three years of prohibition in New Zealand was even more pronounced in yesterday's voting than first returns indicated. It was estimated today that the majority against prohibition would reach 120,000. The question is always voted on in connection with the dominion's triennial elections.

The exact status of the new parliament was in some doubt and its final lineup will not be known until a large number of absentee votes have been tallied.

It was certain, however, that the reform party, which has been in power with J. G. Coates as premier, was badly beaten. In the old house the party held 55 out of 80 seats. Today's returns indicate that it had won only 28 places in the new parliament.

TWO MEN WOUNDED IN RAID ON STILL

Birmingham, Ala., November 15.—(AP)—Two men were wounded and two others believed to have been shot during a raid on a still in Blount county yesterday, near Selfville, 30 miles from here.

The two believed shot escaped.

The shooting occurred, according to Sheriff C. Nation, when officers came upon a still in a wooded section.

Crews Are Ordered To Board Vessels For Hoover Tour

Washington, November 15.—(AP)—Two marine detachments were ordered to stand by today ready to board the battleships Maryland and Utah to act as escorts of President-elect Hoover on his South American tour.

One detachment under command of Captain A. R. Webb is at San Diego ready to board the Maryland and another detachment of 84 men, under command of Captain F. A. Hart, is at Norfolk, Va., ready to board the Utah. Neither the Maryland nor the Utah now have their regular marine detachments. Marine corps headquarters said the guard may not be placed on the ships because of inadequate accommodations. The state department is to decide whether the guard will accompany Mr. Hoover.

THE YOUNG PRETENDERS

By Alice Grant Rosman

SYNOPSIS.

While lying helpless in bed after a motor accident, Hugo Donaldson broods over the fact that his father, with whom he'd quarreled just before the smash, has never come into his room to visit him. He decides that he must be dead and that his mother and the servants are keeping it from him. His aunt, Lady Eleanor Wise, a great gossip, comes to call, and tells Hugo that his friend Paul Mostyn is in prison for stealing, and that he has married some girl of whom his family disapproved, and that Bunny Molyneux had expected to marry Paul and is heartbroken over the affair. Hugo is distressed by the story and asks his mother to have Benny Molyneux come to see him. Bunny comes and tells Hugo the story. Paul, she believes, has been the victim of blackmailers, and his family, because of his marriage, has failed to stand back of him in the affair. Bunny assures Hugo that she was never engaged to Paul, but because of her lifelong friendship for him she would like to help him.

INSTALLMENT XI.
HUGO'S CLEVER MOTHER.

There was Hugo's mother in Who's Who, with her committees and causes. Cheerful and busy about them she would be, and awfully spmpathetic, listening to tales of woe and believing every one. But this entry could not excite him as his father's had done, and he read that through again.

Whatever was cuneiform inscription? This book knew so much, but it did not really tell him what he wanted to know. It didn't tell him whether his father was dead.

He pushed it irritably away and it fell on the floor. After a moment Tright came in and picked it up again.

"Heavy for you," said Tright, pretending not to observe his patient.

"I'm sick of it," said Hugo is a fretful tone. "I pitched the silly thing away."

"That's right," said Tright, putting it on the table within reach and going off again; but he did not close the dividing door.

Soon he was back with a glass in his hand, and the dark eyes from the bed, telling for a brief second altogether too much, lighted with gratitude.

Tright was no enemy. He was a friend, bringing oblivion.

It was not until the morning that Hugo discovered the perfidy of the red book and the world in league against him. Portal had moved the "Who's Who" to make room for his tray; its long stout back was toward him, and suddenly he saw the date. It was an old volume, printed 16 months ago. They had done it on purpose, he was certain, but they needn't imagine he could be put off as easily as that. He would demand the new edition, send Tright out to buy it if necessary. The new one ought to tell him. . . . But would it?

"Well, I am a silly fool," though Hugo. "Even that would be too old. He had remembered the beastly book came out in January, and on March 1 his father had been alive, as he had good reason to know. That was the day he had been sent down . . . the day he had driven off in Miss Trotsky feeling like nothing on earth.

"If only I'd been reading the newspapers then I'd have known," said Hugo to himself. "I ought to read 'em. Somebody ought to read 'em to me."

He became extremely indignant about the newspapers and injured that nobody had thought of that. He couldn't lie here forever and never have the newspapers read to him. He mustn't, of course, let his mother do it, because she would only read the cheerful bits; besides, she had her committees and causes. Tright wouldn't do, either, and, anyway, he hated reading. He had said so. Hugo decided he would put the matter up to Tright and get him on his side about the reading. His mother and the doctor would listen to Tright.

"I've though of an idea, Tright," said Hugo, cunningly, later. "Don't you think I ought to have somebody in every day to read the papers to me? I can't lie here forever, never knowing what's going on."

Tright, pleased that his patient should be taking an interest in the world again, proved unexpectedly helpful. He wasn't sure he didn't know the very person to do it, too, supposing her ladyship was agreeable. This person had come to lodge with Mrs. Ponder, who was the mother of the young man Tright's daughter was walking out with, and she was looking for employment, he believed. Her name was Mrs. Hallet, and Tright's daughter's young man didn't think she was a widow, either, but she was quiet and close about her affairs and quite the lady. Miss Tright's Henry, who was a perfect wonder for ferreting things out and putting two and two together, had decided there must have been a little trouble with Mr. Hallett, merely a tiff, very likely, but Henry was entirely on Mrs. Hallett's side in the quarrel, because you could see for yourself, he said, with half an eye. Mrs. Ponder had done one or two little kindnesses for her lodger, seeing that she was considerate and gently spoken. "Not just some Tom, Dick or Harry, if you know what I mean, Mr. Donaldson," explained Tright. And Mrs. Hallett had repaid these services by giving Henry some assistance with the French languages, which he was endeavoring to better himself by learning, she having been educated in one of those foreign convents, through her mother having had a pension until she died.

"Mrs. Hallett would be just the kind of person you require, I shouldn't wonder," said Tright. "At any rate, if her ladyship doesn't see any objection I could bring her for an interview and no harm done either way."

"Yes, bring her today," said Hugo eagerly. "Couldn't you, Tright? You suggest it to my mother. She'll listen to you."

"That's right. You leave it to me, Mr. Donaldson," nodded Tright. "As I shall say to her ladyship, the days are very long for you, and a discreet young woman like that, married and not one of the flighty sort to read to you for an hour or two might be a very good arrangement. Too many visitors . . . now that's another thing. They're wearing, especially, between you and me, sir, the elderly, managing ones."

Tright's professional resentment against Lady Eleanor was still keen, it was clear. He wouldn't say this morning that his patient had had a splendid night; he would probably inform Lady Donaldson that it was not to be expected. Hugo, whose night had been mercifully short and sweet, thanks to Tright's dose, saw in a flash that ease must always come to him like this in future, not through his own need but through the reaction to it of other people.

"Tessie sent them up from Brade to you, Hugo darling, some of Mr. Anstruther's special blooms from his glass houses. And that reminds me. I saw a rather lovely crystal liqueur set yesterday. How would you like that for your present to Roland?"

Now, that was really clever of his mother, only the dear didn't know it, for liquers always made Roland sick, owing to his weak stomach, and he dared not touch them. Roland's stomach had dominated their childhood, it seemed to Hugo, looking back. It had been called a weak heart at first, and under a threat of instantly dying if they did not give way to him Roland had become for a time a pretty tyrant. Then a specialist, with more honesty than tact, had located the trouble elsewhere, much to Uncle William's indignation, and Roland's former victims had never permitted him to forget it. With the whole hearted cruelty of youth they had found a rich delight in devouring in his presence all the luxuries which he must never enjoy.

Sending a liqueur set to Roland, therefore, seemed a distinctly neat touch, for he was such an ass he would merely admire the pretty glass and never see the satire underlying the gift. Roland's stomach had always filled Hugo with scorn because both Uncle William and the old ass' sister, Muriel, had become slaves to it, following Roland about with tablets and medicines and admonitions, and now no doubt gruff voiced, kind hearted Tessie would have to carry on the sticky task. He felt sorry for Tessie.

"Clever mother, I'd love to send the old ass a liqueur set," said Hugo.

"Very well, dear; then I'll get it for you. I'm so glad," answered his mother. "Shall I take this ugly great book away, if you've done with it? It simply screams at everything in the room."

"Hugo didn't blame it, but he smiled at his mother, gathering up the "Who's Who."

"I've found you out," he said. "I've ben reading you up in three . . . president of this and that and the other, Lady of Grace and O. B. E., and all the rest of it. My word, you are important."

His mother laughed with delight.

"So that's why you wanted it, you absurd old boy? But you must have known all that about me years ago."

"Ah, but then knowing it is one thing and see it in print is quite another. There is something so posh about print," said Hugo.

The events of the day's social calendar revolve around the marriage of Miss Virginia Howard, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chessley B. Dr. High Moor will read the marriage service which unites two of the south's most prominent families. Owing to a recent bereavement in the bride-elect's family, a wedding reception will not be held, but Mr. and Mrs. Howard will entertain the bridal party at supper at their home in Ansley Park following the ceremony. A host of charming visitors in the city vie for social honors with a number of fall brides-elect, the informal affairs of the day complimenting both groups. Byrd; Mrs. Daniel W. Whitmore, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Haynes, and Mrs. Scott Alter, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who is spending some time with Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Hoppe, will form inspiration for a series of parties today. Among the bevy of popular brides-elect who will be complimented today are Miss Elizabeth Phillips, Miss Ruth Ozburn and Miss Frances Transon.

Misses Rosalie Gunby and Kitty Park, charming members of the Debutante club, will be honor guests at the bridge-luncheon at which Mrs. James K. Jordan and Mrs. A. G. de Loach will be hostesses at the home of Mrs. de Loach on Ponce de Leon avenue. The debutantes, Misses Billie Johnson, Hortense Adams, Mary Harris, Adelaide Howell, Josephine Hollis, Marion Hull Smith, Eleanor Maude, Helen Cody, Estelle Boynton, Cecil Jewel, Miss Kitty Park and Miss Janie Howell and Miss Idolene Watts, of New York, were invited to meet the honor guests.

The Indestructible

War had destroyed home, school, business. But one choice possession had passed through fire itself unscathed.

This—THE INDESTRUCTIBLE—was the magnet that drew exiled citizens home 16 days after the evacuation of Atlanta.

It changed—within five years—a charred spot into a thriving city of 22,000.

It has been the motive power behind the present population of 300,000.

It turns the wheels of manufactures valued at $160,000,000.

Joe Brown Junior High School Gives Circus Carnival

More than 1,500 students of the Joe Brown Junior High school are interested in the circus-carnival to be held on the school grounds this afternoon which is expected to be one of the most successful undertakings of the school year. The program of events begins at 4 o'clock, lasting until 11 o'clock. Ladies of the P.-T. A., in addition to the regulation circus refreshments, will serve a hot supper for those who wish to spend the evening at the circus grounds. Midway shows will include minstrels, fortune tellers, grab-bags, Major Hoople's trained fleas, pantomimes, Egyptian mummies, mermaids, wild men and numerous other characters expected to afford an evening of entertainment and fun.

General chairmen in charge of the carnival are Mrs. R. M. Brandon, Mrs. W. B. Duvall and Mrs. J. T. Hoffman, who are being assisted by an enthusiastic committee of over 60 of the patrons of the school. Admission to the grounds will be free, and it is expected that a large crowd will throng the midway throughout the evening. Miss Olivia Hoffman will be crowned "Miss Joe Brown," at this evening's performance, having been chosen by ballot from the ninth grade.

At a mass meeting of the student body last Wednesday, talks were given by President George W. Powell, of the board of education, and Assistant Superintendent of Schools H. Reid Hunter, who congratulated the pupils upon their interest in the carnival plans, and praised the purpose for which it is being given, the equipping of the new cafeteria soon to be opened. Faculty members and student cheer leaders also addressed the meeting, urging wholehearted patronage of the many booths and shows on the midway.

Miss Park Makes Formal Debut At Lovely Biltmore Reception

Amid a setting of flowers and ferns, Miss Kitty Park, lovely debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Park, was formally presented to society Thursday afternoon at a brilliant reception at the Biltmore, which assembled more than three hundred members of the social contingent of Atlanta.

The guests were received in the Georgian ball room by Mrs. Park, Miss Park, Mrs. James B. Park, grandmother of the debutante, and the members of the Debutante club. The ballroom was banked with magnificent palms and ferns which formed a background for pedestal baskets of yellow roses, sweet peas, lilies of the valley, chrysanthemums and ferns. Garlands of smilax studded with electric lights were used in artistic arrangement throughout the room. Large baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums were effectively used in decoration. The colonial pillars of the room were capped with fern sprays and entwined with ropes of smilax. Palms, ferns and chrysanthemums screened the orchestra loft from view. A program of pleasing selections were rendered throughout the afternoon.

The Debutante.

Miss Park's natural beauty was enhanced by a charming model of white chiffon taffeta, fashioned with tight-fitting bodice, and ruffled tulle skirt introducing a panel of white taffeta upon which was embroidered a miniature Marie Antoinette basket gracefully outlined with seed pearls and rhinestones. A large green and old rose satin bow was draped at the back of the waist, forming a graceful train. She carried a bouquet of pink Columbia roses, pink and lavender sweet peas and valley lilies encircled with a silver lace ruffle showered with silver ribbon and sprays of lilies of the valley.

Tye-Ferguson Wedding Rites Are Quietly Solemnized at Home

Of cordial interest throughout Atlanta and the state is the marriage of Miss Carolyn Wilson Tye to Dr. I. A. Ferguson, which was solemnized at 11 o'clock Thursday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Tye, 890 Peachtree street. Dr. W. E. Davis, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, performed the impressive ring ceremony, uniting these two distinguished southern families, in the presence of a representative assemblage of relatives and friends.

Before an improvised altar of palms and ferns in the parlor, before which the marriage service was performed, a magnificant pedestal of Easter lilies flanked with tall seven-branched cathedral candelabra stood in bold relief. The home, which was thrown en suite, was artistically decorated in a profusion of chrysanthemums and autumn flowsr. The bride's two sisters, Miss Myrtle Tye and Mrs. John M. Gilchrist, of Chicago, were her only attendants. They wore attractive models of pastel-shaded transparent velvet and carried magnificant bridal bouquets.

The Lovely Bride.

The lovely bride, who was never more lovely than in her wedding robes, entered with her father, John L. Tye, by whom she was given in marriage. She was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Dr. Russell H. Oppenheimer. She wore a charming model of King's blue chiffon fashioned along graceful lines, with full skirt of modish uneven hemline. Her hat was a close-fitting model of black soleil trimmed in fur. A touch of sentiment was introduced through the diamond bracelet which she wore, this beautiful heirloom having been worn by every bride in the family for more than three generations. A magnificant bridal bouquet of bride's roses showered with valley lilies, completed the lovely costume.

The Bridal Trip.

Following the ceremony the young couple left for a motor trip through North Carolina. The bride's going-away costume was a dark blue crepe ensemble, the coat of which was offset with a collar and cuffs of Rose Wolf fur. She wore a close-fitting black soleil hat trimmed with touches of fur. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson will be at home after December 1 at 69 Maddox drive.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mrs. Lee Ferguson, of Anniston, Ala., mother of the groom; Miss Ruth Ferguson, of Anniston, and Mrs. Alvin Williams, of Anniston, aunt of the groom.

Visiting Polo Players Honored At Parties at Ft. McPherson

Fort McPherson, November 17.—Polo players have hitherto found trains and fast-moving cars ample vehicles to carry them swiftly from one hotly contested polo field to another, but the third cavalry has employed a more novel method of arriving at the garrison today, for they plan their approach through the air. Pressing a government transport plane from Langley field into service, the officers will fly from Washington, D. C., early today and will land at Candler field in the afternoon. A number of entertainments have been planned in their honor, among which the buffet luncheon, to be given by General and Mrs. Abraham G. Lott, Sunday at their quarters is of especial interest. The guests will include a number of the polo players and polo enthusiasts.

Major General and Mrs. Richmond P. Davis will entertain at luncheon at their quarters prior to the game to be played between the third calvary from Fort Meyer, Va., and a team composed of two players from the Governor's Horse Guards and two from the McPherson squad. General and Mrs. Davis' guests will include 12 members of the military set. Following the polo tea will be served by the Polo and Riding club, with Mrs. Roland Gaugler, Mrs. Ward Duvall, and Miss Katharine Foster as official hostesses. The visiting team from Fort Meyer will be especial guests, and a number of Atlanta fashionables, as well as the military contingent, will be present.

A group of ladies from the garrison motored to Atlanta to attend the tea given by Mrs. Noel P. Park, in honor of her daughter, Miss Kitty Park, at the Biltmore Thursday afternoon. This is one of a long list of parties being given in compliment to this charming debutante.

A picturesque ceremony was held at Fort McPherson Thursday afternoon, when the second battalion of the twenty-second infantry passed in review before Master Sergeant Chester Fenters, who is retiring after 30 years' service in the United States army. The retirement of Master Sergeant Fenters marks the close of a long and honorable career as a soldier. His record of service, loyalty and application to duty is an enviable one, to be emulated by all men who have the best interest of their country at heart. The congratulations of the regimental commander, Colonel Lochlin W. Caffey, and of the entire command are tendered Sergeant Fenters upon completion of his long service. Sergeant Fenters has to his credit eight separate enlistments and each discharge paper is marked excellent. Such men as Sergeant Fenters make a army ever loyal and brave in battle and true to their commanders and their duty in time of peace.

Crimson Tide Arrives in Atlanta for Annual Conflict

'Bama Team Will Practice At Tech Today

Many Injuries Still Reported on Squad But All Players Make Trip.

BY J. D. KELL, Jr.

Primed for the battle of the year, Alabama's Crimson Tide was due to reach Atlanta at 6 a. m. today for its annual conflict with Georgia Tech tomorrow.

Thirty-eight men were on the squad which was to take up headquarters at a local hotel and this afternoon will hold a light workout on Grant field. The team will be followed tomorrow by more than 500 students and supporters.

Despite reports of severe injuries among the squad members, all the regulars made the trip from Tuscaloosa. However, Clements, star back, had his foot bandaged and it was reported he would probably remain on the sidelines. Campbell and Holm, two other injured first-string men, and Boykin, substitute linesman, were in the squad and will probably get in the fray. Suther, flash of this year's team, and Babe Pierce are definitely out of the game and are merely making the trip to see the game, it was stated.

The Tide held a light workout in Tuscaloosa before entraining. Two hard drills were held earlier in the week in which Tech plays were used. The coaches announced themselves as satisfied with the manner in which they were broken up.

Athens, Ga., November 15.—(Special.)—The Bull Pups, Georgia's freshman team, left Athens this afternoon for Columbus, where they engage the Auburn rats Friday in the annual clash between the two teams.

Twenty-two men were taken by Coach Gene Smith.

The Bull Pups give great promise of developing into splendid varsity material next season. Against the varsity Tuesday they gained 240 yards from scrimmage before they were stopped.

The Georgia Rats defeated Mercer Fresh, 27 to 7, but when they sent another team against Clemson next day they lost, 2 to 0, in a freak football game. The principal assets of the freshmen are a "thousand good backs" and a fair line.

More Bear Stories.

LAST WEEK before the game with Vanderbilt campus correspondents at Tech Flats wept salty tears in dread anticipation of a Tech defeat because the Jackets were doing so badly in scrimmage. "As they go in scrimmage, so they go in the game," one writer said. And most of you saw what happened when the Commodores sailed onto the field. They sailed off again, much the worse for wear.

Which leads to the subject at hand. John D. Kelly, Jr., an able young man who corresponds for this paper at Tuscaloosa, has spent most of his odd hours this week telling the readers of The Constitution just how terrible the Crimson Tide is this week. Nearly everyone on the squad is injured. Practically every good back on the team is either on crutches or should be. The linemen are all wearing plaster casts or should be, and the scrimmages against Tech plays are showing the varsity to be terribly weak.

Great jumping grasshoppers! It's terrible about that Crimson Tide. They will fight hard Saturday, but there won't be anything to it. They just aren't any good in scrimmage and can't be any good in the game. All these things and more are coming from our able correspondent at Tuscaloosa and they prove his ability as a representative of Alabama's university.

He knows just as well as you know, and as well as anyone knows who has ever played football what a poor scrimmage by a naturally good team means. It means less than nothing in respect to the game coming Saturday. Tech hasn't played a better game this year than they did against Vandy last Saturday, and they haven't had a worse week of scrimmage this year than they had before that game.

Our Mr. Kelly may be fooling somebody, or it may be that he is not trying to do anything of the kind. But, regardless of his motive, he is informing the football-wise leaders that Alabama will be on top for the Tech game Saturday. And when a Wallace Wade team is on top you know the answer as well as we do.

To say that Coach William A. Alexander "fears Alabama" would not be the exact truth, because Coach Alex never fears anybody. He RESPECTS Alabama and has no illusions about the simplicity of this game. In conversation with your correspondent yesterday he volunteered this information: "When we play Alabama we will be facing the cleverest attack we have faced this year, with the possible exception of Notre Dame." The varsity seems to be finding this out in scrimmage against Alabama plays run by the Gray Devils.

Just Some More Rumors.

RUMORS ARE STRANGE THINGS. Arriving at the office yesterday we were assailed with questions about the "ineligible men" on the Tech squad. "What will they do without So-and-So?" "They will have a hard time getting along without Whoosis in that backfield." "How come Whatsisname is out again; I thought he was okay in his studies now?" And a lot more questions like that from members of the Rumor club. Finally we gave way to the pressure of questions and called at Tech for information. We received the definite reply that every man on the varsity squad will be eligible to play against Alabama. The eligibility list is checked each Wednesday and there may be a cut any time, but this week saw no slicing by the faculty. You may rest easy on that score for another week.

L. S. U. SQUAD OFF TO PLAY GEORGIA TEAM

Baton Rouge, La., November 15.—(AP)—Louisiana State university Tigers, having successfully defended their conference standing in this section, entrained late today for Athens, Ga., where they will invade the University of Georgia camp Saturday.

Reports of injuries in the Bulldog camp have been discounted at the university here, and Coach Russ Cohen is satisfied there will be nothing weak about the Georgia squad. He is only hoping that Percy Brown will be able to break loose, or that Johnny Hendrix, another fast one, will slip through. Cohen has promised to open up with everything his Tigers have been taught.

With Brown and Hendrix selected for the major ball carrying the Tigers backfield blocking burden will fall to Stovall, Reeves, Peebles, Neill and Luker, while Reeves also will be counted upon for line plunging and aerial work.

ALABAMA HIGH SCORING TEAM IN CONFERENCE

BY EARLE WATSON.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Although the fighting Gators of Florida have rolled up 237 points in their rush to the peak of major Dixie football scoring machines, it remains for a flood of Alabama Crimson to wash up the tallest total in games played strictly within the southern conference.

While their record is not so bright as in past years, the Tuscalosa Tide has counted 142 points in five games against conference opponents, while Florida is only a couple of points behind.

The conference defensive record of the Louisiana State Tigers is the fanciest of the hour, but Russell Cohen's wards have met but two of the select 22 who compose the championship fold. Ole Miss alone put over a touchdown on the Baton Rouge team.

Mississippi A. & M. is the low scorer, the Maroons having registered but one touchdown within the conference.

The scoring of the teams, both within and without the conference, follows:

Another Drill Is Scheduled for This Afternoon as Hard Game Nears.

BY HERB CLARK.

Coach Alexander, the master mind at the helm of Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado, if tornadoes may be said to possess helms, let his squad off with an easy workout Thursday afternoon at the Flats, where the Jackets are prepping for the assaults to be directed their way by Wallace Wade's Crimson Tide in the annual battle between wind and wave at Grant field Saturday afternoon.

Tide formations, demonstrated by the Grey Devils, occupied the attention of the two varsity teams for the greater part of the session, with the big squad looking much better than it has all week in the defense against the onslaughts of 'Bama's tricky maneuvers.

The scrimmage was of a dummy nature, and yardage could not be accurately estimated, but the Jackets seemed to be in the direct path of the majority of the thrusts of Firpo Martin's Holms, Campbell and Brown, and were within easy striking distance of those they failed to hold at the scrimmage line. The varsity pass defense was also of a much higher caliber than that exhibited in previous workouts this week.

Even Don Miller, backfield coach of "Four Horsemen" fame, tried his hand on the receiving end of one or two of the Grey Devil-Tide tosses, only to have the ball batted out of reach by some member of the varsity secondary defense. The only pass completed by the Devils was a short heave just over the line from Flowers to Miller, and Don was smothered in a maze of Jacket tacklers before he could move.

The Grey Devils retired to the showers early, while the big squad remained at work in a dummy scrimmage of their own, in which some intensive polishing work was done on the Tech offense. Alex has one or two aces up his sleeve, and, while the quarterbacks have instructions not to use them except in case of absolute necessity, 'Bama is very likely to bring on that emergency.

The Tide will arrive in the early hours of the morning, and will take a light workout on Grant field this afternoon, after which Alex will send his own men through a short and snappy session, put them to bed early and wait. For what?

TEAMS IN EAST SET FOR GAMES WITH OLD FOES

New York, November 15.—(AP)—A little more sandpaper on the rough edges and eastern college football elevens will be ready for the actual conflict that comes this Saturday.

There was no letup in the practice sessions at Princeton and New Haven. Yale and Princeton, it is rather widely known, set more store on victory in their coming clash than they have on all the rest of the games they've played so far this season. Mal Stevens has selected Hoben, Decker, Loud and Hubbard to start in the Yale backfield. Hoben, it will be remembered at Princeton, tossed the pass to Fishwick that enabled the Elis to win last season, 14 to 6.

Eighty minutes of signal drill at Hampton ended Colgate's preparations for the Syracuse game. Syracuse went through a dress rehearsal of the defense to be used against the Maroon.

Lou Young has given his Pennsylvania warriors very little hard work for the Columbia contest, but the Lions have not escaped so easily. Charley Crowley has had the Columbia varsity hard at it all week, although today's workout was devoted to polishing up of plays.

The Pitt Panthers, who meet Nebraska in another important intersectional game in the west, already are en route to Lincoln, Neb. West Virginia entrained for Washington for its battle against Georgetown.

Dummy scrimmage and signal drill ended Hugo Bezdek's preparations at Penn State for the fray at Easton against Lafayette. Harvard's varsity smeared Holy Cross plays consistently as put on by a team of Crimson ineligibles in a 90-minute scrimmage. A long scrimmage preceded the departure of Boston college for Buffalo, where the Eagles play Canisius.

Tackling dummies took a lot of punishment at West Point, where Biff Jones is looking ahead to the Nebraska game rather than to this Saturday's combat with Carleton. Navy also is not bothering itself particularly about Loyola, of Maryland, concentrating rather on the Princeton game at Philadelphia 10 days hence.

Florida Is Scored On Three Times This Year

Gainesville, Fla., November 15. (AP)—Not only have the Florida 'Gators the greatest scoring record in the southern conference to date, but they have the best defensive record of any of their 21 sister schools. Only three teams have crossed the Florida goal line.

In six games the 'Gators scored 237 points to their opponents' 19. Tennessee is a close second in points scored with 230, while Georgia Tech's great line holds the next best defensive record with 21 points against it. North Carolina, Oglethorpe and Vanderbilt each marked up seven points against the Yellow Jackets.

HARPER SIGNED FOR MAT CARD HERE TUESDAY

One of the finest bits of wrestling news that has been spread before the public in some time was the announcement from John Contos Thursday that Paul Harper, young Texan, former football player and now a flier as well as a serious candidate for world's wrestling honors, will appear in the semi-final bout in the Auditorium Tuesday night.

Harper, in fact, is already in the city again, having flown here from New York in his plane which is now housed at Candler field.

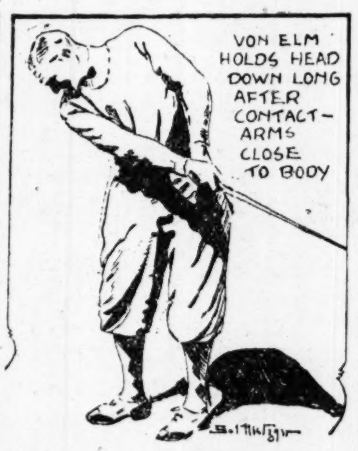
According to the young matman, he has been flying all by himself for three years, after several years' training at Kelly field, San Antonio, Texas.

Harper made a decided hit with the mat public in battling Paul Jones to a one-hour draw and Promoter Contos has had a number of requests from the fans to bring him back here, against another worthy opponent. The collegiate type, and employing only clean-cut tactics on the mat, Harper pleased Atlanta fans. He has his work cut out, however, in defeating Jack Washburn, the California 220-pounder, in the one-hour semi-final Tuesday to the Zbyszko-Eustace match which will go two hours.

Zbyszko is back in the city, too, to complete training for the meeting with the burly Kansas farmer who fought out a spectacular match with Pete Sauer here recently. The "Old Man," who registers something over 50 years of age, plans daily workouts at the Power company gymnasium and invites all of those who wish to acquire a little more knowledge of the art and those who can afford him a little action to visit him at the gym and engage in training stunts with him.

Abe Kaplan, Jewish heavyweight, will act as the former champion's chief sparring mate. Harper, too, is working out each afternoon, although he is concentrating upon development of new holds rather than conditioning for he appears to be in perfect trim. He scales 205 pounds.

George Has Hip Slide on Irons



VON ELM HOLDS HEAD DOWN LONG AFTER CONTACT—ARMS CLOSE TO BODY

BY SOL METZGER.

I believe it was George Duncan who some years ago took us to task because we do not pivot our hips as far as he says we should. George was then hot for the theory that golf is played with the soles of the feet and that you started your club back, not with the straight left arm, but with the body.

If you watch George Von Elm play his long irons you will note that this master of them does not follow Duncan's advice. George, as we noted yesterday's starts his club back with a straight left arm, the hips turning or pivoting but little, the shoulders quite a bit. You will also note that in making this shot his whole body is relaxed.

The trick in hitting with an iron is to keep the face of the club going through on the line your ball is to carry for some little distance both before and after contact. Slow motion pictures have proven that a ball does not instantly fly from the face when contact is made. So, to avoid slices or hooks you must carry the face on out after striking the ball on the line you wish the ball to carry. Von Elm does so by keeping his hips on a line and sliding them through. That enables him to get the weight of his body into the stroke through the shoulders, as the slide forward of the hips, so long as the body is not swaying, tends to hold the club on line even though the shoulders pivot. To avoid body sway note how, in the sketch, he keeps his head down and eyes on the ball. Tomorrow—the finish of Von Elm's long iron.

Inability to make approach shots hold the green adds several strokes to one's score. Sol Metzger's leaflet, "The Art of Pitching," will enable you to cut down your score. Send stamped, addressed envelope to Sol Metzger, in care of this paper, and secure a copy.

Teams Report Many Injuries In Conference

Georgia Hard Hit; Alabama, V. P. I., Florida and Kentucky Have Woes.

By United News.

Crippled machines with a lot of spare parts will be called into action in the southern conference Saturday.

Altered line-ups on at least five of the teams in the nine interconference struggles is the forecast. Florida has lost two valuable men. Alabama meets Georgia Tech with four substitutions for men on the casualty list. V. M. I. will engage Kentucky at an advantage, since the latter is short two stars.

The Alabama ailing are Suther, Pearce, Boykin and Clements. Clements has been seen on the field in practice, but his leg is still in bad shape.

Game to Be Hard.

From that it would appear Georgia Tech has a push-over, but after the inspired game against Vanderbilt, it is doubtful that it will have the same snap at Grant field.

Dashwood Hicks has been pointed for the place of Joe Bryan, veteran 'Gator tackle, and Ben Clemmons replaces Frank Clark, center. A third possible substitution is Mike Houser for Alex Reeves, guard.

Reports from Blacksburg are that V. P. I. has lost Phil Spear definitely and that the big sophomore, Owens, will replace Fullback Looney in the game with the Generals at Lexington.

Bad at Kentucky.

Things look bad for Kentucky, Hawkins, who was used up in the Davidson game, returning to quarterback for V. M. I., while Kentucky is short two first string men. Al Portwood and Warner Ford turned up Wednesday with injuries which will keep them from playing.

Georgia probably seized the prize assortment of woes in the grab-bag of injuries. Only four varsity men will be in the game with L. S. U. at Athens, with Jacobson the only one of them not suffering some ailment. Glenn Lautezenhiser sprained his shoulder in Wednesday's scrimmage. Bradley and Martin were injured in the last two days also. Henry Palmer is the only end left from the scrimmages. Maffett and Smith were already out, and Nixon, thanks to "flu," will not be able to play. McCrary's ankle is in poor shape again. Cree Stelling may play right tackle against L. S. U.

Tulane and Sewanee square off at New Orleans in the other inter-conference tete-a-tete. Mississippi A. and M. and Auburn meet in Birmingham, while Virginia will hold an "at home" for Maryland.

North Carolina State, crippled by three men, takes on Duke on North Carolina soil. Furman and South Carolina play the big game of the state on S. C.'s lot.

Must Be Popular.

Girls in the east are turning to field hockey. A call for the tennis team brought out but 94 at Western High school in Baltimore, but 200 were out for the hockey team.

Stagg Can Keep Job Rest Of His Life

Chicago, November 15.—(AP)—As far as University of Chicago alumni are concerned, Amos Alonzo Stagg can coach football at their alma mater as long as he cares to.

"The Grand Old Man of Big Ten" football was the only one to receive compliments from the alumni at their annual banquet last night as they arraigned the football team for its failure to win a single conference game this season. The school administration received criticism because of its high scholastic standing, 85, and the $300 tuition fee.

PUNCH-DRUNK THEORY GIVEN MEDICAL OKAY

BY EDWARD J. NEIL.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, November 15.—(AP)—The boxing world, jarred somewhat by a scientific left hook, is still echoing the effects of medical research into the condition commonly known to the ring as "punch drunkenness."

The revelations of Dr. Harrison S. Martland, of Newark, N. J., in a recent issue of the American Medical Association Journal, have developed a widespread reaction in professional boxing circles.

Medically there has never been established actual proof that such a condition as "punch drunk" existed, but Dr. Martland, coupling the opinions of observers with his own examination of five boxers considered "slug-batty," has finally evolved a workable theory.

The theory is that a blow or succession of sharp blows on the jaw or head, while not severe enough to injure the skill, can cause pin-point hemorrhages in the working parts of the brain, principally the portion where the nerve strings that control the limbs and other parts of the body bunch together in the brain.

Dr. Martland drew the conclusion that punch drunkenness, with its early symptoms of dragging legs, unsteady gait, and staggering, can cause death. The report was warranted, he said, by the fact that "nearly one-half of the fighters who have stayed in the game long enough develop this condition, either in a mild form or a severe and progressive form which often necessitates commitment to an asylum."

BY BOB SHERROD.

Athens, Ga., November 15.—(AP)—With Herdis McCrary alone scoring four touchdowns in little or no time against the Red Devils and the rest of Georgia's "thousand backs" caverting over Sanford field for long gains, the Georgia Bulldogs gave promise of a much improved showing against L. S. U. here Saturday.

McCrary ran wild while in the fray, but was forced to retire when his weak ankle was twisted. This is the first time in more than three weeks that the powerful line-plunger has been able to scrimmage at anything like his normal game.

Coach Harry Mehre stated this afternoon that most likely neither of the regular tackles or regular ends would play at all Saturday, and that Haley, first string right guard, was in very poor shape to play in any man's game. The case of Theodore Frisbie is one of the worst. The big tackle, who normally weighs 215 pounds, now tips the scales at only 184. Harvey Hill may be able to run in at halfback.

Just now the lineup looks like this: Palmer and Martin, ends; Bryant and Buchanan or Stelling, tackles; Jacobson and Haley or Huff, guards; Boland, center; Johnson, quarterback; Hooks and Dudley, halfbacks; Rothstein or McCrary fullback. The reserve strength is practically nil because of many wounds.

BY DONALD GRAY.

After a light workout on Hermance field, the Oglethorpe Petrels, 25 strong, boarded a train Thursday night for Clinton, S. C., where they will attempt to take the measure of the Presbyterian college rough and tumble boys this afternoon.

Coach Harry Robertson seemed optimistic over the outcome of the fracas today, and if his charges perform against the Blue eleven as creditably as they did in Macon against the Mercer Bears on Armistice day, the Petrels should bring back a Presbyterian scalp.

The Petrels are anxious to finish up the season in a blaze of glory, and by beating Presbyterian and Chattanooga they will stand an excellent chance of being crowned S. I. A. A. champions. This honor has not been bestowed on Oglethorpe since 1925, when six victories were secured out of nine games played.

Team in Good Shape.

The Birds are in better shape now than they have been all season, as not a single man on the squad has an injury that is serious enough to keep him out of the game today. Captain Sims, Feinburg, Wall and Clements, of the linesmen, and Bell, Martin, Herrin and McKissick, of the backs, have been showing up well in the scrimmages this week, and will have a large part in the game today.

Those men who will make the trip are: Wall, Clements, Gifford, Aldridge, Church, Sims, Coffee, Fulton, H. Bell, Burford, Adams, Kratz, Malsby, Vaughn, Feinberg, Martin, Herrin, Cy Bell, Fox, Therrell, McLaughlin, McKissick, Brooks, Crouch, Coaches Robertson, Campbell and Chestnutt, Trainer Perkins and Managers Jake Sutton and Howard Lawson.

HAGEN, DUDLEY TIED FOR LEAD IN OREGON OPEN

Portland, Ore., November 15.—(AP)—Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, and Ed Dudley, Los Angeles star, tied for the lead with par 725 among the first fifty finishing in the opening round of the $5,000 Oregon open championship today at Waverly Country club.

Dr. O. F. Willing, of Portland, who finished the first nine one under par, was one over at the close of the round as a result of two costly errors.

Fort Myer's Poloists Fly To McPherson

Fort and Guards Will Present Composite Team Against Rival Soldiers.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

For the past few years people have used the airplane for any purpose, conceivable or not, so we wouldn't suppose that the fact that the crack polo team of Fort Myer, Va., is flying to Atlanta for a game is out of the ordinary. It is, however, the first time that any team has ever flown here for a game. The interesting thing about it, however, is that Atlanta will again be treated to an exhibition of good polo when the Fort Myer four plays here Sunday. The team reaches Candler field this afternoon.

Fort McPherson and the Horse Guards will cease their rivalry for the time being and send a composite team against the visitors. Fort McPherson men selected the two best players on the Guard four and the Guards did the same thing for McPherson.

Sunday's Lineup.

In this manner the local team will line up Sunday as with Gilbert Proctor, of McPherson, at No. 1; Gus Franke, of McPherson, at No. 2; P. D. Christian, of the Horse Guards, at No. 3; Wesley Moran, of the Horse Guards, at No. 4. These four men picked Gus Tolson, of McPherson, as substitute.

The Fort Myer team is composed of officers of the third cavalry and includes a very good set of players. Lieutenant Mark McClure, leading light of the team, is rated as a three goal man, and Lieutenant B. F. Bosserman has a one goal handicap. The other two men on the team are Captain R. F. Perry and Lieutenant N. F. Woolford. Being cavalrymen they are naturally good horsemen, and horsemanship counts for a great deal in this galloping game of polo.

Handicap Waived.

The local team, in all probability, will not ask for a handicap from the visitors. Due to the distance intervening between Washington and Atlanta, and also due to the fact that the Fort Myer team will go on to New Orleans from here, ponies were left in Virginia, and will mount the team. The Horse Guards and Fort McPherson have pooled their ponies and will mount the visiting team.

As the Myer four will be using strange mounts in addition to playing on a strange field, the local four doesn't feel that it should ask for a handicap.

It does feel, however, that with this combination of the best of local polo talent, that it can put up a right fairish sort of game and make the play interesting for those who care to come out and watch. And there will, in all likelihood, be a number on hand to watch Sunday. Polo is fast catching on in the city, and crowds at the weekly Horse Guard-McPherson games have been quite large, indeed. It really has reached a point to where you must come early in order to get a good position from which to view the games.

Another Fete Set.

This game Sunday, which starts at 3 o'clock by the way, is just the beginning of a week in which the horse grabs his share of the spotlight. Next Saturday, November 24, an affair known as a gymkhana is being planned.

This gymkhana arrangement isn't a horse show, rodeo nor polo game, but rather a combination of anything connected with horsemanship. There will be exhibitions by the woman's riding class of Fort McPherson, a polo game to be staged by enlisted men of the post, mounted on mules; polo races in which the ball is carried the length of the field, polo bendi races, which consist of weaving the pony in and out among closely placed sticks in the ground, mounted egg and potato races and a few other such interesting events.

Aid Community Chest.

The gymkhana has been arranged as Fort McPherson's and the Horse Guards' part in raising funds for the Community Chest, and proceeds from the affair will be used towards that end. Nothing like it has ever been staged for the edification of an Atlanta sports public, and it should attract quite a few people.

That isn't all of the horse's week. Wednesday afternoon sees the arrival of the hard-riding Troopers of the sixth cavalry from Fort Oglethorpe and their splendid polo squad. They will bring two teams and play the McPherson and Horse Guard teams on Thursday and Sunday, following the same schedule used when the Fort Benning teams played here recently.

The appearance of the Oglethorpe squad will afford another opportunity for the viewing of fast polo, and right now it seems that the horse is going to have a quite large week at Fort McPherson.

Waivers Obtained On 'Red' Wingo

Detroit, November 15.—(AP)—The Detroit News today says that the Detroit club of the American league has obtained waivers on Absolam (Red) Wingo, Tiger outfielder for the last five years and will send him to the minors next season.

The newspaper says it has learned that Wingo probably will go to San Francisco of the Pacific Coast league as part payment for Roy Johnson, the Pacific coast outfielder who is slated to start the next season in right field for Detroit. It is rumored, according to the newspaper, that the Tigers plan to sell or trade Robert Fothergill, another outfielder.

CLARK - ATLANTA GAME TICKETS TO GO ON SALE

Clark university starts heavy training for its most important conference game of the season with the "Crimson Hurricane" of Atlanta university to be played on Spiller's field Saturday, November 24.

Coaches Taylor and Perry will scrimmage the outfit throughout the week and only light work will take place during the week of the game. This precaution is used to prevent any possible mishaps that might take place during the week of the game.

Tuesday's workout was a light signal drill and dummy practice followed by long talk by the coaches.

The game with Talladega that was to be played on the new athletic field with Clark university was cancelled owing to the fact that Talladega mentors were playing two ineligible players. It was also rumored that the Tuskegee athletic council had also cancelled its game with the Alabama aggregation.

This cancellation will give the Clark mentors the same advantage of their opponents, who are enjoying an open date this week-end.

For the benefit of the white fans who annually witness one or two games between the negro teams, tickets will be put on sale Friday at the Atlanta Athletic club and the Tom Pitts Soda company, at Five Points. Tickets will also be on sale at the Amos Drug store at West Hunter and Ashby street, Yates and Milton pharmacy, on Auburn avenue, and the athletic department of Atlanta university.

This game will decide the city championship and will have a strong bearing on the Southern Colored conference championship, as both teams are undefeated in the conference.

It is expected that one of the greatest crowds to witness a negro game thus far will witness this gigantic struggle. More than 10,000 ducats will be placed on sale early Friday morning.

Brown Junior Hi Beats O'Keefe

The gridmen from Joe Brown celebrated the renewal of athletics between the junior highs, with a win over the green and white of O'Keefe, at O'Keefe Thursday, 12 and 8.

Both teams played hard ball and it was anybody's game until the last.

O'Keefe played heads up ball the entire game, scoring its first counter in the first five minutes of play when Brown fumbled and Riddick, for O'Keefe, scooped it up and ran 28 yards for a touchdown.

Score by periods:

O'Keefe	6	0	0	2— 8
Brown	6	6	0	0—12

Scoring touchdowns: O'Keefe—Riddick; Brown—Woods, Moore.

Tiger Picked By Trumbull To Beat Yale

BY WALTER TRUMBULL.

New York, November 15.—(Special.)—Princeton and Yale meet Saturday in a game with traditions stretching back into the dim and distant past. The Tiger and the Bulldog have fought many a thrilling and bitter battle and rarely has previous form been any true guide to the result.

On paper, Princeton looks best. Every opponent except two—Maine and Dartmouth—has scored on the Blue. Two opponents only—Ohio State and Washington and Lee—have scored on the Orange and Black. Princeton looks to have the stronger ends, the better backfield and, all in all, fully as powerful a line.

Princeton Favorite.

You can't pick a Yale eleven that lost in its sixth game of the season to Maryland to beat a Princeton team just coming to its peak. Yet, in games between these rivals, anything can happen.

Iowa State and Wisconsin, two unbeaten teams, will battle for the championship of the western conference. Iowa is as good as any team I have seen this season. It has a mighty line, adequate ends and a great backfield. Young Glassgow is a magnificent back, and McLain is a tower of strength. If Wisconsin defeats this eleven it will prove itself one of the outstanding teams of the country. Iowa looks strong enough to beat anybody.

At South Bend, unbeaten Carnegie Tech faces the Millers, Chevignys and Niemiecs of Notre Dame. About all Carnegie has is weight, power and speed. It is true that one might also mention Howard Harpster almost as good a quarter as was Walter Steffen, John Karcis, the two-ton fullback, and Rosenzweig, who demonstrates that an end still can run with the ball from scrimmage.

Carnegie Looks Better.

On form Carnegie looks the better, but this game is going to be played on a home field where no Notre Dame team has lost a game since Rockne has been coaching. I'm not going to pick Carnegie.

Pennsylvania appears much too strong for Columbia, although Penn may suffer a natural let-down after the Harvard game. Penn, at its peak, certainly would not have lost a game this season.

Although it will make me unpopular with my friend, Major Corum, honesty compels me to say that I think the New York university should belt the daylights out of Missouri. The N. Y. U. line looks as if it had emerged from a steel mill, and its backs are nimble.

West Virginia and Georgetown, and Nebraska and Pittsburgh should furnish thrilling contests. There isn't much to choose between them, but the edge, if any, would appear to be with West Virginia and Nebraska.

Syracuse-Colgate.

Syracuse and Colgate fight their annual battle, and when these two meet the dope frequently goes overboard. Syracuse looks the stronger eleven, but Colgate may wash 'em up.

Cornell has a good defense, and Dartmouth, with its regulars in the game, has a good attack. It is tough to tell who will win, but Cornell shouldn't lose. Georgia Tech should trim Alabama by a fair margin, and it looks as if Florida should keep marching on. Unbeaten Tennessee tackles Vanderbilt, and things look none too promising for its spotless record.

California should beat Nevada; Stanford should trim Washington and Southern California should win from Washington State. None of these games looks exceedingly close. Illinois should beat Chicago; Minnesota should conquer the Haskell Indians; Ohio State has a practice game; Michigan should beat Michigan State; Ohio Wesleyan should continue its unbeaten way; Purdue should win from Wabash, and the Army and Navy should romp their opponents. Penn State should beat Lafayette.

There is promise of hard contests between Harvard and Holy Cross, Northwestern and Indiana, and Temple and Geneva. Harvard, Northwestern and Temple should come through.

Amherst and Williams always play well against each other. This season, Williams seems to have the edge.

Eddie Kane says the broken collar bone of Sammy Mandell cost just about $75,000 plus doctor bills. He had five or six matches to cancel.

Tech Harriers To Race Auburn

Coach Harold Barron boarded a train for Auburn at 4:30 Thursday afternoon, taking with him eight members of his squad of harriers from Georgia Tech, who will meet the Tigers in a cross-country meet at the Plains City this afternoon.

The team which went included Captain Roy Brewer, Crisfield, Summerour, Owen, Morgan, Coker, Bryan and Furlow. They have already taken the University of Georgia into camp, and have high hopes of doing as much for the Plainsmen this afternoon, in spite of the fact that Auburn is reputed to have its best squad in years.

STRIB'S FIGHT WITH DORVAL IS CANCELLED

New York, November 15.—(AP)—Jack Dorval, New York heavyweight, withdrew from his match with Young Stribling, of Atlanta, today because of an injured arm. The bout was scheduled for November 23 in Madison Square Garden.

Tom McArdle, Garden matchmaker, failed to sign a substitute, although he offered the match to Johnny Grosso, Arthur De Kuh, and several others. Dorval will report to the New York State Athletic commission tomorrow for physical examination.

Rollins To Play Georgia College

Orlando, Fla., November 15.—(AP)—The Rollins College Tars polished off their week's training today for their game here tomorrow afternoon with Georgia College. Coach Jim Bailey will throw his strongest lineup into the field tomorrow in an effort to recoup some of the losses suffered by Rollins this year. The Tar Babies will play St. Petersburg Junior college in Winter Park Saturday afternoon.

Major Teams Draft Plans For Training

Three Clubs Will Go West Despite Early Opening of West Coast League.

New York, November 15.—(AP)—Early opening of the Pacific Coast league probably will not interfere with the plans of three major league clubs to go west for training. The Pacific Coast will open its season March 26, one week earlier than in 1928, and as a result a number of exhibition games scheduled with visiting major league outfits will have to be cancelled.

The Chicago Cubs, however, will remain at Catalina Island, and the Pittsburgh Pirates at Paso Robles. The western movement for spring baseball conditioning has gained a recruit in the Detroit Tigers, although the American leaguers will not continue on to California, stopping at Phoenix, Ariz.

The Tigers, under George Moriarty, will use San Antonio as a camp, and John J. McGraw, with his New York Giants, will pick up in Texas, where Detroit leaves off.

William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Cubs, also owns the island where his club trains, and he will not permit changes in the Pacific Coast schedule to cause him to move. The White Sox, the other Chicago entry, is also moving its training camp west, but not far enough to be concerned over the Pacific Coast schedule. The Sox will train at Dallas, Texas., instead of Shreveport, La.

The Pirates may not be able to get in their series with the Los Angeles club, but will play San Francisco and then move on to Phoenix, Fort Worth, Dallas, San Antonio and Memphis.

It is understood that Detroit will play both the Cubs and Pirates as they move east and follow with games in Texas and other states of the once "solid south."

GHOSTS OF PAST WILL SPUR TIGER AND ELI TO HEIGHTS

New York, November 14.—(United News.)—When twenty-two youngsters start the Yale-Princeton game Saturday amidst the din of cheers of 40,000 spectators in Palmer stadium, the ghosts of mighty heroes of epic struggles of the past will drift across the chalk marks in their wake.

Many a muddy young man in orange and black, his face ground into the turf beneath a squirming heap of adversaries, will feel the comforting sense of the presence of Arthur Poe at his side. Many a youngster in Yale blue, crunched in the wedge of milling elbows and knees will hear the whisper of old Tom Shevlin:

"Hold the ball, kid. Hold the ball."

For these Yale-Princeton games are something more than mere football games. They are the heritage of past heroism on the gridirons of the rival universities.

And that is why the proper odds on Saturday's contests are no odds whatever, for when the starting whistle touches off the thump of the kick-off, the dope is torn up and flung to the four winds.

They are saying that Captain Chuck Howe's 1928 eleven is a 3 to 2 favorite over the Elis, led by Captain Max Eddy. But beware of the odds of November.

The SPORTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

The Hardest Picking.

Two of the hardest guesses ahead of Saturday involve Nebraska and Pittsburgh-Iowa and Wisconsin. Three of these teams have yet to be beaten. And while Pitt has been beaten, the Panther crowd has been gathering increased strength week by week. Nebraska and Iowa might be slightly favored, but there will be storms on the high seas for both before they reach port.

The Yale-Princeton argument is just as puzzling. But there will be no great puzzle to solve unless Yale bounds upward about 70 per cent above her recent form. Eli and Harvard have each been beaten twice, and the season isn't over yet. There is no question but that Princeton has greater first team strength than Yale has shown, even with Mike Miles out or injured. So Yale's chance to win, about her only chance, is through better reserve material, where Princeton isn't any too well fixed. While Princeton hasn't been beaten, the Tiger's record is far from being an impressive one. A tie with Virginia, a 3-0 win over Cornell and a tie with Ohio State is nothing to churn up the emotional system. The Tiger attack doesn't include a touchdown victory over a single team of any strength. But it must be stated here that a big part of this somewhat scrawny showing has been due to many and severe injuries which left Roper and his staff with a crippled outfit. Princeton hasn't been hurt anything like as badly as Dartmouth, a good early team, practically wrecked by a flood of destructive accidents to many of her best men.

Princeton will be a stronger team on Saturday than Princeton has been this year. For Yale it will be a question of how superior her reserve forces will look later in the game.

Southern football this season has been upon a far stronger plane than this section has ever known. There are six or eight exceptionally good teams below the M. and D. border, and four of these are still among the unbeaten—Georgia Tech, Florida, Tennessee and Louisiana State.

Most of these draw an acid test on Saturday. Georgia Tech hooks up with an improved Alabama team of great potential power. L. S. U. faces Georgia in Athens, and Georgia, after the Florida mawling, should swing back to form. Tennessee has to face a partly crippled Vanderbilt team, but for all that, a Vanderbilt team that has something left. A number of things can happen to the still unbeaten before the week is over.

It isn't likely that Georgia Tech will be stopped unless there is a mental letdown. Tech has one of the star teams of its history, only surpassed by the aggregation that had Guyon, Strupper and others who beat Pennsylvania, 41 to 0. It isn't often a team can present six or eight fast, husky forwards and at least six high-grade backs. Almost any team in the country would give a number of cheers to get Mizell, Thomason or Lumpkin, and Tech, in addition to these, has three others almost as good.

The Midwest.

Iowa and Wisconsin may soon be among those who leave the unbeaten path. Iowa has Wisconsin and Michigan to meet. Wisconsin must still take on Iowa and Minnesota. Iowa and Wisconsin should decide the conference championship tomorrow, barring another tie. But it is no certainty that either will get by a week away, in this topsy-turvy, upside-down season of sudden overturns.

Pennsylvania, after her one defeat by the Navy, should now slip through safely to the end of the season. It isn't likely that Columbia or Cornell can stop the Red and Blue attack or make much headway against the Red and Blue defense. Penn has a star back in Scull, and Scull isn't the only star. Pennsylvania, like most of the others, seems to be due for one trimming each fall, and after it arrives the atmosphere is clear again.

There won't be any harder game in the country than the meeting of Pittsburgh and Nebraska. Pitt will be a tough hurdle for Nebraska to take. The westerners have one of the strong teams of the year, but it is no simple matter to mix it up with Pittsburgh and the Army on successive Saturdays. Yet Nebraska's power may pull her through.

The emotional side of modern football is more wearing at times than the physical. This is one of the main reasons so many teams come upon startling changes in form from one Saturday to another, where they may at times be two touchdowns or three touchdowns apart in playing form. And injuries to one or two men may chop 40 per cent of the value from certain teams that lack the luxury of reserves. The Dartmouth team, for example, has never been within three touchdowns of its early October form before Marsters and several others were practically wrecked for the season.

Hendricks Signs With Reds for '29

Cincinnati, November 15.—(AP)—Jack Hendricks, for the last five years manager of the Cincinnati Reds, today signed a contract to pilot the club in 1929.

New Golf Ball.

An Old Timer.

Another Course.

Birmingham, without Sunday baseball, can draw nearly 300,000 attendance a year, and doesn't want seven days a week.

Four Local Teams Are on Road; Boys' High Invades Montgomery for Game.

Light workouts on the part of both teams served to taper off training for the clash this afternoon between the Tech High Smithies and G. M. A. Cadets at Spiller's. The time has been set for 2:30.

This game will be only one locally as other prep teams of this city will be engaged on foreign fields. At Gainesville, Ga., University has on its hands the strong Riverside Military academy eleven. The Riverside crew is one of the most feared of state prep elevens and U. S. B. will perforce be required to play its best in order to win.

At Canton, Ga., Decatur will play the high school of that city; Fulton High will be playing at Madison. The Purple Hurricane of Boys' High school will be playing Cloverdale High school of Montgomery, Ala., as that city's prep football feature of the week.

Game Here Holds Interest.

Attention, however, is being centered on the Tech High-G. M. A. clash, expected to be the best of the week here. It marks the first clash for the Smithies with a local team. The Tech High eleven, in previous games, has been concerned with the stronger teams of the southeast and has as yet to taste defeat.

G. M. A.'s record, marred by four defeats, hasn't the sparkle of the Smithies', but the cadets are being counted upon to play a good game, nevertheless, as they have played the Smithies for a long number of years and the battles have always been close.

The Smithies, so 'tis said, are suffering from injuries. Their "Beans" Hadley received hurts in last week's game that will force him from participation against the Cadets and possibly against Boys' High on the week following. Heavy Hammond, backfield express, has a troublesome shoulder. Two linemen, Moon Mullins and Mutt Morris, are complaining. The last-mentioned three, however, are expected to play.

Will "Shoot Works."

G. M. A., on the other hand, will present all of its regulars in a valiant attempt to win this all-important game.

Boys' High hopped off Thursday night for Montgomery to meet strong Cloverdale. The Hurricane has been defeated but once this year and that by Richmond academy, of Augusta, a junior college. There has been one tie, scoreless, with Moultrie, Ga., high school. Otherwise the Hurricane has made a good showing and is determined to win this afternoon's game. With all regulars ready to go, it should give Cloverdale an interesting afternoon.

KNUTE ROCKNE WILL DIRECT MEN SATURDAY

South Bend, Ind., November 15.—(AP)—Knute Rockne has announced he will positively be on hand to personally direct his Notre Dame eleven when it clashes with Carnegie Tech on Cartier field Saturday.

Two years ago Rockne learned a lesson from Carnegie Tech and he hasn't forgotten it. He learned that no matter how weak Coach Wally Steffen's eleven is, it is always dangerous.

Notre Dame was headed toward a national football championship in 1926 when the team invaded Carnegie Tech's bailiwick. Satisfied his eleven was better by three touchdowns and that no master-minding was necessary, Rockne left direction in the hands of assistants and went to Chicago to watch the Army-Navy game. Later he was handed a telegram:

"Carnegie Tech 19, Notre Dame 0."

"Someone is kidding me." Rockne countered, only to learn that the score was accurate.

"They can't catch me again that way." Rockne commented. "Anyway, we are the underdogs this time as Carnegie Tech has defeated every team it has met this season."

Every ticket for the game has been sold, assuring a crowd of 30,000.

News From Grid Camps

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., November 15.—(AP)—Things are looking a bit brighter on Lambeth field here as one by one the University of Virginia football regulars are reporting for practice for the Maryland game at College Park Saturday.

Injuries have disrupted the Cavaliers this season and for a time it appeared that an almost new outfit would have to face the Old Liners. It now appears, however, that Byrd and Turner will get back on their regular flank positionns and that Johnny Sloan and Gus Kaminer will again take their backfield berths. Virginia supporters are hoping against hope that Lefty Close will also be in the backfield Saturday, but this seems now improbable, as Close has not yet been able to appear for practice.

LEXINGTON, VA., November 15. (AP)—The Washington and Lee Generals faced another high speed football session this afternoon, as has been the order of Coach Pat Herron this week, while preparing his men for the mixup with Virginia Polytechnic institute in the Washington and Lee homecoming game here Saturday.

It is the revamped machine that was working against Princeton and Virginia that is "clicking" regularly in the scrimmage ordered by Coach Herron this week.

It is the hope of the Generals to bring the won and lost count between Tech and Washington and Lee to 12-all, the Gobblers having already accumulated a dozen games since the two teams have been meeting in an annual clash, while the Generals have 11 victories to their credit.

BLACKSBURG, VA., November 15.—(AP)—Thorough drills in plays to be used against Washington and Lee Saturday at Lexington are keeping the Virginia Tech football squad busy until dark daily this week.

Coach Gustafsen, who yesterday drove the men at a rapid pace through their practice session, announced then that Owens, big sophomore, will probably be in Looney's place at fullback in the clash with the Generals. With Phil Spear definitely out of the game, two regulars will be missing from the V. P. I. lineup.

CLEMSON COLLEGE, S. C., November 15.—(AP)—A long scrimmage greeted Cody's men. First they took on the scrubs against Florida plays and stopped the Notre Dame system of stuff with apparent ease. Later Cody summoned his full strength and started an offensive drive against the Bohunks. The varsity was clicking on all cylinders and had a field day, with Goat McMillan, Justus and Pitts running wild behind splendid blocking.

COLUMBIA, S. C., November 15.—(AP)—Reports that the South Carolina squad will be crippled Saturday when it meets Furman could not be confirmed, although it was generally known that several of the players, including the redoubtable Carlisle Beall, have been in bed this week with influenza.

Practice continued behind closed doors as Billy Laval prepared to match his "crazy quilt" formation against Dad Amis' "weave shift," it being rumored that the Furman mentor would present this style of play in South Carolina for the first time Saturday.

Zobel, the Gamecock flashy back, is expected to be able to get into the game Saturday despite his injuries last week.

A. & M. COLLEGE, MISS., November 15.—(AP)—Both Mississippi A. & M. and Auburn are going to try for their first conference victory of the season at Birmingham Saturday. Off to a bad start, each team showing decided improvement has taken a prominent position in the anxious column.

Coach Hancock, acting on the suggestion of his able scouts who witnessed the Plainsmen draw within one point of victory over Tulane, has been drilling his players with the view of checking the thrusts of Tuxworth and Sellers and to piercing the Tiger defense that held Tulane to two touchdowns last Saturday.

GAINESVILLE, FLA., November 15.—(AP)—Two new faces, replacing regulars, will appear in the first line of Florida's defense against Clemson at Jacksonville Saturday. Coach Charlie Bachman has replaced Joe Bryan, veteran tackler, with Dashwood Hicks, a sophomore, and Ben Clemons goes in at center for the remainder of this week in place of Frank Clark.

Alex Reeves, guard, also will be out of the lineup with Clemson unless his injuries improve. His berth will be filled by Mike Houser.

Bachman and his staff are working hardest this week to cure a "superiority complex" his 'Gators are suffering with, due to their past performances, and the biggest job Bachman believes ahead is in making his men realize they have a tough foe in Clemson.

Big Ten Feuds To Be Resumed This Saturday

Chicago, November 15.—(AP)—Iowa and Wisconsin tonight were on edge for their "big push" that may net the victor the Big Ten football championship for 1928.

Despite their rigorous schedules both elevens were in great physical shape.

Coach Glen Thistlethwaite announced he would take forty players with him on the invasion.

Coach Burt Ingwersen coached his Iowa team mostly on passes in a brisk workout today, but allowed no tackling.

Coach "Bob" Zuppke, of Illinois, tried to be just an interested spectator today as his team wound up training for the Chicago game, but he couldn't stand it long. After a few minutes he hopped down from the stands, grabbed the oval and demonstrated what was wrong and right. The Illini leave tomorrow noon for Chicago thirty strong.

Chicago went through its last hard workout of the season, a long scrimmage.

Purdue, Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio State, which have non-conference foes at home Saturday, went through good workouts, but all were pointing toward games a week hence with old Big Ten rivals.

SCORE OF STOCKS PUSHED INTO NEW HIGHS ON CURB

OILS AND UTILITIES LEAD IN MARKET

New York, November 15.—(AP)—Major speculative operations in today's curb market were again on the up-side, with at least a score of the oils, public utilities and industrials pushed into new high ground. Wall street was agreeably surprised by the unexpectedly small increase of less than $2,000,000 in brokers' loans, as there had been considerable liquidation during the day on fear of another huge gain in borrowings.

Vacuum again assumed the leadership of the oil group by climbing 7 points to a new peak at 101, retaining all but a point of its gain. Humble moved up more than 5 points to a new top at 103 and Lion moved up 3 points on the publication of an excellent ten months' earnings report. Standard Oil of Kentucky also moved up about 3 points, but Prairie Pipe Line dropped 4 and Standard Oil of Ohio 1. Last quarter earnings, particularly by the refining companies, are expected to make unusually favorable comparison with last year.

United Gas and Improvement, which will be among the first companies to benefit from the Pennsylvania railroad's huge electrification project, ran up more than 5 points to a new high at 164 3-4.

Niles Bement Pond was the sensational feature in the industrial group, soaring 21 3-8 points to a new high record at 135, as against a low of 28 earlier in the year. Anchor Post, Sidney Blumenthal, Butler Brothers, Dictograph, Fiat debenture eights, Gotham Knitbag, Massey Harris, Moore Drop Forge, Perfect Circle, St. Regis Paper, United States Foil B and Walgreen Company warrants also moved into new high ground, while Neve Drug Stores and Celanese sold at the year's low levels.

Hazeltine Radio soared 11 points to a new high at 43 on buying influenced by the announcement that the company had won a patent suit decision against Atwater Kent, but it fell back below 40 on realizing. De Forest, which has been mentioned in connection with a merger with Kolster, changed hands in large volume, but closed only fractionally higher. Boeing Aviation issues, which were weak earlier in the week, rallied about 4 points.

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BENAE.

New York, November 15.—(Special.)—Activity was considerably reduced in today's session, as the weekly question of brokers' loans figures came up again. The anticipation of a substantial increase helped dampen enthusiasm and many issues declined moderately as a result of nervous selling.

In the afternoon some of the rails were subjected to selling on the announcement that the interstate commerce commission had denied higher rates to the western lines. However, substantial support came into the market and good buying continued in some of the investment issues such as Atchison and New York Central.

United States Steel took the leadership, but could make little progress in the face of apathetic sentiment and the independents sold moderately lower. The reaction in Inland affords opportunity for further commitments, as the stock looks moderately priced in comparison with other steels.

Southeastern Power & Light scored a brisk advance as public utility issues were bid up on the curb.

Money renewed at 6½ per cent and was in fair demand, the immediate credit situation being of less concern than brokers' loans statement.

Oils were quiet and moderately lower, profit-taking coming into the group after recent sharp advances, but the group is well situated for further advance, particularly in such issues as Marland, Texas Corporation, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Shell Union.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York November 15.—(Special.)—Despite expectations of large increase in brokers' loans, an advance in call money rate to 6½ per cent from the renewal rate of 6 per cent and a considerable amount of realizing by people with large profits the stock market nevertheless gave a rather good account of itself. Prices up until the early afternoon were on the whole slightly lower, but some general improvement took place in the rest of the afternoon. One or two stocks made rather sensational gains, particularly Westinghouse Electric.

There was also a much improved demand for motors during the afternoon, with Packard in the lead, but with both General Motors and Chrysler showing a greatly improved tone. Since these stocks have been the weakest group in the market, their action this afternoon aroused considerable comment, undoubtedly while Chrysler has acted badly, there has been some good buying in the stock and this will in time make itself felt. Another late feature was an increasing demand for the rail stocks under the leadership of New York Central.

Coppers continue to improve with Kennecott, the feature, and with Andes very active at new level. Texas Corporation and several of the Standard Oils were in good demand. American Tobacco issues were able to hold their gains of the morning well and both the "A" and "B" stocks indicate prices above 200 in the next few weeks. Spiegel May, Stern was a feature of the mail order stocks. We would be inclined to characterize the entire days' trading as entirely satisfactory. With such a demand existing for stocks under the influence of what might be called many and favorable factors, no early termination of the big move in the market can be foreseen. It looks like still higher prices.

H. & B. BEER.

New York, November 15.—(Special.)—The market acted reasonably well today considering the speculation over the possible amount of increase to be shown in the loan figures. While the size of brokers loans has gradually ceased to be a really important weekly market factor, still this week special attention is being paid because of the series of 5,000,000 shares day. It is also likely that the federal reserve figures will cross 5,000,000,000 for the first time. The tickers carried a story from Washington that the broker loan question would be brought up at the next session of congress by insurgents. We worried about the size of brokers' loans when they were much lower but it looks more and more as if in common with others, we were too conservative at that time. If there is anything in the broker loan situation to be watched, it is the ratio between total values and loans and this is now at a safe figure. In fact, strong people place anything under 10 per cent as reasonably safe.

Regarding trading opportunities, the late tape again was considerable of a hindrance. After December 1, the figures showing volume under 500 shares will be dropped. This may help things. In fact if everything under 1,000 were dropped the increased speed of the tape would more than make up for the loss in the volume figures.

Among the really active stocks that are quoted every 10 minutes on the bond ticker, Westinghouse Electric was easily the feature, running up to 138 1-4, again of over 10 points on top of yesterday's sharp gain. This stock has been a constant recommendation in these wires and we have not changed our opinion because of the advance price. This simply confirms our judgment on the matter. New York Central closed at 182 5-8 up 2 1-8. This is the recognized leader of the rail group. It is in line for a higher dividend rate and ought to sell at 200. Montgomery Ward closed at 394 for a gain despite the loss in Sears-Roebuck. Packard reached a new high and is consistently acting better than any motor stock.

Cotton Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, November 15.—(Special.) While disappointing Liverpool cables and talk of expectations of full ginnings for the first half of November weighed against values during the greater part of Thursday's session in the cotton reactionary sentiment seemed restrained by rather bullish views on the weather situation, private complaints that recent ginnings have been disappointing in the western belt and Hester's exports, which totaled 104,830 bales for the day, against 22,896 last year. While the official map did not show much rain, slight showers in Mississippi valley sections, our advices indicated that precipitation fell overnight at several western belt places and it was raining at several Oklahoma points during the day.

While weather remains unsettled inland buying support probably will be uncovered on liquidating recessions due to ginnings uncertainty.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

Already some are beginning to consider possibilities marketwise in regard to the influence of the next ginning report. Judging by the weather, it would seem that the report will be mildly bullish because the ginnings are unlikely to be a sustaining influence to the crop estimate. In addition to this, another spell of unfavorable weather appears coming over the belt and if realized it will have influence on the subsequent ginning report and also influence the crop estimate of December 8 by causing it to be lowered moderately.

The trade's willingness to buy as prices recede sustain the contention of those favorable to prices that cotton should be bought on moderate recessions. January Liverpool due 10.12.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, November 15.—(Special.) Prices were off a few points on the opening due to the disappointing Liverpool cables and larger volume of hedge selling from the south. After the opening the market remained quiet and steady the remainder of the day.

Market reviews continue to report a more favorable outlook for the textile trade and there is a growing belief that present prices are reasonable. Sentiment here is mostly bullish on the belief in ultimately higher prices. Liverpool futures are due tomorrow. January 10.13; March 10.12.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, November 15.—(Special.)—Cotton has ruled dull today with the volume of trading very light and fluctuations confined within a range of about 10 points. Lower cables with scattered liquidation and southern selling depressed the market above 10 points during the early trading, but the demand from trade, commission houses and Liverpool absorbed the offerings and the market closed steady with a net decline of 3 to 5 points. Local professional sentiment is bearish owing to the absence of speculative demand. While commission house sentiment averages bullish as to the ultimate values on the theory that the marked improvement in the textile situation, expanding consumption and augmenting exports combined with the prospective moderate crop will eventually attract active speculative participation on the long side and cause a substantial improvement.

H. & B. BEER.

New Orleans, November 15.—(Special.)—Reflecting easier cables than due and the want of better speculative support, the cotton market ruled lower today, offerings having continued free, especially on bulges. It is probable, because of the near approach of the next census ginners' report, due November 21, business is somewhat restricted owing to the uncertainty of ginnings to November 14.

Liverpool cabled: Local and London liquidation. Manchester cables: Tattersall bureau says: Cloth market favorably affected by firmer cotton prices. Cloth sales to India increased, but no improvement in China business.

New York advised more business is being done in the finer qualities of cotton goods to be made. Other divisions are holding steady, with trade better in some of the coarser lines.

Washington reported: Developments in the continental European cotton industry during the second half of September and the month of October indicate that the declining tendency of production in recent months has now come to a halt, according to reports received by the foreign service of the bureau of agricultural economics from Agricultural Commissioner Steers at Berlin.

Cottonseed Oil.

NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, November 15.—The market for cotton oil futures was firmer in early trading today in sympathy with higher crude in the interior, but eased off some later owing to lower lard and liquidation. Prime summer yellow oil closed at 9.10, up 5 points, and prime crude closed at 8.12½ to 8.25. Futures closed barely steady: November 9.10; December 9.15; January 9.21; March 9.30; May 9.55.

NEW YORK.

New York, November 15.—Cotton seed oil was active but the undertone was easier with final prices 5 to 15 points net lower. Absorption of December and January by houses with southern connections held the nearby positions relatively steady, while the late months declined under increased hedge selling and profit-taking by recent buyers. The reaction in lard and cotton offset the steadiness of crude oil. Sales, 22,800 barrels. Prime crude, 8.37½; prime summer yellow spot, 9.75; December closed, 9.98; January, 10.15; March, 10.29; May, 10.45.

Dry Goods.

New York, November 15.—An increased demand is reported for fine combed cotton goods for future delivery from mills. Trade in coarser lines was quiet. Unfinished goods are in moderate demand. Raw silk was active and higher at Yokohama, and local markets were from 2½c to 5c a pound higher. Fabrics in printed designs are selling well. Burlaps were higher and speculative buying for November-December shipments was reported as active. Additional new lines of coatings and dress fabrics were offered for spring in broadcloth, kasha, tweed and fancy weaves.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN,
Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, November 15.—(AP)—Lively upturns in wheat values today followed word of heavy rains hampering the Argentine harvest. Statements of Secretary Jardine that millable wheat supplies in Canada may be less than last year, and that European wheat buyers will have to turn more to the United States during the stoppage of navigation on the Great Lakes were also a bullish factor, and so too were reports that President Coolidge may specify farm relief plans tomorrow night. In the face of increased selling however, top prices failed to hold.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1-4c to 5-8c net higher, with corn 1c to 3-8c down, oats at a shade to 1-4c advance, and provisions varying from 17c decline to a rise of 15c.

At first the wheat market here had a downward trend that was associated with reports of liberal offerings of Argentine wheat to Europe and with bearish crop estimates both from Argentina and Australia.

Much accelerating the upward swing of the wheat market was widely noticed comment from Secretary Jardine indicating that Canadian official figures on 1928 wheat yield in Canada, although revised downward, are likely to be further discounted by poor quality due to frost damage.

Corn showed weakness today from the outset, despite strength displayed by wheat and oats. Improved corn belt weather had a bearish influence on corn, and so likewise did the fact that the corn market had been on the upgrade for the last seven days.

Closing quotations: No. 7 contracts, December, 16.08; January, 15.50; March, 15.10; May, 14.48; July, 14.06; September, 13.65. Santos contracts: December, 21.85; January, 20.95; March, 20.46; May, 19.70; July, 19.25; September, 18.78.

Spot, steady; Rio 7s, 18.00; Santos 4s, 23.00 to 23 1-4; cost and freight offers included Bourbon 3s and 5s at 21.55 to 22.20.

Owing to the holiday, there were no milreis quotations from Brazilian markets. Brazilian port receipts yesterday, 47,000; Jundiahy receipts, 14,000.

Total sales, 4,749,700 shares.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.
Associated Press Financial Writer.

New York, November 15.—(AP)—The stock market followed an erratic course today, opening with considerable strength, wavering during the morning, then bounding forward in the afternoon. Trading slackened considerably, and there were long stretches when sales were largely in lots under 300 shares, indicating that the big operators were marking time or distributing their holdings to the public.

Apprehension of an increase in federal reserve brokers' loans of as much as $100,000,000 was a sobering influence during the morning, but it was rumored during the afternoon that the figures would be pleasantly surprising, as they were, showing a negligible increase of but $1,849,000. This small increase, despite the series of 5,000,000-share days, reflected a falling off in new financing, and indicated larger investment buying and borrowing through banks which are not members of the federal reserve.

Sharp Drop in Loans.

The figures showed a sharp drop in loans by New York banks for their own account, which nearly offset increases in loans for the account of others and for out of town banks. Call money renewed at 6 per cent, but was raised to 6 1-2 after midday, as banks called $20,0000,000 to meet mid-month requirements. Bankers do not look for any substantial tightening of money rates until Thanksgiving, when the holiday requirements will begin to make themselves felt.

There was little in the day's news to affect the market, save possibly a further hardening in steel prices.

Total sales were 4,749,700 shares, in contrast to 5,246,800 yesterday. The ticker closed at 3:49, the earliest this week. The Associated Press average price of 20 industrials and 20 railroads showed fractional increases.

30 Issues Set Records.

Nearly 30 issues again broke into new high ground, a number of extreme gains running from 4 to 10 points. Steels, motors, coppers, and merchandising shares made fair progress, and a number of specialties made wide gains. U. S. Steel fractionally increased its high mark, and carried Bethlehem up 3 points to a new peak. A. M. Byers rallied 7 points.

Montgomery Ward lost 5 points during the morning, but was later bid up 10 points for a 5-point net gain. Sears-Roebuck sold down more than 5 points, but rallied and closed 2 points up.

Westinghouse Electric was a strong feature, soaring more than 10 points to a new record price at 139 1-4, and General Electric made a moderate gain. A number of new favorites were pushed vigorously forward. City Stores B, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Electric Autolite and National Supply, mounted 3 to 7 points to new peaks. Tobacco shares also forged ahead, American Tobacco and Lorillard gaining 3 and 4 points.

Motors Stronger.

Motors generlly were stronger. Packard stepped up 4 points to a new top, while General Motors and Chrysler rallied. In the coppers, Kennecott and Andes surged up over 4 points to record prices, while Greene-Cananea gained over 2 points. Oils were inclined to heaviness, Phillips and Standard of New Jersey slightly extending their gains, then easing. Sun Oil spurted 8 points to a new peak, then lost much of its gain.

Rails and utilities were firm.

Abraham and Straus, American International and Commercial Solvents all suffered net losses of about 2 points after touching new tops.

The commodity markets were steady, cotton encountering trade buying on favorable news from abroad.

L. & N. WILL SPEND $10,500,000 FOR NEW EQUIPMENT, RAIL

Louisville, November 15.—(Special.)—The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company announces an appropriation of more than $10,500,000 for the acquisition of new equipment and new rail for next year. The Louisville & Nashville railroad is going right along in making improvements to its property in substantially the same degree that it has in the past.

This confidence is further accentuated by the fact that during the first eight months of 1928 the company expended for new improvements $7,751,000 and at that time had an unexpended balance on work already authorized and being completed aggregating a total of $8,300,000.

The recent appropriation of $10,500,000 makes the aggregate amount of work authorized and outstanding nearly $18,800,000.

Sugar.

New York, November 15.—Raw sugar was quiet today and in absence of business prices were unchanged at 3.83 for spots, duty paid.

Price changes in raw sugar futures were narrow, with trading of limited proportions. The failure of demand to increase in the spot market seemed to discourage buying to some extent and after opening unchanged to one point higher on covering and a little European buying, prices reacted under December liquidation and selling by houses with trade and Cuban connections. Final prices were unchanged to 2 points lower. Approximate sales 31,100 tons. December closed 1.97; January 2.00; March 2.05; May 2.13; July 2.22; September 2.29.

In refined a fair withdrawal demand was reported, but new business was light. Prices were unchanged at 5.20 to 5.25 for fine granulated.

New York, November 15.—(AP)—An early decline under southern selling and liquidation promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables, was followed by rallies on some trade buying and covering in a very quiet cotton market here today. January contracts after selling off to 19.43, advanced to 19.53 and closed at 19.49 compared with 19.54 at the close of Wednesday. The general market closed steady at net declines of 3 to 10 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 7 to 11 points, and the active months showed net losses of 9 to 13 points during the early trading. Business was moderately active at the start, with southern selling and further liquidation absorbed by covering and trade buying. This was in sufficient volume to check the decline around 19.50 for December and 19.42 for March, and after the early selling had run its course, there appeared to be very little cotton for sale. A result, prices steadied up on a light demand, but business remained very quiet on the recovery which carried December up to 19.53, and March to 19.53 in the late trading. Last prices were 2 or 3 points off from the best under a little southern selling and realizing.

The small volume of business was attributed by some of the local brokers to a disposition to a await further developments in southern spot markets, or for the publication of the next ginning report, which is expected Wednesday and will show ginnings prior to November. The opinion was expressed in some quarters here that the ginnings are likely to be comparatively light as there was some bad weather during the first half of the month, but there appeared to be no definite crystallization of sentiment as to their probable showing.

Liverpool cabled that trade buying had absorbed local and London liquidation there, and said there was a good cloth inquiry for India, although many offers were unworkable. Exports for the day were 102,406, making 2,954,238 so far this season. Port receipts 49,298, United States port stocks 2,194,604.

SPECULATION OFF, MARKET IS DULL.

New Orleans, November 15.—(AP)—The absorbing of all speculative interest by the stock market was reflected in a dull cotton market today. Price fluctuations were limited to a spread of 9 points and at times there were long intervals between trades. An early decline of 12 points was followed by a rally on trade buying and covering. January contracts, which had sold down to 18.87, rallied to 18.95 and closed at 18.92, or 6 points net lower. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 5 to 7 points.

Liverpool cables were 2 to 5 points lower than due, and as there was a lack of buying orders at the start, first trades showed losses of 7 to 9 points. No sustaining support developed in early trading and the initial decline extended to 18.80 for December, 18.87 for January and 18.90 for March, or 12 points under the previous close.

Prices fluctuated listlessly during the morning within the range of a few points. Near noon, however, shorts started to cover and there was more or less trade buying and before the demand was supplied December recovered to 18.88, January 18.95 and March 18.97, or 7 to 9 points above the lows, but 4 to 5 points under the previous close. For the remainder of the afternoon the market was quiet, but March contracts made a new high at 18.98 and May at 18.91. There was a slight recession at the end and final prices were 1 to 2 points under the best.

New York, November 15.—(AP)—Prices improved slightly in highly selective trading in the bond market today. There were wide gains in two or three unusually active issues, while the rest of the list showed narrow gains on small turnovers. Calling of upwards of $15,000,000 in bank loans and expectations of another increase in the brokers' loan total caused some hesitation.

Andes Copper 7s were among the strong features, the issue extending its recent gains nearly 10 points to a new high price at 186 in sympathy with an advance in the stock. General Cable 5½s established a new peak, 101, but sold down fractionally. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s were lifted more than 3 points to a new high at 159. International Cement 5s also touched a new high, 105 3-8, but closed with a small net loss.

Other issues active at higher levels included Detroit River Tunnel 4½s, Shubert Theatre 6s, U. S. Steel 5s, Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s, Chile Copper 5s, Dodge Brothers 6s and Consolidated Coal of Maryland 5s. Oils again encountered selling pressure and most issues were heavy. Some utilities also sold down, among them Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s, which sagged nearly 5 points.

Gains in the railroad group were small. St. Paul 5s of 2000 attracted comparatively heavy buying. There was some umulation also of Canadian National Railways 4½s, Southern Railway 5s, St. Louis Southwestern 5s, Pennsylvania 5s, Nickel Plate 5½s A and Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s.

Italian industrials again were the feature of the irregular foreign list. Continued heavy buying lifted Fiat 7s with warrants 11½ points to a new top at 161. U. S. government obligations were inclined to heaviness.

The Day in Finance

By R. L. BARNUM

Public Appetite for Stocks Keeps Market on Fairly Even Keel Throughout the Day.

New York, November 15.—Sustained public appetite for stocks, acting as an offset to professional and outside selling that developed, kept the market on a fairly even keel through the day. Buying enthusiasm, however, subsided in a degree sufficient to break the string of five million share days and pressure of realizing was extensive enough to make for a preponderance of losses at the close. Bidding for some stocks was spirited in the early part of the day particularly for Steel common at new high levels, Consolidated Gas, Columbia Graphphone, a newcomer; Air Reduction in General Electric, Radio, Stewart Warner, and Westinghouse. Initial gains of 1 to 5 points, however, were largely lost as the usual mid-weekly profit taking against the broker loan statement got under way. The street was looking for a huge release in that item, while the firmer tone in money resulting from mid-month shifting of funds tended to accelerate the selling. Some of the recent favorites among the higher priced descriptions like Sears-Roebuck, Packard and Montgomery Ward fell back for fair sized losses.

It is generally conceded that not a little of the recent activity at rising prices in Texas Gulf Sulphur was generated by the belief that the directors' meeting today would vote an increase in the $4 dividend rate. Improved earnings were set forth as the basis for such expectations, but evidently the board is disposed to wait a little longer before lifting the rate as only the usual quarterly payment of $1 a share was ordered. A good part of the recent buying is attributed to interests formerly heavily involved in the stocks who switched some months ago in Kennecott Copper. The story now is that this company is selling Kennecott and using the proceeds to replace a part of its line of Texas Gulf.

Shows Gold Movement.

The foreign trade statement for October and the ten months aside from showing a substantialy better favorable balance than the same period a year ago was interesting chiefly for the light it shed on the gold movement to and from the United States. While the figures for the month, which incidentally, do not reflect the heavy engagements announced since November 1, show the reversal of trend in force a year ago still intact. Those for the ten months bear out the belief that much more gold will be required to change credit conditions fundamentally. Exports for October dropped to but $990,000 contrasted with $10,698,000 in October, 1927, whereas imports rose to $14,310,000 against receipts of but $2,056,000 last year. The ten months' figures, however, reveal that exports of $536,206,000 for that period against but $68,340,000 in the same period of 1927, are far from having been offset my imports of little more than $114,000,000 reported to the end of October. Imports to the end of last month incidentally fell far short of the total of $195,000,000 received in the first ten months of 1927.

The treasury department, according to Secretary Mellon, has under consideration plans for taking care of its December fiscal requirements, but such plans are still in the preliminary stages. The head of the treasury states that no rates have yet been definitely fixed and pointed out that the matter of terms logically depends very largely on the situation which will prevail in the bond market as the time for the government financing approaches.

Wall Street Worries.

Wall street most always has its share of worries when congress is in session. More often than not such anxiety has been without good reason but there have been times when the national legislature has behaved in a way which has furnished the speculative market with plenty of basis for apprehension. The coming short session, which is now only a fortnight away, will most likely create nervousness in market circles before the time comes for members to head toward home for the year-end holidays. Through the long and sensational expansion of collateral borrowings, or brokers' loans as such borrowings are more readily known, assurance has come down from high quarters that these loans were safely and judiciously made and that there is no danger in that direction.

Now, however, as has been expected, it is almost certain that the loan situation and its bearing on credit generally will absorb a good part of the short congressional session unless it can be sidetracked. But chances for keeping discussion of the issue down are not particularly bright. Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, has already expressed his determination to swing the insurgent group in the national body in behind the La Follette resolution on loans introduced at the last session. The Iowa senator sees grave danger to the credit structure in the heavy absorption of funds by the speculative market, and holds that the federal reserve has "failed completely to gain any degree of control of the situation."

Holding that the power to change discount rates should be taken from the system and placed with congress, the senator is doubtful of the prospects of correcting existing conditions in time to prevent a crash.

There will also be outstanding $15,500,000 Fifteen-Year 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Debentures of Pacific Western Oil Company, a subsidiary company.

*Including 232,500 shares to be reserved for exercise of stock purchase warrants to be attached to the above Debentures entitling the holders to purchase capital stock of Pacific Western Oil Corporation at $33 1-3 per share at any time on or before November 1, 1938. Holders of capital stock will have no pre-emptive rights in the purchase of additional securities issued by the Corporation.

Jacques Vinmont, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Pacific Western Oil Corporation, summarizes his letter dated November 15, 1928, as follows:

Properties: Pacific Western Oil Corporation has been incorporated under the laws of Delaware as a holding company to acquire all of the capital stock of Pacific Western Oil Company. Pacific Western Oil Company has been organized under the laws of Delaware to acquire substantially all of the oil producing properties, and the greater portion of the undeveloped oil properties, in California, owned, leased or controlled by Petroleum Securities Company, a corporation all the stock of which is owned by Edward L. Doheny and members of his family.

The properties comprise a total of about 40,000 acres of which approximately 31,000 acres are owned in fee, 5,450 acres are held under lease (of which 667 acres are held jointly with others), 728 acres are controlled through ownership of mineral rights or otherwise, and 3,100 acres are held under U. S. Government permits or leases which will be acquired subject to Governmental consent (which, according to counsel, is usually obtained in due course), together with certain production equipment, materials and supplies and gasoline absorption plants located on the properties. Of the acreage held in fee or controlled, a lease has been granted on a royalty basis on about 10,265 acres. Production is being obtained at present from Ventura Avenue, Inglewood, Huntington Beach, Alamitos Heights (Seal Beach), Torrance, Los Alamos and East Coyote districts.

The production for October, 1928, from the properties being acquired averaged over 16,000 barrels daily after deducting production due joint owners; and after deducting royalties, averaged approximately 13,000 barrels, net production. In addition to the present production, the management has shut in production of about 4,000 barrels daily, 8 wells are now being drilled, all of which are in the prolific Ventura Avenue field.

Robert B. Moran, independent engineer, estimates total recoverable oil reserves of approximately 56,800,000 barrels from present proven acreage in the properties being acquired, without taking into consideration potential recovery from undeveloped acreage.

Contracts: Pacific Western Oil Company will presently enter into a contract extending until 1938 with Richfield Oil Company of California, under which the latter will agree to purchase the entire crude oil production of substantially all the properties above described up to 20,000 barrels daily at prevailing posted market prices, and has the first call at such prices on any additional production in excess of 20,000 barrels daily from such properties and on all production from properties subsequently acquired, such latter production, however, being subject to release under the terms of the contract in the event of sale or merger. The Company will also enter into a contract with Richfield Oil Company of California for the sale of casinghead gasoline derived incident to its operations. These contracts will not only assure to Pacific Western Oil Company the advantage of providing an immediate market at the wells for its production at prevailing market prices but should also obviate the necessity for large expenditures for storage and transportation facilities.

Valuation and Assets: The physical properties to be acquired by Pacific Western Oil Company have been appraised by Robert B. Moran, independent engineer, at over $43,000,000. On the basis of this appraised valuation and including working capital of about $1,750,000, to be provided out of current financing, total assets of Pacific Western Oil Company will amount to over $44,750,000. Such assets will be carried on the books at a valuation of about $27,500,000.

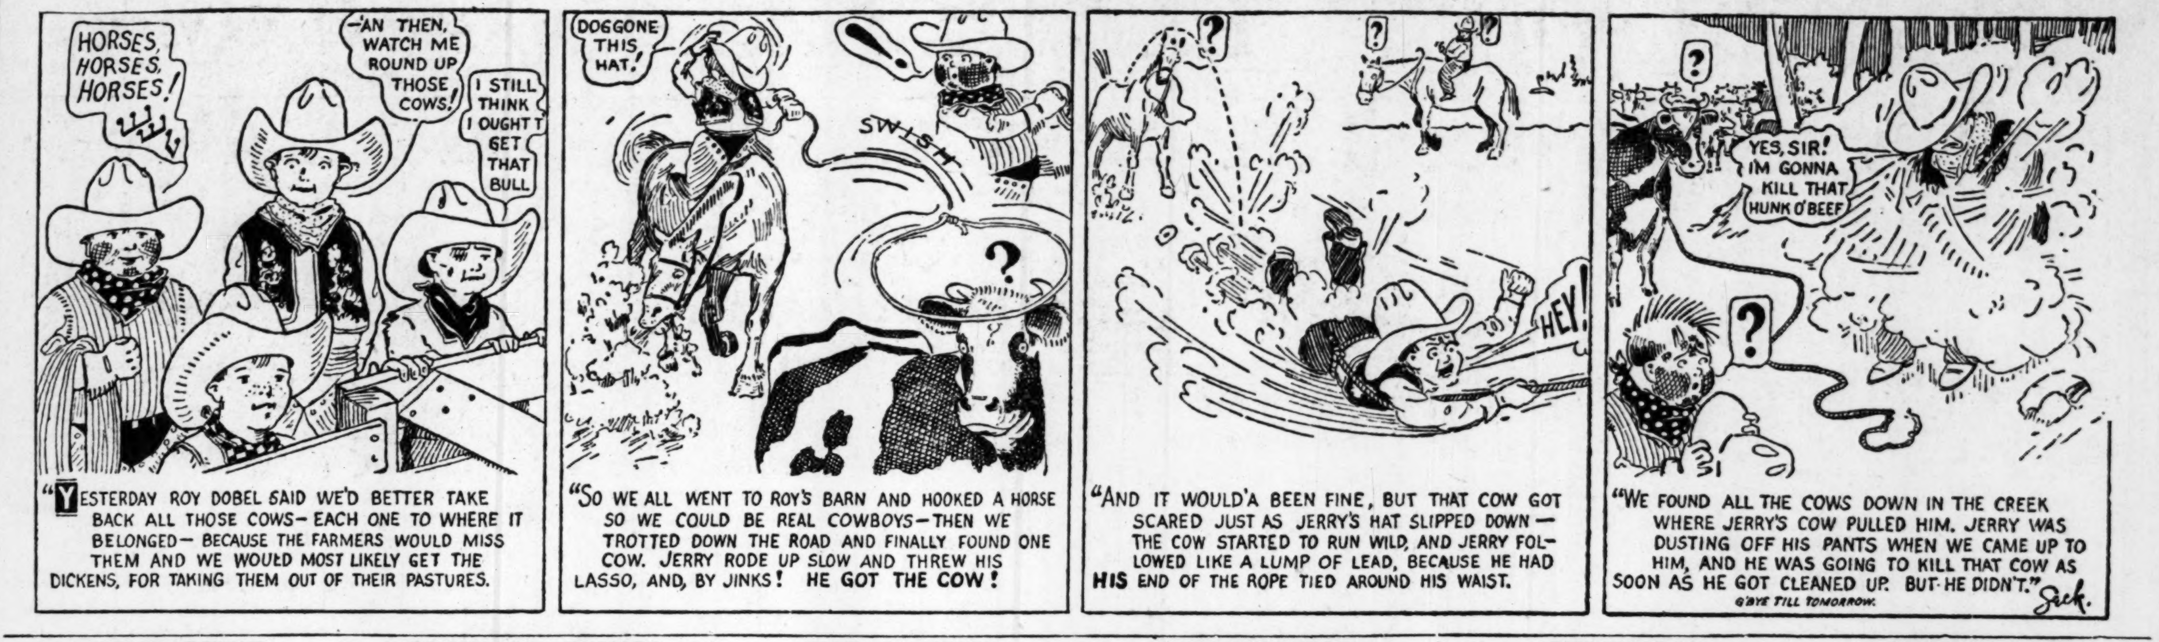
OUR CLUB — By Seckatary Hawkins



HORSES, HORSES, HORSES!
-AN THEN, WATCH ME ROUND UP THOSE COWS!
I STILL THINK I OUGHT T GET THAT BULL
SWISH
YES, SIR! I'M GONNA KILL THAT HUNK O'BEEF
HEY!
G'BYE TILL TOMORROW.
Seck.

"YESTERDAY ROY DOBEL SAID WE'D BETTER TAKE BACK ALL THOSE COWS—EACH ONE TO WHERE IT BELONGED—BECAUSE THE FARMERS WOULD MISS THEM AND WE WOULD MOST LIKELY GET THE DICKENS, FOR TAKING THEM OUT OF THEIR PASTURES.

"SO WE ALL WENT TO ROY'S BARN AND HOOKED A HORSE SO WE COULD BE REAL COWBOYS—THEN WE TROTTED DOWN THE ROAD AND FINALLY FOUND ONE COW. JERRY RODE UP SLOW AND THREW HIS LASSO, AND, BY JINKS! HE GOT THE COW!

"AND IT WOULD'A BEEN FINE, BUT THAT COW GOT SCARED JUST AS JERRY'S HAT SLIPPED DOWN—THE COW STARTED TO RUN WILD, AND JERRY FOLLOWED LIKE A LUMP OF LEAD, BECAUSE HE HAD HIS END OF THE ROPE TIED AROUND HIS WAIST.

"WE FOUND ALL THE COWS DOWN IN THE CREEK WHERE JERRY'S COW PULLED HIM. JERRY WAS DUSTING OFF HIS PANTS WHEN WE CAME UP TO HIM, AND HE WAS GOING TO KILL THAT COW AS SOON AS HE GOT CLEANED UP. BUT HE DIDN'T."

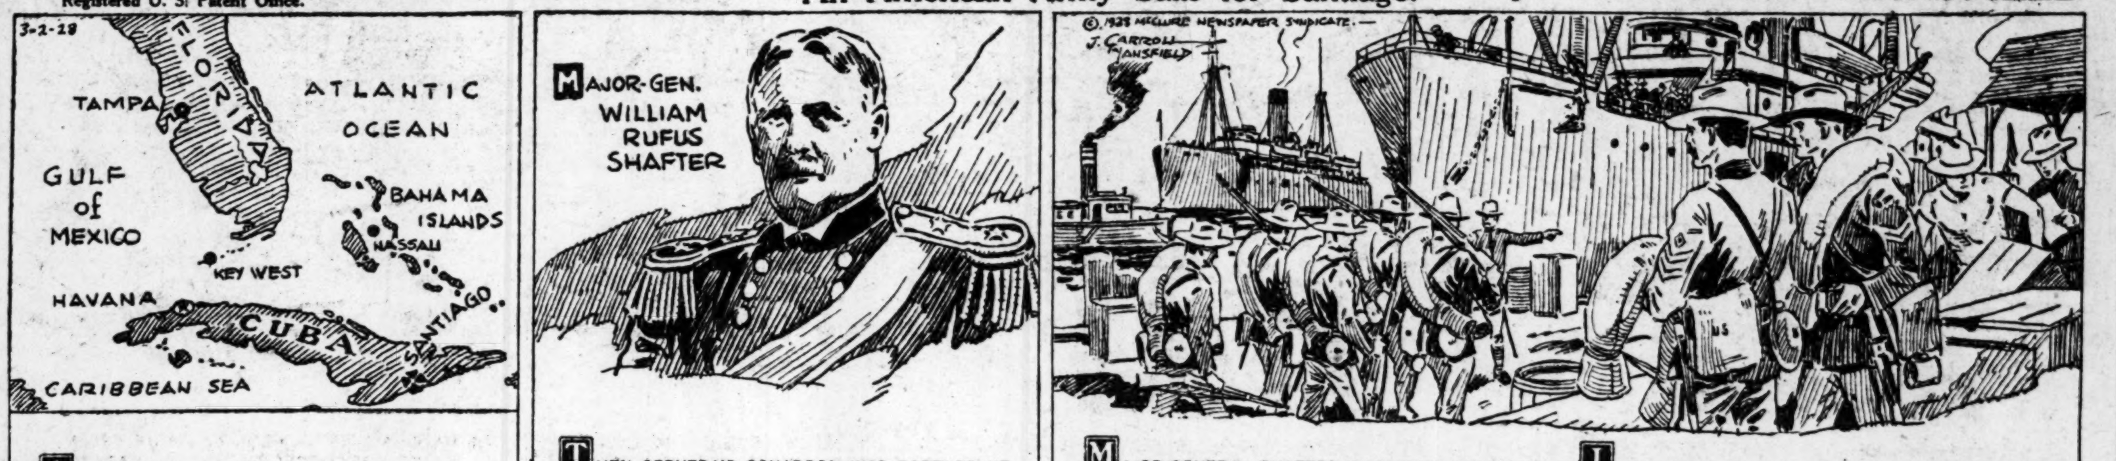
The Story of Our War With Spain. An American Army Sails for Santiago.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



AT THE OUTBREAK OF THE WAR WITH SPAIN THE UNITED STATES WAR DEPARTMENT HAD PLANNED AN ATTACK ON HAVANA, AND A FORCE OF REGULARS WAS GATHERED AT TAMPA, FLORIDA, IN READINESS FOR ORDERS TO EMBARK FOR CUBA.

THEN CERVERA'S SQUADRON WAS BOTTLED UP IN SANTIAGO HARBOR BY THE AMERICAN FLEET, AND SAMPSON'S CALL FOR AN ARMY TO COOPERATE IN THE CAPTURE OF SANTIAGO SHIFTED THE SCENE OF MILITARY OPERATIONS TO THE EAST COAST OF CUBA.

MAJOR-GENERAL SHAFTER WAS GIVEN COMMAND OF AN AMERICAN "ARMY OF INVASION" WHICH SAILED FOR SANTIAGO UNDER CONVOY OF WARSHIPS ON JUNE 14, 1898. THIS ARMY NUMBERED 16,887 MEN, AND WAS MADE UP OF REGULARS AND A FEW REGIMENTS OF VOLUNTEERS.

IT CONSISTED OF TWO DIVISIONS OF INFANTRY UNDED BRIGADIER GENERALS LAWTON AND KENT. A DIVISION OF CAVALRY COMMANDED BY MAJOR-GENERAL JOSEPH WHEELER, FOUR BATTERIES OF LIGHT AND TWO OF HEAVY ARTILLERY

HOOVER ELECTION SEEN BIG VICTORY BY DRYS

Prohibition Was Leading Issue, Says Mrs. Boole, at Boston.

Boston, November 15.—(AP)—The election of Herbert Hoover as president was termed "a great victory" by Mrs. Ella Alexander Boole in her address as president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union at the opening session of its fifty-fourth convention in Tremont temple tonight.

"There were many issues," she said, "but prohibition ranked first with women and their interest in this cause resulted in greatly increased registration and in interest in the election. There has never been a presidential campaign in which women have taken so active a part. The slogan 'principle above party' rallied the women of the nation.

"The people of America have proven they are loyal to their constitution. They do not want it changed. . . .

"We still believe prohibition is the best method of dealing with the liquor traffic. We appeal to the American public to give it a chance by obeying the law voluntarily. We appeal to the press for loyalty to the constitution and editorial support of this method adopted after long years of education and by the orderly processes of government.

U. S. WILL NOT DROP FALL AND DOHENY CHARGE

Washington, November 15.—(AP)—After conferring with President Coolidge today, Atlee Pomerene, special government oil counsel, said there was no intention of dropping the bribery charges against former Secretary Fall and E. L. Doheny for their transaction in the Elk Hills naval reserve.

Mr. Pomerene said the matter of bringing Fall to trial here depended largely upon the latter's health. Pomerene refused to reply to a question as to whether he contemplated trying Doheny and Fall separately in case the former secretary's health should indefinitely postpone the trial. He admitted, however, that separate indictments might be sought.

Fall and Doheny have been acquitted of a conspiracy charge growing out of the oil scandals. Harry F. Sinclair, with whom Fall was also indicted, was acquitted by a jury. Fall still faces the charge from which Sinclair was freed.

ENGLAND WANTS NO ADVICE FROM U. S., SAYS BRITISH PEER

London, November 15.—(AP)—The Earl of Birkenhead, wh recently resigned as secretary of state for India, believes that in President Coolidge's Armistice day speech there is "a spirit of patronage and a capacity for giving advice to Europe and to England."

"As far as England is concerned," the earl said at a complimentary dinner tendered him, "I am not sure that we specially require it. We have not asked the United States, as far as I am aware, to do anything for us."

The American entrance into the war, he said, was not due to any desire to assist the allies. It was solely because American nationals were being murdered by German submarines. He added:

"My answer to the president of the United States would be that we ask nothing from them except good will. When we discuss questions of naval construction, we do not specially invite lectures as to whether we are pacific or not in our purpose."

House Campaign Fund Committee To Quiz Texas Expenditures

Washington, November 15.—(AP)—The house campaign funds committee will leave for Texas Friday, November 23, to investigate campaign expenditures in the southern part of the state, particularly in the fifteenth congressional district, which has been represented in the house for 20 years by John Garner, a democratic stalwart.

The committee, in making its decision by unanimous vote, also mentioned the county of Hildago, Texas, as one of the places in which it would inquire into campaign activities.

The motion that the committee visit Texas was made by Representative Nelson, republican, Maine. By a party vote of 3 to 1, the committee also adopted a resolution to request the house to extend its authority to investigate until March 1, next. This proposal was supported by Chairman Lehlbach, of New Jersey; Chindblom, Illinois, and Nelson, all republicans. Representative Black, democrat, New York, voted no, while the other democratic member, Representative Ragon, of Arkansas, was absent.

The committee will go to Texas by way of St. Louis.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC MEET IS AGAIN HIT BY POPE

Fascist Scheme To Hold Feminine Athletic Tourney Strikes Snag.

Rome, November 15.—(AP)—The pope's opposition to public athletic competition by girls was reiterated today in the leading editorial published in Osservatore Romano. The newspaper, which is used by the vatican to make its public announcements, found occasion for reviving the subject in the fascist scheme to hold another athletic meet for girls and young women in Rome next spring.

There had been opposition to the rifle shooting event in the 1928 games and this has been met by substituting an archery contest. Despite this change, Observatore Romano said that the games "will repeat the offense to sense and the Christian customs of our civilization."

The newspaper answers a fascist argument that such games are a revival of old Roman customs by remarking that Romans never admitted women to their stadia, armed or unarmed. It adds that if any example of women's contests are to be found in ancient times one must go back to Greece and to the most corrupt of Greek cities.

The editorial hints that the proposal to hold games in 1929 aroused considerable opposition in the October 30 meeting of the council of ministers. It cites the letter which Pope Pius sent to Cardinal Pompila, vicar general of the Roman diocese, last May, and adds:

"If the fascist state desires to be Catholic, as it has many times proclaimed, it should hearken to the admonition of the pontiff."

The papal letter declared that the games were contrary to the spirit of womanhood. The competition was especially disagreeable, the pope said, because it came in the month of May, which is dedicated to the blessed virgin.

BIRMINGHAM PLANT BLAZE CAUSES DAMAGE OF $50,000

Birmingham, Ala., November 15.—(AP)—Fire partly destroyed the Cruse-Crawford manufacturing plant here today causing damage estimated at approximately $50,000.

Sparks from trash being burned in an alley are believed to have set the plant ablaze, H. F. Cleveland, general manager who estimated the loss from the fire, stated.

More than 100,000 feet of lumber and a large part of the plant's equipment and machinery was consumed by the fire. The loss was covered by insurance, Cleveland said.

HAULING LIQUOR BRINGS $250 FINE IN MACON COURT

Macon, Ga., November 15.—(AP)—T. E. Foley was fined $250 in federal court here today when he pleaded guilty to transporting whiskey. Foley was arrested with Frank Woodland, of Cleveland, Ohio, alleged member of a group said to be engaged in transporting whiskey to northern points from Florida.

Woodland, also charged with transporting whisky, told the court he accepted responsibility for having the liquor, and said Foley did not know the whiskey was in their automobile. Woodland's case has been continued until the next term of court.

MECHANIC KILLED AT CHATTANOOGA; SLAYER ESCAPES

Chattanooga, Tenn., November 15.(AP)—A man described by his wife as John Rainwater, mechanic, of Knoxville, was shot to death this morning about 1 o'clock in the office of the Chattanooga garage. Mrs. Rainwater declared that Ed Price, proprietor of an East Main street pool hall, with whom she and her husband and her husband's sister, Mrs. Olive Thompson, had been drinking during the evening, killed her husband.

Employees at the garage said that the shooting happened so quickly that they could give no account of it. Two men and two women entered the office, they said, and asked to use the telephone. One man advanced to the phone and the other started firing at him, according to the garage employees. The man who did the shooting then left the garage, took a taxicab and directed the driver to take him home.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

RUSTY FINDS A COMFORTABLE BED.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Keep at it and you'll surely find
The thing on which you've set your
—Rusty the Fox Squirrel.

Still Rusty the Fox Squirrel journeyed on. He had many adventures, but the life of any of the little folks of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest is very largely made up of adventures. They have them every day. So at last Rusty came to a country where the nut crop had not failed. It was many, many miles from Farmer Brown's and Rusty had been very many days making the journey. But as he feasted on hickory nuts, beechnuts and acorns, he decided that the journey had been worth while.

"Now," said he, talking to himself, for he had no one else to talk to, "I must find a place to live. At least, I must find a comfortable bed. I think I shall stay here. This looks to me like a very good land. I imagine there are some very nice people living hereabouts. I hope I shall find as nice neighbors as I left back in the Green Forest by Farmer Brown's."

Having eaten all the nuts he could hold, Rusty set about exploring in quest of a home. After a long search, he found a tree that was hollow and had a nice entrance fairly high from the ground. He first made quite certain that there was no one in that hollow tree. Then he ventured in. There was a bed of dry leaves. It wasn't much of a bed, but it was a bed. Rusty curled up on it. He didn't intend to remain long, because he first wanted to make sure that that didn't belong to anybody else. But his stomach was full and a full stomach makes one sleepy. Hardly had Rusty curled up when his eyes closed and he was asleep.

It was a very comfortable bed in spite of the fact that it was not very elaborate. Rusty began to dream and his dreams were very pleasant dreams. He dreamed that he found a woodland, every tree of which was a nut tree. Every tree was loaded with nuts. It seemed as if all the Squirrels in the world were there. But there was no quarreling, for there were nuts enough for all.

Now, that is the nicest kind of a dream that a Squirrel can have and Rusty was right in the midst of it, having the most wonderful time, when suddenly his eyes flew wide open and he was wide awake. There were no nuts to eat and no Squirrels. Instead, he was in a strange place. For a moment, he couldn't remember where he was.

Then it all came back to him suddenly. He knew something must have wakened him. His heart began to beat a little faster. He pricked up his ears and listened. There was the sound of claws on the outside of that tree. Could it be that it was the owner of this bed? Was it another Squirrel? Was it just some chance visitor? All these thoughts went through Rusty's head as he lay there listening.

He first made quite certain that there was no one in that hollow tree.

What to do! Should he remain hidden there, or should he rush out now? This house seemed like a deserted house. Certainly, there was no fresh odor to show that any one had been there recently.

"Probably it is just some one who has happened to climb this tree," thought Rusty. "If it is any one who doesn't own this nest, I've got just as much right to it as he has. I think I'll keep quiet. Perhaps I won't be discovered at all."

So Rusty remained perfectly still. But you may be sure that his ears were pricked up all the time. And you may be sure that he kept his eyes fast on the little round opening by which he had entered. So he lay there for some time and nothing happened, excepting that now and again he heard the sound of claws on the outside of the tree.

ROSETTA DUNCAN, AMERICAN DANCER, TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

London, November 15.—(AP)—Rosetta Duncan was taken to a hospital today after a sudden illness which followed the conclusion of a performance of "Topsy and Eva" at the Gaiety theater last night.

The strain of responsibility for the show which she and her sister, Vivian Duncan, are producing is said to have brought her near to collapse and her physicians have ordered a period of complete rest.

The strain became apparent on Rosetta last night when she stopped the performance to protest to the orchestra for what she regarded as inattention and indifference.

In Memoriam.

In sacred memory of our son and brother, Paul.

And, oh! how we miss you.
